FBI Identifies Accused Cop Killer As Skyjacker

By ALAN AREND
Staff Writer

SOUTH HAVEN — The accused slayer of South Haven Patrolman Michael McAllister has been definitely identified as an ex-convict hunted for years by the FBI as an airline skyjacker.

The suspect, Richard Frederick Dixon, 35, of Detroit, demanded examination when arraigned yesterday in 57th district court, Allegan, and was ordered held without bond on the first degree murder charge. A preliminary hearing was scheduled for Jan. 21.

Hours after McAllister died, the FBI determined the man in custody was sought in a 1971 skyjacking from Detroit to Havana. The FBI reported after it identified Dixon that it had believed he was still in Cuba. There was no indication why Dixon was on the outskirts of South Haven on foot in a snowstorm when the shooting occurred. Authorities said they do not believe Dixon has relatives in the area.

The FBI said Dixon is under indictment in the Oct. 9, 1971 hijacking to Cuba of an Eastern Airlines 727 jet.

That skyjacking occurred when a passenger drew a pistol while being questioned by an airline employee as he waited to board the flight.

The gunman dashed aboard, ordered the plane's door closed and took control of the aircraft by holding his weapon at the head of a stewardess. The plane, its crew and 33 passengers returned from Havana to Miami the same day the skyjacking occurred.

Dixon was identified at the time by Sheriff William Lucas of Wayne county as having been paroled from a federal prison less than two months before the skyjacking. He had served five years for theft from a St. Clair, Mich., credit union.

According to area police, McAllister was shot once in the chest and once in the stomach about 2:45 a.m., Friday, as he tried to search a man he had stopped for questioning about reports of shots fired about a quarter-mile north of the South Haven city limits in Allegan county's Casco township.

Ironically, McAllister was without the bullet-proof vest he usually wore on patrol. The man who gunned down McAllister apparently tried to shoot a backup officer, Lt. Larry Bild of the South Haven police, but the clip in his handgun fell to the ground and he fled on foot, police reported.

Police involved in hunting the gunman were able to track his footprints through newly fallen snow.

Within an hour, Dixon was arrested hiding in a basement of an auto dealer's home, William Decker, of South Haven, about a quarter-mile from the shooting scene, police said. Authorities said the Decker family knew nothing about why their home had been chosen as a hideout.

State police at South Haven said the home has an outside entrance to its basement and the entrance was unlocked.

Funeral arrangements for Patrolman McAllister were incomplete this morning at Robbins Brothers funeral home, Benton Harbor. He is survived by his wife, Estelle, two children and three step-children. Other relatives also reside in Benton Harbor.

Dowagiac Collector Is Out $300,000

By STEVE SAGER
Staff Writer

A 47-year-old rural Dowagiac man is offering a $10,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of thieves who made off with his $300,000 antique collection that he was exhibiting in Atlanta, Ga.

Robert Hartsell, Dewey Lake, Silver Creek township, said thieves entered his room at the Holiday Inn in downtown Atlanta while he was away and took the keys to a truck which contained the collector's items Thursday night.

In Atlanta today, Hartsell told this newspaper by phone that the burglars then drove off with the truck.

Hartsell, who is a professional antique collector, is in Atlanta attending the city's annual antique show at the Civic Center.

According to Hartsell, the antique items were not insured while he was on the road. He said they are partially insured when stored at his home.

Also taken from Hartsell's room were $700 in cash and a handgun. He said his poodle also in the room was not injured.

His room was reportedly entered between 4 p.m. and 6 p.m. Thursday while he was having dinner at the Holiday Inn. He discovered the truck missing about 7:30 p.m.

Hartsell has been in the antique collecting and selling business for 15 years and attends 40 antique exhibits a year nationwide. He said to his knowledge the theft of his collection was the biggest ever on the antique circuit.

He said the Atlanta exhibit was the 876th antique show he has participated in.

Among items included in the collection were an Imperial Hapsburg cup valued at $35,000, four cases of antique jewelry, oil

Student's Death Labeled Electrocution

FARMINGTON HILLS, Mich. (AP) — A 13-year-old student apparently was electrocuted Friday while using a metal grinder and extension cord in Farmington Hills junior high school. Robert Kourt and 38 other students were in a wood and metal shop class when he collapsed. He died an hour later at Botsford Hospital. The Oakland County medical examiner's office scheduled an autopsy for today but in the meantime listed the cause of death as "electrocution." Police were told that when Robert let out a cry of pain, a second student tried to shove him away from the grinder but received a shock himself.

The metal grinder and other equipment were seized by police who said, "The shop class is closed until further notice. We will take a look at it Monday."

School officials declined comment on the accident.

The youth was one of eight children of Wallace and Nancy Kourt of Farmington Hills. The father is a supervisor in the model department of Fisher Body Division at the GM Tech Center in Warren.

U.S. Takes Over Probe Of Chicago Train Crash

CHICAGO (AP) — Federal officials took over the investigation today of the crash of two Chicago rapid transit trains which injured more than 400 persons.

No one was killed in the rush-hour collision Friday morning, but 11 hospitals reported at least 61 persons admitted and three were listed in critical condition.

Meanwhile, the motorman of the train which plowed into the rear of another said he was blinded by the sun reflecting off snow.

Chicago Transit Authority spokesman Tom Buck said Friday night that motorman McKinley Ross, 35, automatically was suspended pending the outcome of the investigation.

Hubert H. Jewell Jr., a safety investigator for the National Transportation Safety Board, said Ross told him the sun reflected off the snow and blinded him until he was about 300 feet from the second train.

Ross said he was going about 30 to 35 miles per hour when he hit the emergency brakes on his four-car electric "B-train" after seeing a six-car "A-train" stopped at the Addison Street station on the city's Northwest Side.

An automatic safety system that should have kept the trains from colliding was not working on the second train. A CTA official said Ross' supervisor, John Gorman, had given permission to operate the train manually.

All 10 cars of the two trains were damaged and the lead car of the moving train and the rear car of the stationary one were telescoped at the point of impact, officials said.

The crash came without warning, passengers said. Workmen had to use acetylene torches to free some persons from the gnarled metal.

Police Sgt. Lawrence Schreiner, one of the first to arrive at the scene, said: "There were people trapped in the rear car of the first train. People were not screaming but there was blood and broken bones. I could see one lady who looked like her legs were completely crushed ..."

A passenger on the second train, Anne Dern, 52, said: "The train was crowded, many people

CASSOPOLIS — Cass county sheriff's detectives have arrested a 19-year-old South Bend, Ind., man in connection with the shooting of a St. Joseph man who was found lying wounded on a road near Sister Lakes Tuesday morning.

Lodged in the county jail here on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder is Ernest Lee Akright Jr., 19, of 1015 Cleveland street, South Bend. He was arrested around 5 p.m. in Cassopolis. Bond of $10,000 was set by district court Judge Steg Lignell, pending arraignment Monday. Cass Sheriff James Northrup said the arrest was the result of several days of extensive investigation by detectives.

Victim of the shooting, Raymond Lee Akright, 50, of 1356 Trebor road, St. Joseph township, was reported in stable condition this morning at Lee Memorial hospital, Dowagiac. He was found about 10 a.m. Tuesday, with a gunshot wound in his back and upper left chest. Sheriff Northrup said Akright was shot once in the back with a .38 caliber revolver and the bullet exited through his chest.

Akright was found by the driver of a Berrien county highway department truck on Dixon road in Silver Creek township, about one-quarter mile east of the Berrien-Cass county line. He had been shot in a wooded area about 150 feet from the road and had crawled to the road, leaving a trail in the snow.

Sheriff Northrup said Akright has claimed he remembers nothing about the shooting. Sheriff Northrup said his department's investigation shows that Akright and Joseph knew each other prior to the shooting.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Red China Loses Its No. 2 Man

Some Red China watchers characterize the world's second most powerful Communist nation as a country operating under youthful ideas created and applied by old men. The reference is to the hierarchy in the Peking government. Chairman Mao Tse-tung is 82 and physically ailing. Premier Chou En-lai died Thursday at 78 from the effects of cancer which first became detectable four years ago. Teng Hsiao-ping, the vice premier, is 71.

Facile though the description is, it expresses considerable truth. All three men are veterans from a movement started in the 1920s to place China in the Communist orbit. Of the three, Chou made the deepest and most lasting impression on the few foreign leaders having an acquaintance with their Chinese counterparts.

The present detente between Red China and the U.S., for example, was worked out mainly as the result of personal contact between Chou and Dr. Henry Kissinger and then President Richard Nixon in 1972. In his position as China's political and spiritual leader, Mao gave his blessing to normalizing relations between the two countries, but it was Chou who handled the procedure to put thoughts into action.

Other persons highly placed in world affairs are unanimous in depicting Chou as an intellectual having the rare gift of putting a theory to work.

Unlike most of the original Chinese leaders, Chou came from a bourgeois background.

Communism was not his first venture in fighting the establishment of his youth. During his student days he participated actively in an anti-Japanese movement in China and spent considerable time in jail for that effort. He turned to Communism a few years later because it appeared to be a more effective vehicle to eliminate what he considered a foreign and a domestic cloud hanging over his country.

Neither is he an original follower of Mao. Rather the two men in their early careers fought one another to control the party's apparatus and they differed philosophically on how to establish a power base for Communist. Chou favored the Russian appeal to the factory worker. Mao's theory of converting the agricultural present prevailed and is still the guiding premise in his teachings.

Chou survived that contest as does a wheat field bending before a wind storm. In similar fashion he outlasted the Red Guards purge of upper and middle management in the party's affairs during a tempestuous upheaval in 1965.

Similarly he convinced Mao that it is in Red China's long term interests to become a part of the world as contrasted to the total insularity which is the trademark of the hard line Communist.

What effect Chou's death will exert on China's future course is hard to say.

So far as is known to the outer world, there is no one in the Peking government to take the place in a physical sense of Mao as the country's inspiration.

Teng has been the occupant in fact of the work a day assignment of translating Mao's teachings into workable policies held by Chou since the latter's illness presented no other choice.

Specifically, the question reduces to whether China will quit its feud with Russia and turn its back on American detente.

Doak Barnett, a China expert with the Brookings Institute, probably gives the best estimate available at this time.

He sees no immediate shift in attitude, but cautions that Teng lacks Chou's deft style. The vice premier, he says, is "more of a tough party guy."

Barnett's somewhat cryptic comment can be read a number of ways. It could mean China would swing completely to Communism as an international article of faith.

It could also mean China for the Chinese just as the Kremlin exploits Communism in its Russia for the Russians approach.

Chou shook hands with Nixon and Kissinger to implement the latter interpretation.

Teng presumably would weigh cautiously the advantages the two pathways indicate for China before taking the final step.

The Non-Candidates Will Bear Watching

With a field of 12 announced and relatively active campaigners for the presidency, no one can say the circuit of primaries — opening in a few weeks in New Hampshire — will be dull. But outside of those who have elected to do battle in the primaries, the suggestion is being made increasingly that it is the non-participants who might bear watching.

Hubert Humphrey has been all but handed the nomination of his party, according to some pundits, although the senator from Minnesota says he has no plans to enter any of the primaries. Nelson Rockefeller, now that he has pulled himself out of consideration for the vice presidency — but not presidency, also is presumed to be in the running by some.

In case anyone thought Sen. Adlai Stevenson was about to take up presidential campaigning where his father left off, he has made his intentions plain enough. He will not be entering the 1976 contest, said the senator, because he finds the system precludes the presentation of new and innovation ideas.

"A candidacy today," Stevenson complained, "triggers a thousand skirmishes, a welter of endless, draining detail. It plunges (the candidate) into a morass of unintelligible regulations and dervish-like activity, all largely beyond his control and comprehension."

Ted Kennedy's mother Rose said this past weekend she fears her U.S. Senator son from Massachusetts will break his promise to her not to run for the Presidency. He said no, he'll keep his promise. But he's one non-candidate who really bears watching, the most popular Democrat of all.

Presumably there will be other statements of non-candidacy as the weeks roll on, but it is unlikely any others who would like to be in the running will decline on grounds campaigning for the top office has become too much bother.

CLAIMS KENNEDY DID WORSE THINGS

Editor,

So there are some people who didn't like the editor's comment about John Kennedy in the Dec. 29 paper. The comment was very humorous.

Why fuss about Kennedy having wild, sexy broods. If it is true, it is one of the least immoral things he did while President. The worst thing he did was to send American soldiers to Viet Nam, supposedly to fight communism. If any idiot thinks that wasn't an immoral act, they should ask the families and friends of servicemen who were killed or wounded there. Almost equally as bad was all the welfare programs passed by Kennedy and his Democratic party. They promised to make a fool out of the working man by taking his hard earned money and giving it to low-down welfare skunks, something the Democratic Congress is still doing. The only thing that has prevented welfare skunks from completely dominating the working man is the fact that the last two Presidents have been Republicans: Kennedy and his Democratic Congress also encouraged union leaders to brainwash members into striking, picketing and rioting, resulting in lost wages, lost jobs, and injuries. They called these benefits.

Joanne Smith is in a deep sleep by thinking comments on Kennedy's extra curricular sex activities will hurt his reputation. It was hurt a long time ago. The liberal news media has taken Joanne fishing and she swallowed hook, line, sinker and pole. They didn't tell her that Americans dying in Viet Nam was immoral and that welfare is immoral. So how was Joanne to know? She even sounds as if she thinks spying on Democratic party headquarters is immoral. If everyone was as glib as Joanne, the news media would have an easy life.

STUDENT WANTS END TO POLLUTION

Editor,

Anyone just becoming acquainted with the distressing environmental picture of this world, country and in particular, this community would be amazed of the idiosyncrasies of our men in government.

With the growing and needed movement towards protecting our woods and wildlife, cleaning our air and water and to stop burying our land under concrete, why does government say that they do care, but turn around and do the opposite? I'm talking about the proposed penetrator through our backyards. Is this really necessary? Do we need more cars, causing more and harder congested traffic jams? Do we really need more industry putting more garbage into our air and water? We have a beautiful lake and nice woods scattered around, must these fall to progress?

I would like to see this community take a step the other way, clean up our shoreline and improve our environment, before it's too late!

Southwestern Michigan is basically agriculture and tourist oriented, let's improve on that instead of destroying it.

Since the penetrator is supposed to be for the good of the community and the community is the people, I can't see any reason why the people shouldn't decide on it, instead of the money hungry men who run this town.

We, the people, have to act now against this onslaught of pollution, which only ends in our end.

The Anonymous Decision Makers

WASHINGTON — Most Senate and House bills are written by staff assistants. The important details are all too frequently known only to themselves and other staffers, who advise their bosses how to vote.

No member has the time to research, write or frequently even to study his own bills, let alone those of others.

Even if they had the will, which most Congressmen don't, they couldn't possibly read, digest and analyze the data necessary to make intelligent decisions on the thousands of measures presented each session.

The average senator, belongs to 16 committees and subcommittees. It is not unusual to see these committees meet with two, three or four legislators present. The Senate and House floors are largely empty most of the time as most bills are being debated. Some measures pass, or are radically amended with a handful of members present.

Congress is thus, in a very real sense, run by its staff assistants. And here is the rub. The public doesn't know who these men are. We don't know their conflicts of interest, their personal biases, their connections, their abilities or weaknesses. They remain largely hidden behind their committee chairman or the individual senator or representative they serve. We don't regularly see them on television and we get no chance to vote on them.

Though the committee staffers write some very influential reports, these are not normally researched for accuracy by the lawmakers under whose name they appear. Neither the members of Congress nor the public usually know how sound or how frivolous the data is on which conclusions are reached in staff studies.

We hear reports from time to time on the power of the bureaucracy in the executive branch of the federal government — how in some considerable measure these men and women are a government unto themselves.

The situation in the Senate and House is worse.

For sizable numbers, staff jobs on Capitol Hill are a lifetime career. If the member they work for retires, or fails of reelection, they move on to a new boss or to a committee staff position.

Once head of a committee staff they gain, by default, awesome power over what laws are written. An acquaintance in one such slot recently turned down an offer to head one of the major independent agencies of this government. He did so in large measure, he told me, because it would have meant a step down in actual influence, though a sizable step upward on paper.

Among these staffers there are men and women like my friend with super backgrounds and ability which would qualify them for high-level posts in government or private life. But a good many of these assistants have little experience in the world they legislate for. A hefty percentage have such limited backgrounds they must deal in theories and goals; they are frequently unaware of the effects that seemingly minor requirements in the bills they write can have on our lives, our incomes and our jobs.

A random study of the biographies of dozens of staff assistants indicates that many have moved from the academic world or military service, to Congress with a number of years sandwiched between in one rather low ranking job or another.

The above paragraphs clarify recent findings that excessive Senate and House time is spent writing new bills to correct bumbles in laws passed a year or more previously.

Don't Bad Mouth South Africa

It is high time to say a few unfashionable, bark-off things about South Africa.

In connection with the current Angolan fighting, we hear a great deal about how "embarrassing" it is to find ourselves associated with South Africa on the anti-Soviet side. We hear it routinely asserted by liberal Senators and other such fauna that South Africa is a moral leper, a pariah state, universally condemned, etc., etc.

Yet, frankly, would it not be a most welcome event if the South African troops smashed Castro's Cuban expeditionary force and paraded their Soviet equipment, captured, through the streets of Johannesburg? Would that not be, by any conceivable measure, a plus for the West and for civilization?

It seems to me that it would be a good idea to dust off and get used to employing an obvious but valuable distinction — the one between civilization and barbarism. During the 19th century, when the European empires spread over much of the globe, the pleasant illusion was created that civilization was advancing, barbarism in retreat. Just how great an illusion that was is now becoming manifest.

Suppose, then, that the oft-pronounced wishes of the World Council of Churches, the wishes indeed of the New York Times and possibly even of a majority of U.S. Senators, were somehow granted tomorrow. Suppose that somehow power were transferred to the black African majority in South Africa. Does anyone at all doubt that South Africa would immediately become another Third World mess, like all the others? — not, may I add, because the black South Africans are "racially inferior," but because, like practically all of the Third World, they have not in the mass absorbed the traditions of civilization.

Yes, of course I know that

South Africa subjects its African majority to a variety of oppressive regulations. Racial equality does not prevail. But is that the single criterion and sole value by which one judges a nation? Today, flawed though we may consider it, South Africa is a Western nation. Oppressive, yes, but also recognizably civilized in a variety of ways. In its foreign policy, South Africa is Western-oriented. Its strategic naval facilities at Simonstown are available for Western use, and in the near future they very likely will be vital to the U.S. strategic position in the South Atlantic and the Indian Ocean. We have good commercial relations with South Africa and access to its enormous mineral resources.

But if South Africa became another Third World mishmash all this would change. Some barbarian emperor or some Marxist - out - of - the - bush would be holding sway. The place would be swarming with Russians and Chinese. You could forget about the naval base and the mineral resources. Today's South Africa would look like a paradise of civil liberties by comparison.

Red China Loses Its No. 2 Man

Some Red China watchers characterize the world's second most powerful Communist nation as a country operating under youthful ideas created and applied by old men.

The reference is to the hierarchy in the Peking government. Chairman Mao Tse-tung is 82 and physically ailing. Premier Chou En-lai died Thursday at 78 from the effects of cancer which first became detectable four years ago. Teng Hsiao-ping, the vice premier, is 71.

Facile though the description is, it expresses considerable truth. All three men are veterans from a movement started in the 1920s to place China in the Communist orbit.

Of the three, Chou made the deepest and most lasting impression on the few foreign leaders having an acquaintance with their Chinese counterparts.

The present detente between Red China and the U.S., for example, was worked out mainly as the result of personal contact between Chou and Dr. Henry Kissinger and then President Richard Nixon in 1972. In his position as China's political and spiritual leader, Mao gave his blessing to normalizing relations between the two countries, but it was Chou who handled the procedure to put thoughts into action.

Other persons highly placed in world affairs are unanimous in depicting Chou as an intellectual having the rare gift of putting a theory to work.

Unlike most of the original Chinese leaders, Chou came from a bourgeois background.

Communism was not his first venture in fighting the establishment of his youth. During his student days he participated actively in an anti-Japanese movement in China and spent considerable time in jail for that effort. He turned to Communism a few years later because it appeared to be a more effective vehicle to eliminate what he considered a foreign and a domestic cloud hanging over his country.

Neither is he an original follower of Mao. Rather the two men in their early careers fought one another to control the party's apparatus and they differed philosophically on how to establish a power base for Communist. Chou favored the Russian appeal to the factory worker. Mao's theory of converting the agricultural present prevailed and is still the guiding premise in his teachings.

Chou survived that contest as does a wheat field bending before a wind storm. In similar fashion he outlasted the Red Guards purge of upper and middle management in the party's affairs during a tempestuous upheaval in 1965.

Similarly he convinced Mao that it is in Red China's long term interests to become a part of the world as contrasted to the total insularity which is the trademark of the hard line Communist.

What effect Chou's death will exert on China's future course is hard to say.

So far as is known to the outer world, there is no one in the Peking government to take the place in a physical sense of Mao as the country's inspiration.

Teng has been the occupant in fact of the work a day assignment of translating Mao's teachings into workable policies held by Chou since the latter's illness presented no other choice.

Specifically, the question reduces to whether China will quit its feud with Russia and turn its back on American detente.

Doak Barnett, a China expert with the Brookings Institute, probably gives the best estimate available at this time.

He sees no immediate shift in attitude, but cautions that Teng lacks Chou's deft style. The vice premier, he says, is "more of a tough party guy."

Barnett's somewhat cryptic comment can be read a number of ways.

It could mean China would swing completely to Communism as an international article of faith.

It could also mean China for the Chinese just as the Kremlin exploits Communism in its Russia for the Russians approach.

Chou shook hands with Nixon and Kissinger to implement the latter interpretation.

CLAIMS KENNEDY DID WORSE THINGS

Editor,
So there are some people who didn't like the editor's comment about John Kennedy in the Dec. 29 paper. The comment was very humorous.

Why fuss about Kennedy having wild, sexy broads. If it is true, it is one of the least immoral things he did while President. The worst thing he did was to send American soldiers to Viet Nam, supposedly to fight communism. If any idiot thinks that wasn't an immoral act, they should ask the families and friends of servicemen who were killed or wounded there. Almost equally as bad was all the welfare programs passed by Kennedy and his Democratic party. They promised to make a fool out of the working man by taking his hard earned money and giving it to low-down welfare skunks, something the Democratic Congress is still doing. The only thing that has prevented welfare skunks from completely dominating the working man is the fact that the last two Presidents have been Republicans. Kennedy and his Democratic Congress also encouraged union leaders to brainwash members into striking, picketing and rioting, resulting in lost wages, lost jobs, and injuries. They called these benefits.

Joanne Smith is in a deep sleep by thinking comments on Kennedy's extra curricular sex activities will hurt his reputation. It was hurt a long time ago. The liberal news media has taken Joanne fishing and she swallowed hook, line, sinker and pole. They didn't tell her that Americans dying in Viet Nam was immoral and that welfare is immoral. So how was Joanne to know? She even sounds as if she thinks spying on Democratic party headquarters is immoral. If everyone was as gullible as Joanne, the news media would have an easy life.

STUDENT WANTS END TO POLLUTION

Editor,
Anyone just becoming acquainted with the distressing environmental picture of this world, country and in particular, this community would be amazed of the idiosyncrasies of our men in government.

With the growing and needed movement towards protecting our woods and wildlife, cleaning our air and water and to stop burying our land under concrete, why does government say that they care, but turn around and do the opposite? I'm talking about the proposed penetrator through our backyards. Is this really necessary? Do we need more cars, causing more and harder congested traffic jams? Do we really need more industry putting more garbage into our air and water? We have a beautiful lake and nice woods scattered around, must these fall to progress?

I would like to see this community take a step the other way, clean up our shoreline and improve our environment, before it's too late! Southwestern Michigan is basically agriculture and tourist oriented, let's improve on that instead of destroying it. Since the penetrator is supposed to be for the good of the community and the community is the people, I can't see any reason why the people shouldn't decide on it, instead of the money hungry men who run this town.

We, the people, have to act now against this onslaught of pollution, which only ends in our end.

The Non-Candidates Will Bear Watching

With a field of 12 announced and relatively active campaigners for the presidency, no one can say the circuit of primaries — opening in a few weeks in New Hampshire — will be dull. But outside of those who have elected to do battle in the primaries, the suggestion is being made increasingly that it is the non-participants who might bear watching. Hubert Humphrey has been all but handed the nomination of his party, according to some pundits, although the senator from Minnesota says he has no plans to enter any of the primaries. Nelson Rockefeller, now that he has pulled himself out of consideration for the vice presidency — but not presidency, also is presumed to be in the running by some.

In case anyone thought Sen. Adlai Stevenson was about to take up presidential campaigning where his father left off, he has made his intentions plain enough. He will not be entering the 1976 contest, said the senator, because he finds the system precludes the presentation of new and innovation ideas.

"A candidacy today," Stevenson complained, "triggers a thousand skirmishes, a welter of endless, draining detail. It plunges (the candidate) into a morass of unintelligible regulations and dervish-like activity, all largely beyond his control and comprehension."

Ted Kennedy's mother Rose said this past weekend she fears her U.S. Senator son from Massachusetts will break his promise to her not to run for the Presidency. He said no, he'll keep his promise. But he's one non-candidate who really bears watching, the most popular Democrat of all.

Berrien's No. 2 In Dysentery-Like Disease

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

Berrien county in 1975 was second only to the City of Detroit in the number of reported cases of Shigellosis, a dysentery-type disease, and county health officials fear the disease could reach epidemic proportions by summer.

Shigellosis is a contagious disease transmitted because of poor sanitation and poor personal hygiene, and has hit hardest the Benton Harbor-Benton township area.

Statistics released by the Michigan Department of Public Health show Berrien county had 81 cases of Shigellosis last year, second to Detroit's 362. But Michael Wood, health educator with the county health department, noted on a per capita basis Berrien has the highest rate in the state.

Joan Eberly, director of nursing programs for Berrien's health department, said all but 15 of Berrien's 81 cases were in Benton Harbor and Benton township, and most of the 15 who were afflicted had some contact with the city in the form of friends or relatives who live there.

The disease, health officials explained, is spread when infected human feces come in contact with food or objects that are put in the mouth. It can only be transmitted through oral ingestion.

Although Shigellosis can be cured with an inoculation once a person has it, the health department will attack the disease with education.

Jerome A. Erickson, acting health department director, said a pamphlet is being prepared for distribution to the public which will focus on how Shigellosis is spread, treatment, and, most importantly, how it can be prevented.

Erickson said distribution of the pamphlet should begin by the end of the month, and will be available at the health department, at 700 Pipestone street, Benton Harbor, as well as at other offices for public agencies and by distribution by various organizations.

Wood also said a health week is being planned for schools in Benton Harbor, and part of the program will include sending one of the pamphlets home with every child.

Judy Storfjell, public health nursing supervisor, noted: "The disease is being passed from person to person, that's why we've decided to attack it with education."

Dr. Richard Hirschler, acting medical director for Berrien, said people can have Shigellosis without being sick, but more often it causes diarrhea, fever, vomiting, and cramps. Erickson noted that many people may not seek treatment because they associate the symptoms with influenza.

Health officials urged people having similar symptoms to contact a doctor.

While Shigellosis is rarely terminal, Mrs. Eberly noted: "It could very easily reach epidemic proportions in the spring if we don't stop it now."

Mrs. Storfjell explained that when the weather gets cold the incidence of the disease usually drops off, "but it really hasn't slowed down like it should." Erickson labeled the rate "abnormally high."

Erickson said the county health department, along with the state health department and physicians are trying to identify the source but so far have been unsuccessful. Water samples from creeks in

Benton Harbor are still being checked and are one of the prime areas being focused on, but administrators admit no common denominator has been discovered.

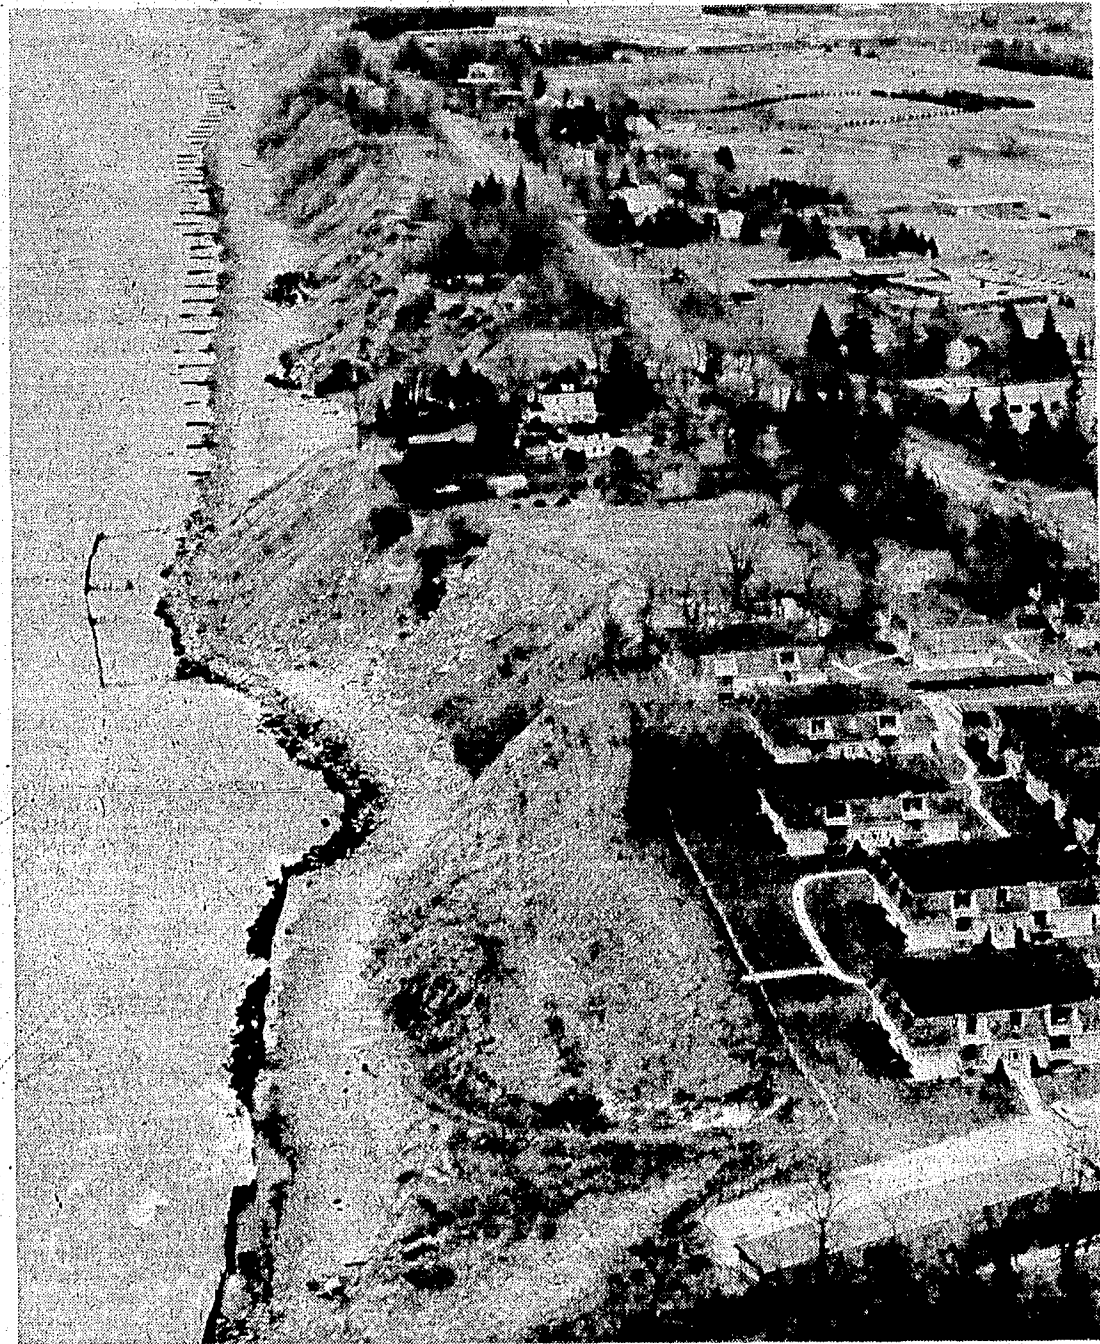

"There's no miracle answer," Erickson stressed, "everybody's got to do their part to end the outbreak."

Mrs. Eberly noted that of Berrien's 81 cases, 81 per cent were reported in youngsters under age 13, and of the 81 per cent, 63 per cent were children under age 4.

Health officials said the statistics are based only on reported instances, and have no idea how many cases are not reported to physicians. Doctors are required to report cases of Shigellosis.

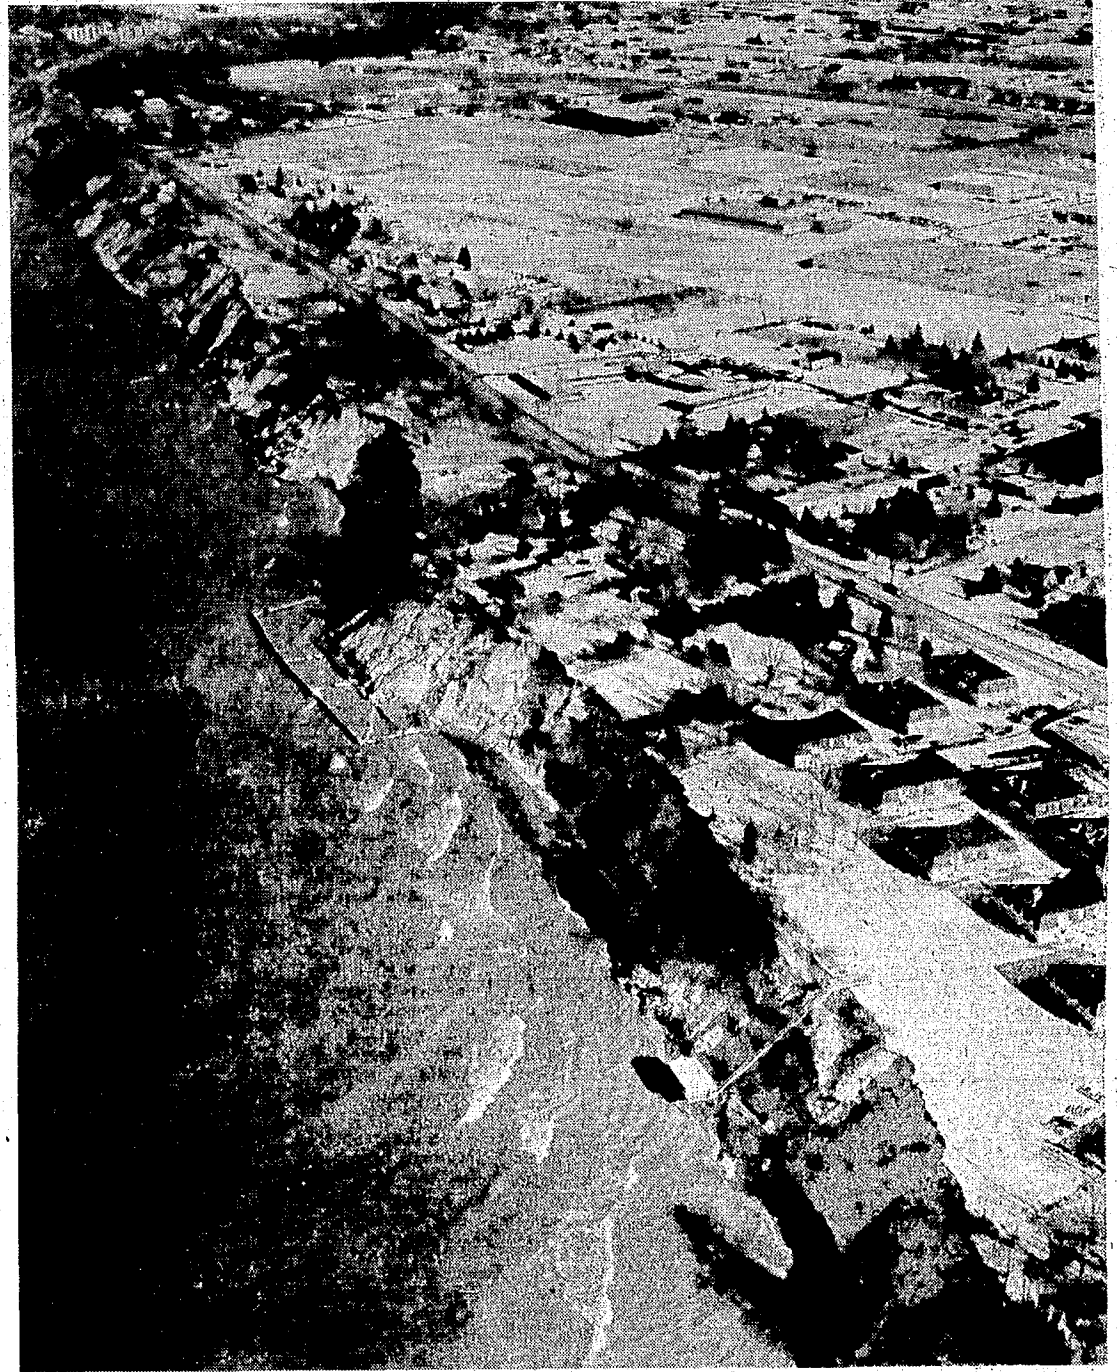

In its brochure, the health department concludes Shigellosis is being spread from infected persons to non-infected persons via feces-contaminated hands, food, or utensils.

The pamphlet urges people to take extra precautions by following strict personal hygiene habits such as washing hands after changing infants' diapers, after using the toilet, and especially before preparing food.

Berrien Court Is No. 1 In Criminal Cases

By NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

The criminal caseload in Berrien Fifth District court was the largest of any district court in the state last fiscal year, according to Presiding Judge John T. Hammond.

During an interview yesterday on the occasion of Judge

Hammond's election as presiding judge of district court for the fourth consecutive year, he quoted Michigan Supreme court figures.

The report covers only the $6 district courts in Michigan, not the 24 smaller municipal courts or Detroit Recorder's court.

Berrien's criminal caseload, which counts every case that was started, was 8,321. This includes offenses varying from swearing in public to murder.

For the same period, total number of cases begun (criminal, civil, small claims, traffic) was third highest in Michigan, Hammond said. That number, 61,221, was exceeded only by district courts in Grand Rapids and Flint.

The reason for Berrien's large criminal caseload is obvious, the judge said: "More crime, which leads to more police, which leads to more arrests, which leads to more cases in court."

Hammond said the population under the jurisdiction of Fifth District court — all of Berrien county — is "one of the larger one in the state but by no means the largest." And he pointed to the large number of police agencies — 50 — in the county.

In fiscal 1973, Berrien's criminal caseload was 7,345, second only to 37th district court in part of Macomb county. That court had 8,837 criminal cases.

The 61,221 cases begun here in fiscal 1974 were up 31 per cent from the previous year, he said. Statewide, district courts increased their business seven per cent in the same period and reached a total of 1,726,898 cases.

Berrien district court disposed of 58,846 cases in fiscal 1974. This is some 2,300 cases fewer than were started. Traffic cases accounted for about four-fifths of the cases begun during the year, Hammond stated.

Hammond, presiding judge since 1973, held the same position in 1969.

St. Joe Planners To Ask For Input

A special meeting of the St. Joseph planning commission will be held Jan. 22 to get citizen input prior to applying for $71,000 in second year funds under the Housing and Community Development act of 1974.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the commission chambers at city hall and is required before the city can apply to the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) for the funds.

According to City Assessor Dick Kiesel, community development coordinator for St. Joseph, about $71,000 will be available to the city under the act for the second year.

The city received $71,000 under the act last year. The money it is applying for this year is intended to continue programs started with the $71,000 obtained last year, according to Kiesel.

Kiesel said community development funds last year went mainly for:

- A study of the downtown area which the city contracted with Barton-Aschman Associates, Inc., to have done.
- A loan-direct grant program for housing repairs.
- To purchase and demolish substandard houses.

Benton Harbor Mayor Charles F. Joseph yesterday said he will present his views on the recommendations of the city's compensation commission, which include a $25,000 salary for Joseph, at Monday's city commission meeting.

Joseph, appearing on radio station WJLB's "Voice of the People" program, fielded questions from citizens and interviewers on topics including the compensation commission, non-renewal of the city manager's contract, the downtown business area, his travel expenses, and crime.

"I will have my position very clear by Monday night . . . and my comments on the recommendations by the compensation commission," Joseph said.

The commission recently recommended a $25,000 salary for Joseph, compared to his current $5 per meeting, plus a monthly expense allowance of $150, a budget of $4,500 yearly for conferences, seminars, and city-related travel, and $1,000 for memberships and subscriptions. City Atty. Yvonne Hughes this week issued an opinion that the compensation commission was illegally created and violated a city ordinance and the charter.

Asked if he would have voted for the $25,000 salary were he a member of the compensation commission, Joseph responded: "I don't know. I'm sure I would have had some tough times making up my mind."

Joseph explained the dismissal of former City Manager Charles Morrison on Dec. 29 was "not a firing" but a cancellation of Morrison's contract. He felt the commissioners who voted not to extend the contract had made their own observations in reaching their conclusions. Joseph was one of the five who voted not to renew the contract.

On his travel expenses, questioned at the last city commission meeting, Joseph said all the trips were made to benefit the city.

On crime and the lack of business in downtown Benton Harbor, the mayor felt crime was partly responsible for loss of faith in the downtown area. "Crime is a factor but is not a major determinant in business closings," he said. He stated businessmen have a "difficult" time getting loans approved for expansion, and felt local banks give a "low-priority" to loans for Benton Harbor businessmen.

A number of telephone callers complimented Joseph on the job he's done as mayor, including one woman who cited the "outstanding job" he's done, noting: "He should be commended."

Berrien's No. 2 In Dysentery-Like Disease

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

Berrien county in 1975 was second only to the City of Detroit in the number of reported cases of Shigellosis, a dysentery-type disease, and county health officials fear the disease could reach epidemic proportions by summer.

Shigellosis is a contagious disease transmitted because of poor sanitation and poor personal hygiene, and has hit hardest the Benton Harbor-Benton township area.

Statistics released by the Michigan Department of Public Health show Berrien county had 81 cases of Shigellosis last year, second to Detroit's 362. But Michael Wood, health educator with the county health department, noted on a per capita basis Berrien has the highest rate in the state.

Joan Eberly, director of nursing programs for Berrien's health department, said all but 15 of Berrien's 81 cases were in Benton Harbor and Benton township, and most of the 15 who were afflicted had some contact with the city in the form of friends or relatives who live there.

The disease, health officials explained, is spread when infected human feces come in contact with food or objects that are put in the mouth. It can only be transmitted through oral ingestion.

Although Shigellosis can be cured with an inoculation once a person has it, the health department will attack the disease with education.

Jerome A. Erickson, acting health department director, said a pamphlet is being prepared for distribution to the public which will focus on how Shigellosis is spread, treatment, and, most importantly, how it can be prevented.

Erickson said distribution of the pamphlet should begin by the end of the month, and will be available at the health department, at 769 Pipestone street, Benton Harbor, as well as at other offices for public agencies and by distribution by various organizations.

Wood also said a health week is being planned for schools in Benton Harbor, and part of the program will include sending one of the pamphlets home with every child.

Judy Storfjell, public health nursing supervisor, noted: "The disease is being passed from person to person, that's why we've decided to attack it with education."

Dr. Richard Hirschler, acting medical director for Berrien, said people can have Shigellosis without being sick, but more often it causes diarrhea, fever, vomiting, and cramps. Erickson noted that many people may not seek treatment because they associate the symptoms with influenza.

Health officials urged people having similar symptoms to contact a doctor.

While Shigellosis is rarely terminal, Mrs. Eberly noted: "It could very easily reach epidemic proportions in the spring if we don't stop it now."

Mrs. Storfjell explained that when the weather gets cold the incidence of the disease usually drops off, "but it really hasn't slowed down like it should." Erickson labeled the rate "abnormally high."

Erickson said the county health department, along with the state health department and physicians are trying to identify the source but so far have been unsuccessful. Water samples from creeks in

Benton Harbor are still being checked and are one of the prime areas being focused on, but administrators admit no common denominator has been discovered.

"There's no miracle answer," Erickson stressed, "everybody's got to do their part to end the outbreak."

Mrs. Eberly noted that of Berrien's 81 cases, 81 per cent were reported in youngsters under age 13, and of the 81 per cent, 63 per cent were children under age 4.

Health officials said the statistics are based only on reported instances, and have no idea how many cases are not reported to physicians. Doctors are required to report cases of Shigellosis.

In its brochure, the health department concludes Shigellosis is being spread from infected persons to non-infected persons via feces-contaminated hands, food, or utensils.

The pamphlet urges people to take extra precautions by following strict personal hygiene habits such as washing hands after changing infants' diapers, after using the toilet, and especially before preparing food.

'Great Principles Gathering Dust'

Minister Speaker For DAR

By MARYANNE BUTT Staff Writer

When the "cornerstone" of the United States was laid by its founders, it contained fundamental, spiritual principles which were considered vital to the establishment of a free nation.

"But," the Rev. Thomas D. Keizer told members of Algonquin Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, Jan. 8 at Whitcomb Tower, St. Joseph, "through the years those great principles of justice and freedom and happiness have collected a great deal of dust."

The Rev. Keizer, pastor of Fairplain Presbyterian church, speaking on "Religion and Morality — The Cornerstone of America," said those spiritual principles held by our forefathers were not the "foundation" of America, nor were they the "keystone" of America — they were the "cornerstone," and that is exactly what our religion and morality have become.

A cornerstone is important, he said, but it is unlike the foundation or the keystone. The building can stand without it.

In public buildings, the cornerstone is laid during a formal inauguration of the erection of the building, Rev. Keizer said.

Within a cornerstone are placed important mementos and documents of the time and they are then usually forgotten until the building is demolished. To our forefathers, religion and morality were very important, according to Rev. Keizer. Documents establishing our relationships to God were vital to the establishment of this free nation, but over the years, they seem to have been forgotten.

Something happened in this country between 1735 and 1750 that changed the mood and outlook of the inhabitants in a subtle but important way, he said. "It was a watershed in the evolution of the American nation."

But, one of the greatest changes which took place prior to the Declaration of Independence was the event which came out of the 1730s and 1750s, according to Rev. Keizer. "The 'Great Awakening' which flooded the colonies in the early 1740s."

In this "Great Awakening," he said, thousands of people sought after the principles which were recorded in the scriptures and expounded by the frontier preachers.

Rev. Keizer said the spirit of the "Great Awakening" had a definite effect upon the independence of this country. "It enabled the 'common people' to discover that they were the best judges of their own condition, and did not have to rely on distant authorities to tell them what was best for them. The center of gravity had shifted from the past to the present, from the princes and prelates of the Old World to the yeomen of the New. That shift came about because of the immediacy and authenticity of their own religious experience."

He said people, in any organization, often do not take time to look into the cornerstones laid at the founding of their organization. The rules and guidelines are often set aside and people go about the business of the government, or other organizations, with only their own feelings in control. "When that happens, there is nothing but disaster and turmoil and problems on the horizon."

Rev. Keizer said, in this Bicentennial year, Americans should look at the religion and morality of the people as being the cornerstone of the nation. "We have to break the mortar that holds that cornerstone in place and pull out of the box which is contained in that cornerstone, the religious and moral fibers which our founding fathers really considered to be important to the growth of our nation," he said.

The energies expended in all areas of government, Rev. Keizer said, must come from new directions, those buried deep within the confines of the nation's cornerstone.

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Archbishop Iakovos, Primate of the Greek Orthodox Church in North and South America, has announced the retirement of Bishop Demetrios of Olympus, auxiliary to his eminence in the Detroit Archdiocesan District effective Dec. 31, 1975.

In announcing Bishop Demetrios' retirement, Archbishop Iakovos said, "It is with deep sorrow that I have accepted the self-imposed retirement of my devoted co-worker and fellow Bishop Demetrios of Olympus, who has served our Church in the United States with both dedication and humility."

Bishop Demetrios will remain at the Episcopal offices in Detroit until Feb. 8, when a testimonial dinner will be given in his honor. He will then depart for his native Greece.

An administrator for the Detroit Archdiocesan District will be appointed by Archbishop Iakovos in the near future. The Detroit Archdiocesan District includes all of Michigan, Kentucky, Arkansas, Tennessee (except Knoxville), Fort Wayne and Indianapolis in Indiana, Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Watertown and Jamestown in New York, and Cincinnati, Columbus, Dayton, Mansfield, Middletown, Springfield and Toledo in Ohio.

His Grace Bishop Demetrios of Olympus (Demetrios Makris) was born on the Island of Skopelos in Greece in 1910. He graduated from the University of Athens Theological school and was ordained to the diaconate in 1931 and to the priesthood in 1936.

He came to the United States in 1938 and served as pastor of the Greek Orthodox churches in Pensacola, Fla., and Worcester, Mass.

He joined the faculty of Holy Cross Greek Orthodox School of Theology, then located in Pomfret Center, Conn., teaching Orthodox Theology.

The Holy Synod of the Ecumenical Patriarchate of Constantinople elected him to the episcopate in 1951 granting him the title of Bishop of Olympus. Following his consecration, he continued to serve as Chancellor of the Archdiocese until 1955 when he was assigned to serve the Fourth Archdiocesan District with episcopal offices in Los Angeles.

After serving 12 years as spiritual leader of the parishes of the Western states, Bishop Demetrios was transferred to the Boston Diocese with headquarters in Jamaica Plain, Mass., in 1967.

He assumed duties with the Detroit Diocesan District in November of 1973.

Keeps Vigilance For Religious Freedom

By GEORGE W. CORNELL AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A friend in Zurich, Switzerland, through telephone contact with another friend in Moscow, relayed word to the Rev. Blahoslav Hruby in New York this week that an outspoken, suspended Russian priest had now been fired from his job as a church caretaker.

That the information made its circuitous way at once to the Rev. Mr. Hruby was typical of the continuous, variously devised vigilance he maintains on the treatment of religion in Communist-ruled countries.

It's a unique service, carried on almost single-handedly by a man who personally kept a jump ahead both of Nazi and Communist foes in wartime Europe, broadcast on Free France radio, gathered intelligence for the U.S. Office of Strategic Services and has myriad, closely guarded sources of information across Europe.

The Rev. Mr. Hruby, 64, a Czech-born naturalized American and for 14 years editor of the monthly, "Religion in Communist-Dominated Areas," has long been a familiar figure at church gatherings, prodding the churches to speak out against instances of Communist repression of faith.

The "implacable cold warrior," some church officials call him. But they recognize his expertise and respect his passion for religious freedom. Last month, his spadework provided the catalyst for drawn-out ferment at the assembly of the World Council of Churches in Nairobi, Kenya — even though he wasn't there.

But what was there was a letter from two Russian Orthodox churchmen in Moscow: protesting religious persecution and urging the World Council to challenge it — a letter that had made its roundabout way to Hruby, been translated from the Russian by his wife, Olga, and relayed to various officials and others at the assembly.

The letter precipitated a landmark action — the global interdenominational body's first outright criticism of religious restrictions in Communist-ruled Eastern Europe, and the launching of a plan to keep a regular eye on conditions for religion there.

"I'm happy it worked out, even if I wasn't there in person," the Rev. Mr. Hruby said in an interview. "The churches must help those who are being harassed because of their faith, and they must tell the truth to the world."

It's a cause to which he has devoted himself ever since he was forced to flee Hitler's military occupation of Czechoslovakia and France. Later, after ordination to the Presbyterian ministry in this country, he served as an OSS captain in Europe from 1942 to 1947 as the Soviet Union extended its sphere over the east.

"I saw so much under Hitler's dictatorship and what happened under the Communists," he said. "I watched it with my own eyes, and it's still happening. We cannot remain silent. I'm afraid we're under the spell of 'Munich' style appeasement, which betrayed Europe to Hitler, and now people are so much brain-washed by the rhetoric of détente which approves of all Russia's conquests and oppression. To me, it's a fraud."

"But there still is a spirit of resistance in the free world — a resistance to the pressures of the Communist bloc not only on religious freedom but on political and national freedoms."

The Rev. Mr. Hruby, a balding, bespectacled man, works in offices at 475 Riverside Drive here, turning out his unusual periodical, packed with smuggled documents, details of religious restrictions, protests and samplings of Soviet antireligious cartoons and articles.

The publication has a circulation only of about 3,000, but it's a valued resource to several embassies, intelligence offices, the Pentagon and other federal agencies, as well as to numerous universities and research centers.

It originally was sponsored by the National Council of Churches, which ceased doing so in 1971, leaving the Rev. Mr. Hruby to scrounge for backing among individual supporters, which still include the Lutheran World Federation, the United Presbyterian Church and U.S. Orthodox church bodies.

REV. HRUBY

"It's difficult," he said. "But thank God, we survive."

He's regularly attacked in the Communist press, as he was this past summer by "Tribuna" in his native Czechoslovakia where his mother, 80, still lives and whom he hasn't been able to visit since 1949.

"I've always been kept on the run from Hitler, Stalin and their successors," he said.

The message he got this week about the firing of the Moscow priest, the Rev. Gleb Yakunin, from his menial job — after earlier being suspended from priestly function — involved the same priest that co-authored the letter of appeal to the World Council, observed the Rev. Mr. Hruby.

"The struggle costs."

Working On Positive Side Of Aging

CLEVELAND (AP) — The nation's artists, writers and other humanists are hoping to clean up the image of the "dirty old man," in keeping with the increasing numbers of the elderly.

The start came about mid-November with a symposium at Case Western Reserve university directed by history professor David Van Tassel.

Van Tassel says social sciences have been concerned with problems of aging for years but that the arts and humanities hadn't dealt with the subject.

The symposium of 40 scholars, artists and writers from across the nation produced a variety of reports designed to focus attention on the image of old age as a time of senility, decline, weakness and obsolescence — and sometimes to dispute that image.

At least one argued that old age is "a stimulus to achievement."

Van Tassel says that research in philosophy, art and literature could help redefine aging and remove some of its long-standing negative imagery in favor of "new insights."

A second meeting was planned for New York in what will be a two and one-half year project. The results of the Cleveland meeting will be published in book form this year.

'Great Principles Gathering Dust'

ADDRESSES CHAPTER: The Rev. Thomas D. Keizer, pastor of Fairplain Presbyterian church, spoke Jan. 8 at Whitcomb Tower, St. Joseph, to members of Algonquin Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. Hostess for the meeting, and DAR member, was Ann Molby, director of program and activities at the Whitcomb. (Staff photo)

By MARYANNE BUTT

When the "cornerstone" of the United States was laid by its founders, it contained fundamental, spiritual principles which were considered vital to the establishment of a free nation.

"But," the Rev. Thomas D. Keizer told members of Algonquin Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, Jan. 8 at Whitcomb Tower, St. Joseph, "through the years those great principles of justice and freedom and happiness have collected a great deal of dust."

The Rev. Keizer, pastor of Fairplain Presbyterian church, speaking on "Religion and Morality — The Cornerstone of America," said those spiritual principles held by our forefathers were not the "foundation" of America, nor were they the "keystone" of America — they were the "cornerstone," and that is exactly what our religion and morality have become.

A cornerstone is important, he said, but it is unlike the foundation or the keystone. The building can stand without it.

In public buildings, the cornerstone is laid during a formal inauguration of the erection of the building, Rev. Keizer said.

Within a cornerstone are placed important mementos and documents of the time and they are then usually forgotten until the building is demolished. To our forefathers, religion and morality were very important, according to Rev. Keizer. Documents establishing our relationships to God were vital to the establishment of this free nation, but over the years, they seem to have been forgotten.

Something happened in this country between 1735 and 1750 that changed the mood and outlook of the inhabitants in a subtle but important way, he said. "It was a watershed in the evolution of the American nation."

But, one of the greatest changes which took place prior to The Declaration of Independence was the event which came out of the 1730s and 1750s, according to Rev. Keizer, "the 'Great Awakening' which flooded the colonies in the early 1740s."

In this "Great Awakening," he said, thousands of people sought after the principles which were recorded in the scriptures and expounded by the frontier preachers.

Rev. Keizer said the spirit of the "Great Awakening" had a definite effect upon the independence of this country. "It enabled the 'common people' to discover that they were the best judges of their own condition, and did not have to rely on distant authorities to tell them what was best for them. The center of gravity had shifted from the past to the present, from the princes and prelates of the Old World to the yeomen of the New. That shift came about because of the immediacy and authenticity of their own religious experience."

He said people, in any organization, often do not take time to look into the cornerstones laid at the founding of their organization. The rules and guidelines are often set aside and people go about the business of the government, or other organizations, with only their own feelings in control. "When that happens, there is nothing but disaster and turmoil and problems on the horizon."

Rev. Keizer said, in this Bicentennial year, Americans should look at the religion and morality of the people as being the cornerstone of the nation.

"We have to break the mortar that holds that cornerstone in place and pull out of the box which is contained in that cornerstone, the religious and moral fibers which our founding fathers really considered to be important to the growth of our nation," he said.

The energies expended in all areas of government, Rev. Keizer said, must come from new directions, those buried deep within the confines of the nation's cornerstone.

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Archbishop Iakovos, Primate of the Greek Orthodox Church in North and South America, has announced the retirement of Bishop Demetrios of Olympus, auxiliary to his eminence in the Detroit Archdiocesan District effective Dec. 31, 1975.

In announcing Bishop Demetrios' retirement, Archbishop Iakovos said, "It is with deep sorrow that I have accepted the self-imposed retirement of my devoted co-worker and fellow Bishop Demetrios of Olympus, who has served our Church in the United States with both dedication and humility."

Bishop Demetrios will remain at the Episcopal offices in Detroit until Feb. 8, when a testimonial dinner will be given in his honor. He will then depart for his native Greece.

An administrator for the Detroit Archdiocesan District will be appointed by Archbishop Iakovos in the near future. The Detroit Archdiocesan district includes all of Michigan, Kentucky, Arkansas, Tennessee (except Knoxville), Fort Wayne and Indianapolis in Indiana, Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Watertown and Jamestown in New York, and Cincinnati, Columbus, Dayton, Mansfield, Middletown, Springfield and Toledo in Ohio.

His Grace Bishop Demetrios of Olympus (Demetrios Makris) was born on the Island of Skopelos in Greece in 1910. He graduated from the University of Athens Theological school and was ordained to the diaconate in 1931 and to the priesthood in 1936.

He came to the United States in 1938 and served as pastor of the Greek Orthodox churches in Pensacola, Fla., and Worcester, Mass.

He joined the faculty of Holy Cross Greek Orthodox School of Theology, then located in Pomfret Center, Conn., teaching Orthodox Theology.

He was appointed Chancellor of the Greek Orthodox Archdiocese in 1950 by the late Archbishop Michael. The Holy Synod of the Ecumenical Patriarchate of Constantinople elected him to the episcopate in 1951 granting him the title of Bishop of Olympus. Following his consecration, he continued to serve as Chancellor of the Archdiocese until 1955 when he was assigned to serve the Fourth Archdiocesan District with episcopal offices in Los Angeles.

After serving 12 years as spiritual leader of the parishes of the Western states, Bishop Demetrios was transferred to the Boston Diocese with headquarters in Jamaica Plain, Mass., in 1967.

He assumed duties with the Detroit Diocesan District in November of 1973.

Keizer Keeps Vigilance For Religious Freedom

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A friend in Zurich, Switzerland, through telephone contact with another friend in Moscow, relayed word to the Rev. Blahoslav Hruby in New York this week that an outspoken, suspended Russian priest had now been fired from his job as a church caretaker.

That the information made its circuitous way at once to the Rev. Mr. Hruby was typical of the continuous, variously devised vigilance he maintains on the treatment of religion in Communist-ruled countries.

It's a unique service, carried on almost single-handedly by a man who personally kept a jump ahead both of Nazi and Communist foes in wartime Europe, broadcast on Free France radio, gathered intelligence for the U.S. Office of Strategic Services and has myriad, closely guarded sources of information across Europe.

The Rev. Mr. Hruby, 64, a Czech-born naturalized American and for 14 years editor of the monthly, "Religion in Communist-Dominated Areas," has long been a familiar figure at church gatherings, prodding the churches to speak out against instances of Communist repression of faith.

The "implacable cold warrior," some church officials call him. But they recognize his expertise and respect his passion for religious freedom. Last month, his spadework provided the catalyst for drawn-out ferment at the assembly of the World Council of Churches in Nairobi, Kenya — even though he wasn't there.

But what was there was a letter from two Russian Orthodox churchmen in Moscow, protesting religious persecution and urging the World Council to challenge it — a letter that had made its roundabout way to Hruby, been translated from the Russian by his wife, Olga, and relayed to various officials and others at the assembly.

The letter precipitated a landmark action — the global interdenominational body's first outright criticism of religious restrictions in Communist-ruled Eastern Europe, and the launching of a plan to keep a regular eye on conditions for religion there.

"I'm happy it worked out, even if I wasn't there in person," the Rev. Mr. Hruby said in an interview. "The churches must help those who are being harassed because of their faith, and they must tell the truth to the world."

It's a cause to which he has devoted himself ever since he was forced to flee Hitler's military occupation of Czechoslovakia and France. Later, after ordination to the Presbyterian ministry in this country, he served as an OSS captain in Europe from 1942 to 1947 as the Soviet Union extended its sphere over the east.

"I saw so much under Hitler's dictatorship and what happened under the Communists," he said. "I watched it with my own eyes, and it's still happening. We cannot remain silent. I'm afraid we're under the spell of 'Munich' style appeasement, which betrayed Europe to Hitler, and now people are so much brain-washed by the rhetoric of détente which approves of all Russia's conquests and oppression. To me, it's a fraud."

"But there still is a spirit of resistance in the free world — a resistance to the pressures of the Communist bloc not only on religious freedom but on political and national freedoms."

The Rev. Mr. Hruby, a balding, bespectacled man, works in offices at 475 Riverside Drive here, turning out his unusual periodical, packed with smuggled documents, details of religious restrictions, protests and samplings of Soviet anti-religious cartoons and articles.

The publication has a circulation only of about 3,000, but it's a valued resource to several embassies, intelligence offices, the Pentagon and other federal agencies, as well as to numerous universities and research centers.

It originally was sponsored by the National Council of Churches, which ceased doing so in 1971, leaving the Rev. Mr. Hruby to scrounge for backing among individual supporters, which still include the Lutheran World Federation, the United Presbyterian Church and U.S. Orthodox church bodies.

REV. HRUBY

"It's difficult," he said. "But thank God, we survive." He's regularly attacked in the Communist press, as he was this past summer by "Tribuna" in his native Czechoslovakia where his mother, 89, still lives and whom he hasn't been able to visit since 1949.

"I've always been kept on the run from Hitler, Stalin and their successors," he said.

The message he got this week about the firing of the Moscow priest, the Rev. Gleb Yakunin, from his menial job — after earlier being suspended from priestly function — involved the same priest that co-authored the letter of appeal to the World Council. Observed the Rev. Mr. Hruby:

"The struggle costs."

Working On Positive Side Of Aging

CLEVELAND (AP) — The nation's artists, writers and other humanists are hoping to clean up the image of the "dirty old man," in keeping with the increasing numbers of the elderly.

The start came about mid-November with a symposium at Case Western Reserve university directed by history professor David Van Tassel.

Van Tassel says social sciences have been concerned with problems of aging for years but that the arts and humanities hadn't dealt with the subject.

The symposium of 40 scholars, artists and writers from across the nation produced a variety of reports designed to focus attention on the image of old age as a time of senility, decline, weakness and obsolescence — and sometimes to dispute that image.

At least one argued that old age is "a stimulus to achievement."

Van Tassel says that research in philosophy, art and literature could help redefine aging and remove some of its long-standing negative imagery in favor of "new insights."

A second meeting was planned for New York in what will be a two and one-half year project. The results of the Cleveland meeting will be published in book form this year.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

THE BIBLE

No. 221. The Forty-Sixth Psalm

The forty-sixth Psalm is one of the most powerful and compelling tributes to God's omnipotence. This frequently-quoted Psalm has inspired writers and musicians for centuries. "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble. Therefore will not we fear, though the earth be removed, and though the mountains be carried into the midst of the sea; Though the waters thereof roar and be troubled, though the mountains shake with the swelling thereof. Selah. (Psalms 46:1-3)

"The heathen raged, the kingdoms were moved: he uttered his voice, the earth melted. The Lord of hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our refuge. Selah. Come, behold the works of the Lord, what desolations he hath made in the earth." (Psalms 46:6-8)

"He maketh wars to cease unto the end of the earth; he breaketh the bow, and cutteth the spear in sunder; he burneth the chariot in the fire. Be still, and know that I am God; I will be exalted among the heathen, I will be exalted in the earth." (Psalms 46:9-10)

TEN TIMES EVERY DAY

Churches Can Burn Too

Ten times every day, somewhere in the United States, a church, a synagogue, or other religious building catches fire.

Fifty per cent of the time in these fires, the building is totally destroyed.

"Fire," according to the Rev. David A. Works, chairman of the Religious Leaders Conference of the National Safety Council, "is by far one of the chief safety problems of churches throughout our land — and it's one that demands that church management, parishioners and the local communities work together to solve."

The Rev. Works, who is president of the North Conway Institute, Boston, Mass., reports that annual losses in church fires reach $30 million dollars.

As chairman of the Safety Council's Religious Leaders Conference, the Rev. Works believes fire safety for churches "must undergo a new priority rating, since the church, being unoccupied for long periods, is so vulnerable to both arsonists and to undetected fire."

"In fact," he stresses, "in about one-third of the cases, the fire is out of control by the time the fire department arrives."

Vulnerability factors carry over to all churches despite location. Forty-five per cent of church fires, for example, occur in large cities, those with 50,000 population or above, while 31 per cent occur in cities of from 5,000 to 50,000 and 24 per cent in small towns of less than 5,000 populations, the Rev. Works said.

As part of a special fire prevention campaign, the Religious Leaders Conference of the National Safety Council, has issued a Church Fire Safety Check List. It urges church managements, youth groups, community organizations and local governments to use such a list in support of their own fire prevention programs.

"Check lists can only point out dangers," the Rev. Works said. A permanent program of church fire inspections and employment of some sort of early warning measures are primary factors in keeping fire losses at a minimum," he emphasized.

The Rev. Works urged churches to organize fire safety committees to conduct fire and safety inspections, as well as to know how to use fire protective devices such as fire extinguishers and hoses, and to instruct others in these practices.

Special attention should be given to those areas where fires are most likely to occur. Statistics indicate that high fire frequency areas are: Storage areas, 20 per cent; heating plant, 17.7 per cent; attic, 8 per cent; auditorium, 6.7 per cent; altar, 4.3 per cent, and roof, 3.7 per cent.

Sprinkler systems provide the best protection for church property, although economics in many cases may preclude their use. To reduce cost, a sprinkler system may be installed in a high-fire frequency area such as the basement or storage area.

Second best protection is provided by quick detection alarm systems that will ring outside bells as well as directly notify the fire department.

Such systems, according to the Rev. Works, offer the best method of offsetting "heads-tart", fires, and as added protection against incendiaries, a chief cause of church fires, running as high as 37 per cent in recent years.

In addition to the formation of fire safety committees, the use of the Church Fire Safety Check List, and the ongoing hazards inspection, church leaders are advised to seek help from the National Safety Council by writing to Religious Department, 425 North Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill., 60611.

The National Safety Council is a nonprofit, nongovernmental, public service organization dedicated to safety education and the development and implementation of accident prevention programs reaching every segment of American life.

THE BIBLE

No. 221. The Forty-Sixth Psalm

The forty-sixth Psalm is one of the most powerful and compelling tributes to God's omnipotence. This frequently-quoted Psalm has inspired writers and musicians for centuries. "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble. Therefore will not we fear, though the earth be removed, and though the mountains be carried into the midst of the sea; Though the waters thereof roar and be troubled, though the mountains shake with the swelling thereof. Selah. (Psalms 46:1-3)

"The heathen raged, the kingdoms were moved; he uttered his voice, the earth melted. The Lord of hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our refuge. Selah. Come, behold the works of the Lord, what desolations he hath made in the earth." (Psalms 46:6-8)

"He maketh wars to cease unto the end of the earth; he breaketh the bow, and cutteth the spear in sunder; he burneth the chariot in the fire. Be still, and know that I am God; I will be exalted among the heathen, I will be exalted in the earth." (Psalms 46:9-10)

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

VD A Growing Problem

Dear Ann Landers: I was overjoyed that both you and "Once Was Enough For Me" had the sensitivity and wisdom to address yourselves to a problem too often shrouded under the rug because it is considered "indelicate." I am talking about V.D.

"Once's" suggestion that your answers might help thousands of young people was a gross understatement. You can help MILLIONS of people in a way that can change their lives. In a free society, knowledge is the one weapon that can eliminate V.D. We must acknowledge honestly and openly the following facts:

The problem is enormous. Over three million people become infected every year.

V.D. doesn't care who has it. It can happen to anybody. Even some very "respectable people" get it — and pass it on.

V.D. can be prevented. V.D. must receive prompt medical attention. It will not disappear unless it is treated.

Silence, fear and guilt are no longer warranted. The knowledge gained from medical research holds the promise of the eventual eradication of V.D. Work is currently underway to find better tests, better treatment and better vaccines.

I urge every concerned citizen to get involved in the fight. The American Social Health Organization at 1740 Broadway, New York, N.Y. 10019, is a non-profit group that needs broad support in terms of volunteers and money to continue educational programs and medical research.

Please, Ann Landers, put another nail in the coffin of V.D. by printing this letter. — Charles A. Hoffman, M.D. (Past President of A.M.A.)

Dear Dr. Hoffman: Here's

another nail, with an added word from me — at the risk of boring my readers to death. I've said it so often, but I'll say it again.

Anyone who suspects that he (or she) may have V.D. should go at once to the emergency room of any hospital, to the county or city health department, or to a doctor, and be tested. It takes only a few minutes. If you are a minor, your parents will not be notified. Most places will test you free or charge very little. You will learn promptly whether or not you are infected. If you are, you can usually be cured simply with medication. If you aren't — what a relief to know you have nothing to worry about.

Any reader who wants to put his own nail in that coffin, and can spare the time or money, please write to the American Social Health Organization, as Dr. Hoffman suggested. They will be delighted to hear from you.

Keep Clothes On

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a girl, 16, who has been asked to pose nude for a boy who is a wonderful artist. He is 17. Rick has shown me some of his paintings which are terrific and I mean terrific.

What bothers me is whether or not I should do it. Rick tells me the human body is beautiful, nothing to be ashamed of, and that I have a hang-up. He says I should be proud he picked me out as a model.

I don't know what to do, Ann. He has been pressuring me a lot lately. What's your opinion? — A Big Maybe

Dear Maybe: If Rick is such a terrific artist, he should be able to sell some of his paintings and hire a professional model. Keep your clothes on, girl.

Teaching your kids about the facts of life can be easy or awkward. Ann Landers' new booklet, "How, What, and When to Tell Your Child About Sex" can spell the difference. Send 50 cents in coin, along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope (13 cents now) with your request, to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120.

Dr. Lester Coleman

Many men have subjected themselves to the operation of vasectomy as a means of contraception.

Many of these men were so sure that their marital status would not change that they gave no consideration to such a possibility. Yet time can and does alter marriages that once were considered indestructible.

Some men, entering another marriage, once again feel that they might want to have a family. The disappointment, therefore, becomes enormous and efforts are sought to reverse the vasectomy procedure. In most instances, the results have not been satisfactory.

Now, a new type of microscopic surgery may hold greater promise that fertility may once again be activated. Dr. Sherman J. Silber and his co-workers, of the Veterans Administration Hospital in San Francisco, have devised a series of operations delicately done under a microscope. This and other modifications of the operation are beginning to show greater possibilities and hope that the vas deferens tube, tied off during vasectomy, may once again be reopened.

This is an excellent time to suggest that all people who entertain this contraceptive operation give consideration to the possibility that they might, at some future date, want children again.

There are also some vasectomy operations that are performed with "clips." These are temporary closures of the fertility tube and may, too, make reversal of the operation easier.

Tantalum is a special kind of inert metal. This, when implanted in the body, does not form foreign body reaction and consequently is not rejected.

Dr. Edward B. Stinson, of Stanford University in California, and Dr. Neal B. Ingels, of the Palo Alto Medical Research Foundation, are using tiny coils of tantalum and embedding them in the heart during open heart surgery.

These then become markers by which the heart beat can thereafter be visualized by X-ray. The tantalum coils become a permanent means for monitoring the activity of the heart and its function.

This technique is a great contribution to heart surgery. It replaces the need for far more difficult techniques for later studying the efficiency of the heart.

Dr. Lester Coleman has prepared a special booklet entitled, "Pay Attention to Your Heart." For your copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lester L. Coleman, M.D., (Heart booklet), P.O. Box 5178, Grand Central Station, New York City 10017. Please mention the booklet by title.

Annual Flower Show Set

CHICAGO — "America, the Colorful" will be the theme of the annual Chicago Flower and Garden show, sponsored by the Chicago Horticultural Society.

The show, which will be held March 20-23 at McCormick Place, will offer a wide range of educational and entertaining features for all ages, according to Robert Wintz, show manager.

As the world's largest indoor flower show, occupying seven full acres in McCormick Place's main exhibition hall, the show will showcase over 50 formal garden features, plus numerous gardens and exhibits designed to instruct visitors on the how's and why's of horticulture at home.

A vast market section will house commercial exhibits offering visitors a chance to purchase all types of gardening needs, as well as hobby and craft items.

In conjunction with the Chicago Bicentennial committee, "America, the Colorful" will also feature the cultural heritage of our nation and city, Wintz said. A full schedule of special programs will be featured, including ethnic dancing, patriotic marching bands, films and special guests.

According to Wintz, the "America, the Colorful" theme was selected for the 1976 Flower show because it "exemplifies not only the important place horticulture has enjoyed in our history, but also the present emphasis on urban beautification and ecology. Flower Show '76 sees the Bicentennial as an exciting, 200-year prologue of beautiful things to come."

Additional information concerning the show may be obtained by contacting the Chicago Horticultural Society, 18 South Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill., 60603.

"The Royal Province" browses through chapters of Nova Scotia's story, from Samuel de Champlain to the settlers and their imprint on the land, its customs and traditions.

Narrated by Alan Watts, "Buddhism, Man, and Nature" explains the ideas of the Buddhist faith and uses natural objects and scenes to do so.

The January story hours at the library, which meet every Saturday at 11 a.m., will feature "Rackety Raccoon and his Tree House Gang," with stories and games. All preschool through second grade children of the community are invited.

A collection of rocks and minerals, courtesy of the Bloomfield Gem and Mineral Society, is in the library display case during January.

When do you use a Stayman two-club response to an opening notrump in preference to a transfer bid? In general, you use Stayman because you have five cards in one major and four in the other.

South has 11 high-card points, four aces and five hearts and responds two clubs. His jump to three hearts at his next turn is a forcing bid.

North's first thought is to bid three notrump. He only holds jack and two small hearts. Then he thinks some more, decides that his partner's bidding has shown decided weakness in that at least one minor suit and that four hearts is the place to be.

It sure is. West gets his two aces and South collects the other 11 tricks.

Had North bid three notrump, East might have led the 10 of diamonds. In that case North would be one down. Against a club lead, North would make four notrump, but that would be 20 points less than the points South scored at hearts.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

VD A Growing Problem

Dear Ann Landers: I was overjoyed that both you and "Once Was Enough For Me" had the sensitivity and wisdom to address yourselves to a problem too often shoved under the rug because it is considered "indelicate." I am talking about V.D.

"Once's" suggestion that your answers might help thousands of young people was a gross understatement. You can help MILLIONS of people in a way that can change their lives. In a free society, knowledge is the one weapon that can eliminate V.D. We must acknowledge honestly and openly the following facts:

The problem is enormous. Over three million people become infected every year.

V.D. doesn't care who has it. It can happen to anybody. Even some very "respectable people" get it — and pass it on.

V.D. can be prevented. V.D. must receive prompt medical attention. It will not disappear unless it is treated.

Silence, fear and guilt are no longer warranted. The knowledge gained from medical research holds the promise of the eventual eradication of V.D. Work is currently underway to find better tests, better treatment and better vaccines.

I urge every concerned citizen to get involved in the fight. The American Social Health Organization at 1740 Broadway, New York, N.Y., 10019, is a non-profit group that needs broad support in terms of volunteers and money to continue educational programs and medical research.

Please, Ann Landers, put another nail in the coffin of V.D. by printing this letter. — Charles A. Hoffman, M.D. (Past President of A.M.A.)

Dear Dr. Hoffman: Here's

another nail, with an added word from me — at the risk of boring my readers to death. I've said it so often, but I'll say it again.

Anyone who suspects that he (or she) may have V.D. should go at once to the emergency room of any hospital, to the county or city health department, or to a doctor, and be tested. It takes only a few minutes. If you are a minor, your parents will not be notified. Most places will test you free or charge very little. You will learn promptly whether or not you are infected. If you are, you can usually be cured simply with medication. If you aren't — what a relief to know you have nothing to worry about.

Any reader who wants to put his own nail in that coffin, and can spare the time or money, please write to the American Social Health Organization, as Dr. Hoffman suggested. They will be delighted to hear from you.

Opening lead — A ♥

By Oswald & James Jacoby

When do you use a Stayman two-club response to an opening notrump in preference to a transfer bid? In general, you use Stayman because you have five cards o in one major and four in the other.

South has 11 high-card points, four spades and five hearts and responds two clubs. His jump to three hearts at his next turn is a forcing bid.

North's first thought is to bid three notrump. He only holds jack and two small hearts. Then he thinks some more, decides that his partner's bidding has shown decided weakness in at least one minor suit and that four hearts is the place to be.

It sure is. West gets his two aces and South collects the other 11 tricks.

Had North bid three notrump, East might have led the 10 of diamonds. In that case North would be one down. Against a club lead, North would make four notrump, but that would be 20 points less than the points South scored at hearts.

Ask the Jacobys

A Pennsylvania reader wants to know what North should open with:

▲ A K Q ♠ A Q J ♦ Q J 10 8 4 ♠ K 9. This is a standard opening two notrump. North has 22 high-card points, all suits stopped and 5-3-3-2 distribution.

FORD LAWYER DISAGREES

No Separation, No Divorce--Cristina

DETROIT (AP) — Cristina Ford says "there is no separation and no divorce" from her husband, Henry Ford II, board chairman of Ford Motor Co. Mrs. Ford made the statement through a representative Friday, but a spokesman for her husband said his statement that the couple is separated and living apart "still stands."

Attorney Alan Schwartz, representing the auto executive, did agree that no divorce papers have been filed. "No papers have been filed. This is all I have been authorized to say," Schwartz said.

Mario De Minicis, a New Yorker who said he was representing Mrs. Ford, an Italian-born jet-setter, said the separation announcement was a kind of fight between Henry and Cristina that had been blown out of proportion.

"As far as Mrs. Ford is concerned, everything is fine, and the rumors are squashed," De Minicis said. "Mr. Ford is going to Europe for business and Mrs. Ford is at home in Grosse Pointe."

The Fords have been married for 10 years.

Old Home Donated By State

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A historic 120-year-old home in Mount Clemens was donated to the Macomb County Historical Society on Friday by the Department of State Highways and Transportation.

The society has been conducting a drive to raise $100,000 to $200,000 to move and renovate the building as a historical museum. Known as the Crocker House, the $17,000 home is to be moved three blocks to its new site.

The house was built in the late 1850s by Joshua Dickinson, the first mayor of Mount Clemens. The historical society has received $10,000 for the move from the Kiwanis Club of Mount Clemens and a $2,500 grant from the Michigan Bicentennial Commission.

Ship Blast Kills At Least 15 In West Germany

HAMBURG, West Germany (AP) — At least 15 workers died and dozens were scalded and burned in a steam boiler explosion deep inside an unfinished cargo ship being tested for its maiden sea trial.

The blast tore open a bulkhead of the boiler room and sprayed victims with 900-degree steam, searing some of them bright red, witnesses said.

"They looked like boiled crabs," a fireman said.

Officials said 12 persons were killed on the spot and dozens were rushed to hospitals, where at least three died and others were reported in critical condition.

The blast came without warning shortly after 6 p.m. Friday in the portside boiler of the Anders Maersk, a 25,000 gross ton container ship, one of six ordered from Hamburg's Blohm and Voss shipyard by the Danish shipping firm of A.P. Moeller.

About 50 persons were aboard when the boiler burst, the shipyard said. They were workers rushing to prepare the ship for its scheduled sea trial at the end of next week.

The scene in the wrecked boiler room "was frightful. I was in the war, but I've never seen anything like it before," said a shipyard official who had guided firemen onto the ship.

The victims were lowered from the ship by cranes to ambulances summoned to the shipyard pier.

The boiler, "a proven type that is installed exclusively in merchant vessels," had been under steam since Jan. 2 and showed no defects, said the shipyard's personnel manager, Hans-Guenther Tepel.

An investigation was ordered.

Service Day Set In Bainbridge

Bainbridge township residents can talk with township officials and conduct business during the township's service day, Saturday, Jan. 24, from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. at the township hall.

Leonard Smith Jr., township supervisor, said voter registration and election worker signups will be accepted by the clerk, Mrs. Beverly Koroch. Tax payments and dog licenses (no vaccinations) will be handled by Treasurer James Lail.

Smith said he would assist senior citizens and veterans with their property tax exemption forms during the day too. The township service day, according to Smith, is designed to give township residents an opportunity to have questions answered, or information provided by any of the township officers and to pick up items such as copies of the township zoning ordinance, maps, or engraving tools for marking valuables to prevent thefts.

Teenage Banditry On Rise In Buffalo

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Gun-toting teen-agers are contributing to a tripling of holdups in the Buffalo area, the FBI says, and a city judge contends economic conditions may be partly to blame.

"It seems to be peculiar to Buffalo," said Dennis Gibbs, bank robbery supervisor at the Buffalo office of the FBI. "We have them as low as 14-years-old here. They all seem to carry guns."

Bank robberies in the 17-county western New York area are up nearly 300 per cent, Gibbs said. Fifty bank robberies were reported between July and December of last year, he said, compared with 13 in the same period a year ago.

And while exact figures on the number of teenage bandits aren't available, authorities say half or more of the holdups may have been committed by persons under the age of 20. "Whatever possessed you to rob a bank?" Lt. Raymond Fries, head of Buffalo's police robbery squad, asked a 17-year-old suspect.

The suspect shrugged his shoulders.

Meditation

Period Sought

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Public school students and teachers would have time to silently meditate each day under legislation proposed by State Rep. James Smith.

The Grand Blanc Republican's plan would require boards of education to give time at the start of each day for silent meditation.

DISSIDENT FIRED
MARCHIEGG, Austria (AP) — Soviet dissident Leonid Plyushch, 43, permitted to emigrate after three years' confinement to a mental asylum for his political activities, arrived here from Kiev today with his wife, Tatyana.

"Did you think it would make you a big man in the neighborhood?"
"Yeah, I guess so."
"Did you need the money?"
"Well, yeah, I guess so. I was thinking about getting a car."

Buffalo City Judge Samuel L. Green says several reasons, including economic conditions in Buffalo's black neighborhoods, could be behind the surge in teenage bank robberies.

The black unemployment figure is thought to be at least twice as high as official state labor figures showing 12.8 per cent joblessness in Buffalo.

And, says Green, "the black exploitation movie that glamorizes pimps and hoods has become very popular; the last few years."

"And the kids identify with these characters and their flashy cars and clothes. The material things become very important to them. And they know their parents can't afford to buy them the clothes and cars they want."

"So they feel denied, and some of them just go out and take it. They rob banks."

Service Day Set In Bainbridge

Bainbridge township residents can talk with township officials and conduct business during the township's service day, Saturday, Jan. 24, from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. at the township hall.

Leonard Smith Jr., township supervisor, said voter registration and election worker signups will be accepted by the clerk, Mrs. Beverly Koroch. Tax payments and dog licenses (no vaccinations) will be handled by Treasurer James Lull.

Smith said he would assist senior citizens and veterans with their property tax exemption forms during the day too.

The township service day, according to Smith, is designed to give township residents an opportunity to have questions answered, or information provided by any of the township officers and to pick up items such as copies of the township zoning ordinance, maps, or engraving tools for marking valuables to prevent thefts.

Teenage Banditry On Rise In Buffalo

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Gun-toting teen-agers are contributing to a tripling of holdups in the Buffalo area, the FBI says, and a city judge contends economic conditions may be partly to blame.

"It seems to be peculiar to Buffalo," said Dennis Gibbs, bank robbery supervisor at the Buffalo office of the FBI. "We have them as low as 14-years-old here. They all seem to carry guns."

Bank robberies in the 17-county western New York area are up nearly 300 per cent, Gibbs said. Fifty bank robberies were reported between July and December of last year, he said, compared with 13 in the same period a year ago.

And while exact figures on the number of teenage bandits aren't available, authorities say half or more of the holdups may have been committed by persons under the age of 20.

"Whatever possessed you to rob a bank?" Lt. Raymond Fries, head of Buffalo's police robbery squad, asked a 17-year-old suspect.

The suspect shrugged his shoulders.

Meditation Period Sought

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Public school students and teachers would have time to silently meditate each day under legislation proposed by State Rep. James Smith.

The Grand Blanc Republican's plan would require boards of education to give time at the start of each day for silent meditation.

DISSIDENT FIRED
MARCHEGG, Austria (AP) — Soviet dissident Leonid Plyushch, 43, permitted to emigrate after three years' confinement to a mental asylum for his political activities, arrived here from Kiev today with his wife, Tatyana.

"Did you think it would make you a big man in the neighborhood?"
"Yeah, I guess so."
"Did you need the money?"
"Well, yeah, I guess so. I was thinking about getting a car."

Buffalo City Judge Samuel L. Green says several reasons, including economic conditions in Buffalo's black neighborhoods, could be behind the surge in teenage bank robberies.

The black unemployment figure is thought to be at least twice as high as official state labor figures showing 12.8 per cent joblessness in Buffalo.

And, says Green, "the black exploitation movie that glamorizes pimps and hoods has become very popular the last few years."

"And the kids identify with these characters and their flashy cars and clothes. The material things become very important to them. And they know their parents can't afford to buy them the clothes and cars they want."

Festival Needs More Helpers

COLOMA — The first 1976 meeting of the Coloma Gladiolus festival committee will be held next Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Coloma township hall, according to Mike Dilts, festival president.

Dilts said many volunteers will be needed during this year's combined festival and Bicentennial celebration, slated for Monday, Aug. 2 through Sunday, Aug. 8.

The usual three-day festival has been expanded to seven days this year resulting in the need for more volunteers to assist in preparation, he said.

Dilts also reported organizations interested in constructing the Coloma float for both the Blossomtime festival and Coloma festival should attend the meeting, which is open to the public.

Split Sessions Next September For Dowagiac High

DOWAGIAC — Dowagiac school officials here yesterday announced that high school students will be attending classes in split sessions beginning next September.

The split sessions are necessary because of over-crowding and due to the defeat in November of a $3.2 million school construction bond issue.

Paul Foss, director of curriculum and certified personnel, said the split sessions are not a punitive reaction to the bond issue defeat, but a positive reaction to some real over-crowding problems. The school system is currently not on split sessions.

He, and other school officials, outlined the intended changes at a news conference late yesterday morning.

Under proposed changes, he said, 11th and 12th grades will attend morning sessions with ninth and 10th grades attending class in the afternoons at the high school.

Class sessions will run from 7 a.m. to noon, and from 12:30 to 5:30 p.m., he added.

A second administrative assistant will be required at the high school, he said.

Other changes, he said, will include housing all of the district's fifth and sixth graders at Patrick Hamilton elementary school, with seventh and eighth graders at Central Junior high school.

All of the district's K-4 students will be housed at the remaining five elementary schools, which will require busing of K-4 Patrick Hamilton students to the other five elementary schools.

BH Man Convicted On Larceny Charge

A Benton Harbor man who went to trial on a charge of breaking and entering at Benton Harbor high school was convicted yesterday in Berrien Circuit court of a lesser charge.

Jurors in Judge Julian E. Hughes' court deliberated about 3½ hours before convicting Otis Eugene Hartz, 20, of 871 East Britain avenue, of entering without breaking with intent to commit larceny.

He was remanded to the county jail in lieu of $3,000 bond to await sentencing of up to five years in prison. The original charge carries a maximum penalty of 10 years imprisonment.

Hartz was convicted of entering the high school, at Colfax and Empire avenues, on Aug. 18. The defense contended Hartz was near the high school when arrested but was on his way home from another house and did not enter the school. Opposing counsel during the two-day trial were Asst. Prosecutor Quentin Fulcher and St. Joseph Atty. Donald Bleich.

Suit Seeks $1.75 Million In Accident

A Benton township couple has filed suit in Berrien Circuit court seeking $1.75 million damages stemming from a tractor accident in which the man's spinal cord was allegedly severed.

The plaintiffs, Otis and Mildred Rice, 1290 Southport avenue, claim Rice was injured Aug. 1, 1973, when the steering of the tractor he was driving, which was being pulled by a truck, failed, causing the tractor to leave the road between Watervliet and Coloma and roll over.

Named defendants were Klug Farm Equipment Corp., of Eau Claire, and Michael Partridge, an employee of Klug.

The suit contends Rice's tractor was serviced by Klug seven days before the accident and that Partridge worked on the tractor. The suit charges Partridge failed to install a snap ring on the steering shaft, and claims Klug was negligent in permitting an employee with four-months experience to work on the tractor and also for failing to properly train the employee.

paintings and a punch bowl that belonged to Diamond Jim Brady.

FBI officials along with Atlanta police are investigating the theft. Federal authorities were called in on the assumption the stolen items may have been transported over the state line.

It was the second time Hartsell has been robbed. In 1961 a trio of thieves attempted to steal two antique vases from Hartsell at his cottage at Cable Lake near Sister lakes, where he lived at the time.

The vases were reported to be worth $10,000 and were once owned by the Duke of Edinburgh. The thieves failed to get the vases, but did get $300 in cash after slugging Hartsell.

Ford To Get Anti-Bomb Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special federal task force formed in the wake of last month's bombing at LaGuardia Airport in New York is expected to propose tightened security that would limit public access to coin lockers and increase baggage surveillance. The recommendations are to be proposed to President Ford on Monday by Transportation Secretary William Coleman Jr. Despite published reports listing details of the task force study, spokesmen for the Department of Transportation declined Friday to discuss the recommendations. The task force was hastily formed after the Dec. 29 bombing that killed 11 persons and injured 70 others at LaGuardia. The bomb was hidden in a coin-operated locker.

Snowmobile-Car Crash Hurts One

SOUTH HAVEN — A rural South Haven man was reported in serious condition today at Bronson hospital in Kalamazoo after his snowmobile slammed into a car on Baseline road in Genewa township about 10:30 last night.

State police at South Haven identified the injured man as Dennis Wauchek, 107th avenue, Casco township, Allegan county.

Officers said Wauchek suffered multiple fractures.

The car, operated by Terri Overhiser, had become stuck in the snow, half in the driveway leading to her home and halfway out in the road, state police said.

The snowmobile caught fire after the crash. The blaze was put out by Casco township firemen, police said.

No tickets have been issued in connection with the crash, troopers said.

EX-NYPD OFFICERS

Life Is Lot Safer In Nebraska Town

VALLEY, Neb. — It's a far cry from the streets of Harlem in New York City, but two laid-off policemen from the nation's largest city are now patrolling the streets of this tiny Nebraska community of 1,000.

Until about a month ago, Anthony Maniaci, 22, and Joseph Philippaitis were two of more than 4,000 policemen who lost their jobs because of the city's financial woes.

But then Philippaitis spotted something in the newsletter of the Former Police Officers Association of New York. It was an ad looking for policemen to work in small towns and Philippaitis decided to check it out.

Since he didn't think he had enough money to make the move alone, he began looking up old police academy buddies, and he found Maniaci.

"He woke me up and said, 'Do you want to go to Nebraska?' and I said okay," said Maniaci.

Although the two men, who had two years experience with the NYPD, will be getting only about half the salary they got in New York, the money goes farther, they said. The two feel safer, too.

"There's not that constant looking over your shoulder," Philippaitis said.

When they were in New York, the two were assigned to the high-crime Central and East Harlem areas.

"There was a murder, rape and homicide every few minutes," said Philippaitis. "In one year there were 90 murders in the Harlem area, and that was just the bodies they found."

Maniaci recalled his first day on the New York force, after completing six months of training at the police academy.

"I was just walking out of a doorway and a bullet bounced off the door," Maniaci said.

When they first arrived in town, there were some doubts. But then they found out that Omaha is just about 15 miles away.

"Omaha has everything New York has, but on a smaller, cleaner scale," said Maniaci. "There is nothing in New York that they don't have here, except maybe crime."

"They may be stepping down to a degree in activity," said Valley Police Chief Richard Blittz of his newest officers. "But at least I know they can handle any possible situation that could arise here."

Blittz said there's no guarantee the two men will be able to make the adjustment to small town living.

"A lot of it will depend on the people here. The loss of these policemen will be their loss," said Blittz.

U.S. Takes Over Probe Of Collision

standing. I first felt the brakes. I knew something was going to happen and then there was a big noise.

"I flew out of my seat and slid along the floor and smashed into a railing. People around me smashed their lips and faces on the guardrails ... I could see teeth on the floor."

Ross escaped serious injury and the CTA's medical manager said he was tested for alcohol or drug use and all reports were negative.

Officials said Ross had an excellent five-year record of service with the CTA and, as recently as November had been recommended for promotion to supervisor.

Jewell said he would continue to investigate "the possibility of human error" and added that investigators had not immediately accepted Ross' account as the final explanation.

"I don't know if the supervisor broke the rules" by allowing the motorman to switch to the manual system, Jewell said. The NTSB investigator said he was told the supervisor permitted the switch because "they were running behind schedule and they were short of equipment."

A CTA spokesman said he was unsure whether normal operating procedure required that new equipment be brought in to replace any that appeared to be malfunctioning.

Jewell said he and other investigators from the NTSB and the Federal Railroad Administration would examine the trains today and would review the entire maintenance record of the train that Ross was driving. He said the investigation probably would be completed in three days.

The accident was the second worst in CTA history.

On Nov. 5, 1956, 635 persons were injured in a similar collision.

The last serious accident on CTA lines occurred in September 1974 when 41 persons were injured.

The wreckage of the two trains was removed from the tracks late Friday and service was expected to return to normal today.

State's Request Approved

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has approved the state's request to prohibit all discharge of sewage from vessels into Michigan waters of the Great Lakes, connecting waters and inland lakes. Gov. William Milliken announced Friday what he said was a "real victory" in the state's fight against pollution. He praised EPA Administrator Russell Train for the decision. "Even though he rejected our first request for greater protection for the lakes, he encouraged us to submit a request under a different section of federal law — which we did," Milliken said. Michigan's 1970 watercraft pollution control law prohibits all discharge of sewage from any Great Lakes commercial or recreational vessel, but federal regulations have been much less stringent.

Marble Will Try Again

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Educator Sam Marble will make a second try for the 10th District U. S. Congressional seat, he announced Friday. Marble, 58, former president of Delta College and Saginaw Valley State College, was an unsuccessful Democratic candidate for the seat in 1974, losing to Republican Elford Coderberg, 57, by 12,000 votes. Marble, now a professor of political science at John Wesley College in Owsosso, maintains his legal voting residence in Midland. The 10th congressional district includes Clare, Gladwin, Grand Traverse, Gratiot, Isabella, Kalamazoo, Midland, Muskegon, Ogemaw, Oshtemo, and Roscommon counties and parts of Benzie, Clinton, Crawford, Ingham, Montcalm, Saginaw, Shiawassee and Westford counties.

A 'Collegiate' Resort

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (AP) — The former Mackinac College is on its way to becoming a resort complex. The first step, taken at a City Council meeting this week, will make it easier for Allmand Development Corp., of Ypsilanti to finance the complex, once they buy it from evangelist Rex Humbard. The council's action sets up an economic development corporation that will permit Allmand to get a tax break and low-interest loans. Allmand Vice President Thomas Johnston says the island resort should be open by May if all goes as planned.

Car Carrier Trapped In Ice

GRAND HAVEN, Mich. (AP) — A 79-foot-long railroad car carrier was trapped in ice Friday at the entrance of the Grand Haven Channel off Lake Michigan after trying to enter the harbor. The E.B. Barber, out of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and owned by the Algoma Central Railroad, became stuck in packed ice and snow about halfway through the 1,200-foot channel. Coast Guard officials said. A Coast Guard spokesman said the Barber was stuck in the middle of the channel near the Coast Guard station.

Metro Airport Strike Ends

ROMULUS, Mich. (AP) — Hotel and restaurant workers at Detroit's Metropolitan Airport approved a contract and returned to work Friday night, ending a nine-day strike. The pact was ratified 139-71 with one abstention, a spokeswoman for the Hotel and Motel Restaurant Employees Cooks and Bartenders union said. The spokeswoman said employees not getting tips received a raise of 25 cents an hour, while employees receiving tips got a raise of 17.5 cents an hour.

Sugar Ruling Is Upheld

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan Sugar Co. of Saginaw does not owe $40,000 to a Manistee orchard that sold defectively sugared frozen apples for use in frozen dinners. The state Court of Appeals made that decision Friday, upholding a lower court ruling that Jebavy Sorenson Orchard Co. should have sent back any defective sugar it received from the Saginaw sugar processor, the largest in the state. "The action of Jebavy Sorenson in using the sugar that it knew had 'pan scale' was a sufficient intervening act to relieve Michigan Sugar for the damages that followed because of the sugar's use," the appeals court said.

Reagan Cancels Appearance

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Presidential contender Ronald Reagan has notified Michigan Republicans he will not be at the 1976 Midwest Republican Leadership Conference at the end of the month as planned. State GOP Chairman William McLaughlin said Friday he was informed of Reagan's non-appearance Thursday. A printed program pictured Reagan on the front page and billed him as one of "The Stars" of the event Jan. 30-31 in Dearborn. Other pictured "stars" include Vice President Nelson Rockefeller and President Ford. McLaughlin said Rockefeller confirmed he will be present. Ford is expected to show up, although Ford's office has not confirmed it, McLaughlin said.

Reaffiliation 'Unlikely'

DETROIT (AP) — Top officials of the United Auto Workers say swift reaffiliation with the AFL-CIO is very unlikely despite strong overtures this week from the massive labor federation. UAW Vice President Ken Bannan said Friday he insists upcoming contract talks with the auto makers — not AFL-CIO reaffiliation — be the top subject at a meeting of the union's International Board next week. Other UAW officials agreed there was some strong opposition to reaffiliation and this isn't a good time for a fight because contract negotiations are coming up with the auto makers.

Split Sessions Next September For Dowagiac High

DOWAGIAC — Dowagiac school officials here yesterday announced that high school students will be attending classes in split sessions beginning next September.

The split sessions are necessary because of over-crowding and due to the defeat in November of a $3.2 million school construction bond issue.

Paul Foss, director of curriculum and certified personnel, said the split sessions are not a punitive reaction to the bond issue defeat, but a positive reaction to some real overcrowding problems. The school system is currently not on split sessions.

He, and other school officials, outlined the intended changes at a news conference late yesterday morning.

Under proposed changes, he said, 11th and 12th grades will attend morning sessions with ninth and 10th grades attending class in the afternoons at the high school.

Class sessions will run from 7 a.m. to noon, and from 12:30 to until 5:30 p.m., he added.

A second administrative assistant will be required at the high school, he said.

Other changes, he said, will include housing all of the district's fifth and sixth graders at Patrick Hamilton elementary school, with seventh and eighth graders at Central Junior high school.

All of the district's K-4 students will be housed at the remaining five elementary schools, which will require busing of K-4 Patrick Hamilton students to the other five elementary schools.

BH Advisory Board Meeting Scheduled For January 17

It was incorrectly reported in yesterday's Herald-Palladium that the Benton Harbor Community Development Citizens Advisory board (CAB) was to meet today at the public library. ## BH Man Convicted On Larceny Charge

A Benton Harbor man who went to trial on a charge of breaking and entering at Benton Harbor high school was convicted yesterday in Berrien Circuit court of a lesser charge.

Jurors in Judge Julian E. Hughes' court deliberated about 3½ hours before convicting Otis Eugene Hartz, 20, of 871 East Britain avenue, of entering without breaking with intent to commit larceny.

He was remanded to the county jail in lieu of $3,000 bond to await sentencing of up to five years in prison. The original charge carries a maximum penalty of 10 years imprisonment.

Hartz was convicted of entering the high school, at Colfax and Empire avenues, on Aug. 18. The defense contended Hartz was near the high school when arrested but was on his way home from another house and did not enter the school. Opposing counsel during the two-day trial were Asst. Prosecutor Quentin Fulcher and St. Joseph Atty. Donald Bleich.

Suit Seeks $1.75 Million In Accident

A Benton township couple has filed suit in Berrien Circuit court seeking $1.75 million damages stemming from a tractor accident in which the man's spinal cord was allegedly severed.

The plaintiffs, Otis and Mildred Rice, 1290 Southport avenue, claim Rice was injured Aug. 1, 1973, when the steering of the tractor he was driving, which was being pulled by a truck, failed, causing the tractor to leave the road between Watervliet and Coloma and roll over.

Named defendants were Klug Farm Equipment Corp., of Eau Claire, and Michael Partridge, an employee of Klug.

The suit contends Rice's tractor was serviced by Klug seven days before the accident and that Partridge worked on the tractor. The suit charges Partridge failed to install a snap ring on the steering shaft, and claims Klug was negligent in permitting an employee with four-months experience to work on the tractor and also for failing to properly train the employee.

paintings and a punch bowl that belonged to Diamond Jim Brady.

FBI officials along with Atlanta police are investigating the theft. Federal authorities were called in on the assumption the stolen items may have been transported over the state line.

It was the second time Hartsell has been robbed. In 1961 a trio of thieves attempted to steal two antique vases from Hartsell at his cottage at Cable Lake near Sister lakes, where he lived at the time.

The vases were reported to be worth $10,000 and were once owned by the Duke of Edinburgh. The thieves failed to get the vases, but did get $300 in cash after slugging Hartsell.

Ford To Get Anti-Bomb Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special federal task force formed in the wake of last month's bombing at LaGuardia Airport in New York is expected to propose tightened security that would limit public access to coin lockers and increase baggage surveillance. The recommendations are to be proposed to President Ford on Monday by Transportation Secretary William Coleman Jr. Despite published reports listing details of the task force study, spokesmen for the Department of Transportation declined Friday to discuss the recommendations. The task force was hastily formed after the Dec. 29 bombing that killed 11 persons and injured 70 others at LaGuardia. The bomb was hidden in a coin-operated locker.

Snowmobile-Car Crash Hurts One

SOUTH HAVEN — A rural South Haven man was reported in serious condition today at Bronson hospital in Kalamazoo after his snowmobile slammed into a car on Baseline road in Geneva township about 10:30 last night.

State police at South Haven identified the injured man as Dennis Wauchek, 107th avenue, Casco township, Allegan county.

Officers said Wauchek suffered multiple fractures. The car, operated by Terri Overhiser, had become stuck in the snow, half in the driveway leading to her home and halfway out in the road, state police said.

The snowmobile caught fire after the crash. The blaze was put out by Casco township firemen, police said.

No tickets have been issued in connection with the crash, troopers said.

Life Is Lot Safer In Nebraska Town

VALLEY, Neb. — It's a far cry from the streets of Harlem in New York City, but two laid-off policemen from the nation's largest city are now patrolling the streets of this tiny Nebraska community of 1,600.

Until about a month ago, Anthony Maniaci, 22, and Joseph Philippaitis were two of more than 4,000 policemen who lost their jobs because of the city's financial woes.

But then Philippaitis spotted something in the newsletter of the Former Police Officers Association of New York. It was an ad looking for policemen to work in small towns and Philippaitis decided to check it out.

Since he didn't think he had enough money to make the move alone, he began looking up old police academy buddies, and he found Maniaci.

"He woke me up and said, 'Do you want to go to Nebraska?'" and I said okay," said Maniaci.

Although the two men, who had two years experience with the NYPD, will be getting only about half the salary they got in New York, the money goes farther, they said. The two feel safer, too.

"There's not that constant looking over your shoulder," Philippaitis said.

When they were in New York, the two were assigned to the high-crime Central and East Harlem areas.

"There was a murder, rape and homicide every few minutes," said Philippaitis. "In one year there were 90 murders in the Harlem area, and that was just the bodies they found."

Maniaci recalled his first day on the New York force, after completing six months of training at the police academy.

"I was just walking out of a doorway and a bullet bounced off the door," Maniaci said.

When they first arrived in town, there were some doubts. But then they found out that Omaha is just about 15 miles away.

"Omaha has everything New York has, but on a smaller, cleaner scale," said Maniaci. "There is nothing in New York that they don't have here, except maybe crime."

"They may be stepping down to a degree in activity," said Valley Police Chief Richard Blitt of his newest officers. "But at least I know they can handle any possible situation that could arise here."

Blitt said there's no guarantee the two men will be able to make the adjustment to small town living.

"A lot of it will depend on the people here. The loss of these policemen will be their loss," said Blitt.

U.S. Takes Over Probe Of Collision

standing. I first felt the brakes. I knew something was going to happen and then there was a big noise.

"I flew out of my seat and slid along the floor and smashed into a railing. People around me smashed their lips and faces on the guardrails. I could see teeth on the floor."

Ross escaped serious injury and the CTA's medical manager said he was tested for alcohol or drug use and all reports were negative.

Officials said Ross had an excellent five-year record of service with the CTA and as recently as November had been recommended for promotion to supervisor.

Jewell said he would continue to investigate "the possibility of human error" and added that investigators had not immediately accepted Ross' account as the final explanation.

"I don't know if the supervisor broke the rules" by allowing the motorman to switch to the manual system, Jewell said. The NTSB investigator said he was told the supervisor permitted the switch because "they were running behind schedule and they were short of equipment."

A CTA spokesman said he was unsure whether normal operating procedure required that new equipment be brought in to replace any that appeared to be malfunctioning.

Jewell said he and other investigators from the NTSB and the Federal Railroad Administration would examine the trains today and would review the entire maintenance record of the train that Ross was driving. He said the investigation probably would be completed in three days.

The accident was the second worst in CTA history.

On Nov. 5, 1956, 635 persons were injured in a similar collision.

The last serious accident on CTA lines occurred in September 1974 when 41 persons were injured.

The wreckage of the two trains was removed from the tracks late Friday and service was expected to return to normal today.

RACE FOR HART'S SEAT

'Feisty' Primary His Wish

By MARY STEVENSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — At least one Republican Senate candidate hopes a feisty primary will give the GOP a stiff shot-in-the-arm and get the blood pounding.

And some party regulars voice the same wish. But the other two announced Republican candidates for the seat are letting the dark horse do most of the talking so far. In fact the frontrunner says he doesn't have time for that kind of rhetoric.

Whether wealthy Ann Arbor industrialist Deane Baker, 50, can do more than generate noise in his desire for a vigorous primary remains to be seen. The scrappy University of Michigan regent is considered the underdog in the contest for the Senate seat held by retiring Democrat Philip Hart.

One leading Republican says, however, that the real challenge to the favored Democrats may come from Troy industrialist Robert Huber.

Five-term Congressman Marvin Esch, 48, also of Ann Arbor, is considered by party experts to be the frontrunner in the GOP race.

Huber, 53, a former mayor, congressman, county supervisor and state senator, is considered an arch-conservative, while Baker and Esch are termed moderate to moderate-liberal by party spokesmen.

Other potential candidates include Louis A. Engman of Grand Rapids, who recently resigned as head of the Federal Trade Commission, and House Minority Leader Dennis Cawthorne of Manistee. Neither man has stated he is a candidate.

"Bob Huber is a real tough, gutsy person," said State Sen. Robert Davis, R-Gaylord, Senate minority leader. "He has some real good points. If I were a candidate, I would never underestimate Bob Huber."

But in Davis' opinion, Baker "has no chance" because he is running without much support from party members, even on an informal basis.

Republican Gov. William Milliken insists he won't endorse anyone before the Aug. 3 primary election. But Davis speculated Milliken might step in to help Esch should Huber threaten to win the nomination.

Baker first started making waves last Monday when he drew an offended response from state GOP Party Chairman William McLaughlin for slandering the label "politician." Baker said he wasn't one, doesn't like being called one and doesn't like a political image.

He followed that by suggesting a little scrap among Republicans during the primary campaign might be a healthy thing. "I'd like to see it, to show we have spirit, life," he said. Asked if he was afraid a split in the party could develop, he said, "The Democrats have been able to use machetes, baseball bats, then join ranks."

While he's all for a vigorous debate, Huber, who is trying to seek the nomination simultaneously on the Republican, Conservative and American Independent Party tickets, said if the primary turns hostile, "it won't be on my account. I don't think you fight Republicans in the primary. I don't think bitter fights are ever healthy. The scars are around a long, long time."

Esch said, "People are tired of the old politics as usual. I'm not going to run against anyone. I never have."

"There are two things I'm going to do. I'm going to continue to help rebuild the Republican party of Michigan. And I'm going out on a people-to-people basis. I never react to my opponent. I don't have any intention of getting into any kind of action-reaction."

The issues of the Republican Senate primary campaign seem to boil down to what kind of person the voters are looking for.

Huber says his primary campaign issue will be the fact that he has the skills of both a politician and a businessman — two skills he says the country needs in its lawmakers.

Baker is selling him self as the candidate who is not a politician but is a "problem solver."

And Esch is campaigning as the man who's not interested in the old politics but simply wants to get out and talk to his constituents and find out what's on their minds.

FIRST ON BUS: Neither snow, nor rain, nor gloom of pre-dawn will keep this unidentified Saginaw, Mich., school boy from being first on the bus. The silhouette of the lonely boy stands out as he waits patiently for the school bus to arrive. There is rivalry among school children to be first on the bus. The only sure way to meet the challenge of the peers is to get to the bus stop an hour early and before the other kids, no matter what the weather. (AP Wirephoto)

Democrat Hopefuls Looking Over Shoulders At Austin

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The three announced Democratic candidates for the U.S. Senate are busily laying groundwork for their campaigns — glancing over their shoulders all the while at Secretary of State Richard Austin.

The three candidates — Congressman James O'Hara of Utica and Donald Riegle of Flint, and darkhorse state Sen. John Otterbacher of Grand Rapids — have worked for months building their state organizations.

But the candidates themselves and neutral political experts concede Austin would scramble the race with his announcement to run.

With his well known name and strong party credentials, Austin is judged to become the instant, if narrow, leader in the race when he announces. And there seems to be little doubt that Austin will jump in — the only question is when.

A further complication could be the entrance of Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley, who was crushed in his 1972 Senate bid by Republican Robert Griffin. Kelley used to say he had no interest in the 1976 race, but he is keeping quiet these days.

1974 campaign for reelection, can wait longer than anyone before entering the fray. And he does not hide his desire to run.

"I'm so greatly encouraged, it's very hard to say I'm not eager to join the race," he acknowledged. "But I would like to refrain as long as possible. I can't jump in and still do the job as secretary of state."

But the effect of an Austin candidacy is generally agreed upon.

"Austin would be the leader if he got in right now," said John Bruff, O'Hara's campaign manager. Otterbacher said, "If Dick gets in the race, he has an instant lead — that's my assumption."

Austin refuses to give himself a timetable for announcing, but observers indicated it may be two months or more before he is forced to jump one way or another.

Meanwhile, the formal candidates for the seat occupied by retiring Sen. Philip Hart are in the process of completing the hiring of staff and setting up county organizations. Fundraising is in high gear, and personal appearances will increase this spring, to be followed by radio and television ads as the campaign reaches the stretch.

The candidates have done most of their work contacting Democratic leaders and union chieftains, and are no working on building name recognition across the state. Riegle and O'Hara are restricted in their activity by jobs, but as party chairman Morley Winograd pointed out, "They can make news in Washington" that will help them back home.

Part of the strategy is to target the candidates in their strong points. For example, according to Bruff, O'Hara is the most identifiable suburbanite, and represents the suburban voter who now makes up a majority of the Democratic vote.

O'Hara's attributes are his Irish Catholic name, strong union support and image as a moderate with concern for family and community. He will run as a "bread-and-butter" Democrat appealing to the Detroit suburban vote. He is against busing, amnesty and gun control.

Grouped to his left are Austin, Riegle and Otterbacher. Austin, like O'Hara, has good ties to the old line party regulars, and also has black support and excellent name recognition from his Lansing tenure.

Disadvantages might be the possibility of an uproar over court-ordered busing in Detroit, and the fact his candidacy would permit Gov. William Milliken to appoint a Republican to Austin's vacant post.

Riegle has a strong base with hefty labor support in Genesee County. An early anti-war congressman, he aims at the staunch liberals who identified with his stands on social and moral issues.

In addition, he is perhaps the most attractive candidate and dynamic campaigner.

Otterbacher, perhaps even more liberal but also more unorthodox in his call for less government and more individual effort and sacrifice, is styling himself as a daring alternative to everyday politicians. He appeals to frustrated desires for a drastic change and a new face, challenging the voters to take on the big problems.

While his campaign is generally dismissed by political experts, Winograd warns, "The electorate is in an unpredictable mood at this point — it has to be seen if he can generate that kind of campaign."

But in addition, the major candidates overlap in their support. Older party regulars will be torn between O'Hara and Austin; Austin and Riegle will battle for many of the same liberal voters; and Riegle and O'Hara will both command substantial support from organized labor.

"It's a real difficult thing to assess, with a moderate and two liberals — when the moderate is an old line Democrat and one liberal is an old line Democrat," said state House Speaker Bobby Crim, D-Davison. "It's tough as hell."

Also complicating the affair is the fact that more candidates may be forthcoming.

Thus, with eight months to the primary, experts foresee an open horse race for the nomination. If he wants it, Richard Austin apparently has the inside track — but no guarantee he'll outlast the field.

RACE FOR HART'S SEAT 'Feisty' Primary His Wish

By MARY STEVENSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — At least one Republican Senate candidate hopes a feisty primary will give the GOP a stiff shot-in-the-arm and get the blood pounding.

And some party regulars voice the same wish. But the other two announced Republican candidates for the seat are letting the dark horse do most of the talking so far. In fact the frontrunner says he doesn't have time for that kind of rhetoric.

Whether wealthy Ann Arbor industrialist Deane Baker, 50, can do more than generate noise in his desire for a vigorous primary remains to be seen. The scrappy University of Michigan regent is considered the underdog in the contest for the Senate seat held by retiring Democrat Philip Hart.

One leading Republican says, however, that the real challenge to the favored Democrats may come from Troy industrialist Robert Huber.

Five-term Congressman Marvin Esch, 48, also of Ann Arbor, is considered by party experts to be the frontrunner in the GOP race.

Huber, 53, a former mayor, congressman, county supervisor and state senator, is considered an arch-conservative, while Baker and Esch are termed moderate to moderate-liberal by party spokesmen.

Other potential candidates include Louis A. Engman of Grand Rapids, who recently resigned as head of the Federal Trade Commission, and House Minority Leader Dennis Cawthorne of Manistee. Neither man has stated he is a candidate.

"Bob Huber is a real tough, gutsy person," said State Sen. Robert Davis, R-Gaylord, Senate minority leader. "He has some real good points. If I were a candidate, I would never underestimate Bob Huber."

But in Davis' opinion, Baker "has no chance" because he is running without much support from party members, even on an informal basis.

Republican Gov. William Milliken insists he won't endorse anyone before the Aug. 3 primary election. But Davis speculated Milliken might step in to help Esch should Huber threaten to win the nomination.

Baker first started making waves last Monday when he drew an offended response from state GOP Party Chairman William McLaughlin for shunning the label "politician." Baker said he wasn't one, doesn't like being called one and doesn't like a political image.

Democrat Hopefuls Looking Over Shoulders At Austin

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The three announced Democratic candidates for the U.S. Senate are busily laying groundwork for their campaigns — glancing over their shoulders all the while at Secretary of State Richard Austin.

The three candidates — Congressmen James O'Hara of Utica and Donald Riegle of Flint, and darkhorse state Sen. John Otterbacher of Grand Rapids — have worked for months building their state organizations.

But the candidates themselves and neutral political experts concede Austin would scramble the race with his announcement to run.

With his well known name and strong party credentials, Austin is judged to become the instant, if narrow, leader in the race when he announces. And there seems to be little doubt that Austin will jump in — the only question is when.

A further complication could be the entrance of Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley, who was crushed in his 1972 Senate bid by Republican Robert Griffin. Kelley used to say he had no interest in the 1976 race, but he is keeping quiet these days.

1974 campaign for reelection, can wait longer than anyone before entering the fray. And he does not hide his desire to run.

"I'm so greatly encouraged, it's very hard to say I'm not eager to join the race," he acknowledged. "But I would like to refrain as long as possible. I can't jump in and still do the job as secretary of state."

But the effect of an Austin candidacy is generally agreed upon.

"Austin would be the leader if he got in right now," said John Bruff, O'Hara's campaign manager. Otterbacher said, "If Dick gets in the race, he has an instant lead — that's my assumption."

Austin refuses to give himself a timetable for announcing, but observers indicated it may be two months or more before he is forced to jump one way or another.

Meanwhile, the formal candidates for the seat occupied by retiring Sen. Philip Hart are in the process of completing the hiring of staff and setting up county organizations. Fundraising is in high gear, and personal appearances will increase this spring, to be followed by radio and television ads as the campaign reaches the stretch.

The candidates have done most of their work contacting Democratic leaders and union chieftains, and are now working on building name recognition across the state. Riegle and O'Hara are restricted in their activity by jobs, but as party chairman Morley Winograd pointed out, "They can make news in Washington" that will help them back home.

Part of the strategy is to target the candidates to their strong points. For example, according to Bruff, "O'Hara is the most identifiable suburbanite, and represents the suburban voter who now makes up a majority of the Democratic vote."

O'Hara's attributes are his Irish Catholic name, strong union support and image as a moderate with concern for family and community. He will run as a "bread-and-butter" Democrat appealing to the Detroit suburban vote. He is against busing, amnesty and gun control.

Grouped to his left are Austin, Riegle and Otterbacher. Austin, like O'Hara, has good ties to the old line party regulars, and also has black support and excellent name recognition from his Lansing tenure.

Disadvantages might be the possibility of an uproar over court-ordered busing in Detroit, and the fact his candidacy would permit Gov. William Milliken to appoint a Republican to Austin's vacant post.

Riegle has a strong base with hefty labor support in Genesee County. An early anti-war congressman, he aims at the staunch liberals who identified with his stands on social and moral issues.

In addition, he is perhaps the most attractive candidate and dynamic campaigner.

Otterbacher, perhaps even more liberal but also more unorthodox in his call for less government and more individual effort and sacrifice, is styling himself as a daring alternative to everyday politicians. Traverse Loses 62-61 LMAC Thriller

The Tigers, behind the thefts of Steve McNutt and perhaps a little divine intervention, left their rabid fans limp with an exhausting, spine-tingling 62-61 win over Traverse City.

Then up popped McNutt to drive the Trojans nutty. The 6-3 junior guard "stole" the show with three straight thefts for baskets in a 37-second stretch to put the Tigers up on top 62-59 with 45 seconds remaining.

Dave Mahn then hit a bucket for the Northerners with 34 seconds to go and with 22 ticks left John Hanson was fouled and went to the line with a chance to put the Trojans ahead. But he missed the first of the one-and-one with the Tigers' Derrick Joseph collecting the rebound.

The Comets finally found their shooting eye in the second half and Lakeshore fouls also began to take their toll.

Lakeshore committed 27 turnovers to 14 for Coloma.

Coloma broke two streaks with the victory. It was the Comets' first win over Lakeshore in the last 16 games.

The Bulldogs now stand at 3-0 in league action and 8-1 overall.

Frantz Spurs Catholic Win

Big Bill Frantz came through with a game-high in scoring and rebounding while pacing league-leading Lake Michigan Catholic to a 71-56 Red Arrow victory over Watervliet Friday night in the Laker gym.

Watervliet meshed just 21 of 68 (31 per cent). "Watervliet missed a lot of easy shots early which could have kept them in the ball game," added Nixon.

The Panthers did have the advantage at the free throw lines, connecting on 14 of 22 (64 per cent) while the Lakers found the range on just nine of 21 (43 per cent).

Beside the work of Frantz, Nixon also was pleased with the defensive play of Jim Brittain, who limited Watervliet's Brock to a pair of field goals.

Chuck Brock put in 10 points, as Watervliet slipped to 2-3 in the Red Arrow and 4-4 overall.

Lake Michigan Catholic also won the junior varsity preliminary 56-34. The little Lakers, now 7-3, got 13 points from Tim Gentry and 10 from Mike Masini.

The Lakers did have one "sad" statistic with 23 turnovers, compared to Watervliet's 18.

Benford, Bears Burn Northern 88-63 In Big Seven

By JOHN VANDEN HEEDE
Sports Editor

St. Joseph's shooting and running game burned Portage Northern 88-63 in Big Seven action Friday night in the Bear gym.

St. Joe put all five starters in double figures, including a career-high 23 points by guard Cory Benford, while rolling up its highest score of the season and solidifying its league lead.

A long dormant Bear fast break also showed signs of coming to life as the winners meshed 47 per cent of their field goals and 79 per cent of their free throws.

"Our fast break has been smoldering....all we had to do was fan it a little bit," declared happy St. Joe coach George Gaunders while noting that the Bears concentrated on the running game in practice this week.

"The few times we did fast break it was a great sight to see," continued the veteran Bear mentor.

Dale Wright added 15 points to the St. Joe cause while Henry Follman had 13, Mike Collier 12 and Dave Ziebart 10.

The Bears connected on 31 of 66 field goals, with Benford drilling 11 of 14 and Collier five of eight. The 26 of 33 free throw figures included a nine of 10 effort by Wright.

The Bears are now 8-2 at the halfway point in the regular season and 4-0 in Big Seven play. Northern slipped to 5-5 on the season and 3-2 in the league.

Northern, which never led, got a 22-point effort from fifty guard George Chang and 14 points from forward John Rath.

"They are good shooters," declared first-year Northern coach Dave Harmsen on the Bears' performance. "But I thought we did a lousy job of putting pressure on their shooters."

Harmsen also said Northern was hurt by the early foul trouble of his two big men, 6-6 Craig VanArendonk and 6-4 John VanArendonk. Both got three fouls in the first quarter.

Northern ended up making 25 of 59 field goals (42 per cent) and just 13 of 29 free throws (45 per cent).

St. Joe posted a 45 to 40 rebounding edge, with Wright having 13, Mike Tinberg nine and Follman eight. Tops for Northern were Craig VanArendonk and John Rath with nine and eight, respectively.

St. Joe also had the better floor game, with 16 turnovers compared to Northern's 26. The Bears led 21-16 at the end of the first quarter, 41-29 at halftime and 65-49 entering the final period.

St. Joseph also won the junior varsity preliminary 77-57, with Jeff Beal netting 18, Keene Taylor 17 and Steve Ziebart 14. The little Bears, now 7-3, led 47-31 at halftime.

McNutt Saves Tigers

"Someone upstairs was smiling on us tonight!"

Benton Harbor coach Earl McKee kept repeating those words in the Tiger locker room Friday night and with good reason.

The Lake Michigan Athletic Conference matchup won't go down as one of the more artistic games in history but the unbelievable wacky ending more than makes up for that oversight.

Raider Record Set

DECATUR — Decatur has been noted for a fine defense all season, ranking among area leaders in the fewest points allowed, but Friday night it was the Raider offense which stood in the limelight.

Decatur rolled to a new school scoring record while crushing Martin 95-45 in SAC action here. The old Raider record of 90 points was set in 1972.

Kurt Wiese netted 20 points, Jim Overley 16, Dave Cerven 12 and Carl Druskovich 12 as the Raiders stayed in contention in the SAC race with records of 3-1 in the league and 6-2 overall.

"We just got the ball out and started running," declared Decatur coach Tom Gibson. "And we were really pretty hot....that was our hottest shooting night in a long time.

"The turnovers were also down (just 10). Everything we did just seemed to go well."

"We were a little embarrassed at what we did to ourselves last Tuesday night (losing to Marcellus 64-57 in a SAC showdown), and I think we had to show people we were not that bad."

Decatur meshed 43 of 87 field goals (49 per cent) and nine of 18 free throws (50 per cent). The Raiders also had a 43 to 28 rebounding edge, including 12 by Dave Mrozek.

Among the deadeye Raiders shooters were Druskovich at six for six, Overley eight for 14, Wiese 10 for 19 and Cerven five for eight.

Martin, now 1-4 in the SAC and 1-5 on the season, got 12 points from Robert Vandenberg and 10 apiece from Ken Vandenberg and Vince Peckens.

The Clippers hit on 21 of 61 field goals (34 per cent) and three of 14 free throws (21 per cent).

Decatur also won the junior varsity and freshman preliminary games.

Frantz Spurs Catholic Win

Big Bill Frantz came through with a game-high in scoring and rebounding while pacing league-leading Lake Michigan Catholic to a 71-56 Red Arrow victory over Watervliet Friday night in the Laker gym.

The 6-6 senior tallied 17 points and pulled off 19 rebounds as Lake Michigan Catholic hiked its records to 5-0 in the conference and 7-3 on the season.

"I think the key to it was that Bill Frantz had by far his best game of the season...he controlled both boards," declared Laker coach Al Nixon. "Anytime he plays that type of ball game, we are going to be very difficult to beat."

George Welch added 15 points to the Lake Michigan Catholic cause while Tom Flood netted 13 and Don Altie 11.

Chuck Brock put in 10 points as Watervliet slipped to 2-3 in the Red Arrow and 4-4 overall.

Lake Michigan dominated the boards 44 to 26. "We've won a lot of games on the boards," continued Nixon, "but this is the biggest spread we've had."

Flood added eight rebounds to Frantz' 19 before fouling out with about six minutes remaining.

The Lakers did have one

"sad" statistic with 23 turnovers, compared to Watervliet's 18.

Catholic, which led 12-10 after the first quarter, 35-22 at halftime and 56-38 entering the final frame, hit a deadly 31 of 60 field goals (52 per cent).

Watervliet meshed just 21 of 68 (31 per cent). "Watervliet missed a lot of easy shots early which could have kept them in the ball game," added Nixon. "It was one of those nights when the shots were not falling in for them."

The Panthers did have the advantage at the free throw lines, connecting on 14 of 22 (64 per cent) while the Lakers found the range on just nine of 21 (43 per cent).

Beside the work of Frantz, Nixon also was pleased with the defensive play of Jim Brintnall, who limited Watervliet's Brock to a pair of field goals.

Lake Michigan Catholic also won the junior varsity preliminary 56-34. The little Lakers, now 7-3, got 13 points from Tim Gentry and 10 from Mike Masini. Hiler was high for Watervliet with 15.

Comets End Eight-Game Losing Streak

Coloma Finally Beats Lakeshore

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer

Lakeshore coach Lloyd MacTavish couldn't have been prouder.

His Lancers lost to Coloma 72-60 Friday night before a sparse crowd of just over 500 fans at Lakeshore. But even in defeat MacTavish was probably as pleased with his team's performance as he has been after a game all season.

Because of the suspensions of seven varsity players, MacTavish was forced to go with a roster consisting of the remaining five varsity members and three other players called up from the junior varsity.

But those eight players put up a brilliant fight for almost three quarters before finally falling victim to Coloma's experience.

"We played well as a team and that was the key," MacTavish said. "We weren't playing well as a team before the incident. It's going to be interesting to see how the guys play after they come back. There's no question that I have to be proud of this team tonight."

Coloma broke two streaks with the victory. It was the Comets' first win over Lakeshore in the last 16 games. Coloma also broke an eight-game losing string with the win. The Comets are 1-4 in the Blossomland and 1-7 overall. Lakeshore, which lost its fifth straight, fell to 1-4 and 1-8, respectively.

Senior forward Gregg Woodward and junior Joe Jones proved to be too much for the Lancers to handle. The duo combined for 45 of Coloma's 72 points. Jones tossed in 23, 15 coming in the second half, and Woodward added 22, 18 of which came in the second 16 minutes.

"We're just glad to win."

Coloma coach Sam Wright said.

"We know it's definitely going to be different the next time we play them because they will have all their horses back."

"We're definitely a better ballclub than we showed tonight. I have to compliment Lakeshore's kids. They played one heck of a game. I just hope everything works out."

Lakeshore put four players in double figures. Jim Porter led the way with 15 points, most coming on a variety of 15-footers from outside. But the 6-0 guard is still obviously not at full strength following a football ankle injury.

"Porter can't move his feet well," MacTavish said. "He can't drive yet and one of his big assets is taking the ball to the basket."

Rod Nitz added 14 points, Craig Shafer 13 and little 5-7 sophomore Dave DeVoir scored 10.

Lakeshore led most of the first half, including a 27-24 halftime margin. Coloma hit just nine of 47 from the floor in the first half, a miserable 19 per cent.

The Comets finally found their shooting eye in the second half and Lakeshore fouls also began to take their toll. With Shafer and Larry Toth on the bench with four personals, the Lancers went to what MacTavish called his "five guard offense." At one point in the third quarter Lakeshore had just one player, Nitz, taller than 5-9 on the floor.

"They did what I asked them to do," MacTavish said. "But with that short lineup in there, no one could handle the forward position. I can't fault them, though. They worked hard."

Sparked by Woodward's 10 third-quarter points, Coloma moved to a 50-42 lead after three quarters. Lakeshore could get no closer than five after that.

Coloma finished with 29 of 86 shots from the floor for 34 per cent. Lakeshore found the range on 24 of 60 for 40 per cent.

Respective charts showed Lakeshore with a slim 40-39 rebounding edge. Woodward pulled down 16 for Coloma. Shafer came away with 15 and Nitz 14 for the Lancers.

Lakeshore committed 27 turnovers to 14 for Coloma.

Lakeshore did win the junior varsity game 60-52, despite hitting just 18 of 47 free throw attempts. Scott Smikle tossed in 16 and Scott Lee 12 for the winners. Don Arent scored 19 for Coloma.

Bulldogs League Leaders

ALLEDALE — Covert, with it's leading scorer missing double figures for only the second time this season, still took over the top spot in the Allegan-Ottawa conference with a 91-72 drubbing of Allendale here Friday night in high school basketball.

The Bulldogs now stand at 3-0 in league action and 8-1 overall. The Falcons fall to a 3-1 league mark and 5-4 overall.

James DeBoe, Covert's top pointgetter this season, only made six points, but Jeff Maggett picked up the slack by hitting 24 points and Rodney Barnes added 20. Mike DeYoung and George Starks each chipped in with 11 points.

Robert Jackson led Allendale's scorers with 21 points while Larry Hall had 14 and Bruce Crowe 10. The Falcons were without the services of leading scorer Mark Wiersma, who tore some ligaments in his knee last Wednesday.

The Bulldogs didn't hold anything back as they raced out to a 26-14 lead after the first quarter. "Defensively, we pressed them and ran the fast break," said Covert's head coach, Rod DeYoung. "Both worked pretty well."

After making 12 of 23 shot from the floor in that initial quarter, Covert came back to mesh 11 of 20 tries and hold a 52-36 halftime edge.

The Bulldogs made 41 of 79 field goal tries for 52 per cent while Allendale hit 26 of 79 attempts for 33 per cent.

Both squads pulled down 44 rebounds with Starks leading a balanced Covert crew with eight caroms.

Japanese Sign Durocher

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Leo Durocher may be at somewhat of a disadvantage initially when he takes over as manager of the Taiheiyu Lions of Japan — he may find some difficulty arguing with the umpires.

But Durocher, lured out of retirement Friday to manage the Japanese team, probably will waste little time learning phrases that will allow him to pass on his opinion to the umpires.

Known as "Lo the Lin" during his lengthy managerial career in the major leagues, Durocher gained almost as much notoriety for his colorful disagreements with umpires as he did for producing championship teams.

Although the terms of Durocher's contract were not disclosed, a Lions official said the pact was in "six figures," and would make him "the highest paid baseball manager anywhere."

Shamrock Duo Combine For 40 Points At Hartford

Hosbein, Thiele Power Berrien

HARTFORD — Berrien Springs' Terry Hosbein and Rick Thiele, the No. 2 and 3 scorers in the Red Arrow, combined for 40 points here Friday night while leading the Shamrocks past Hartford 76-63.

Hosbein tallied 25 points, including nine of 10 free throw shooting, and Thiele added 15 as Berrien Springs secured second place in the Red Arrow on records of 4-1 in the league and 6-4 overall.

Dave Elchoerg added 12 points to the Berrien cause as the Shamrocks were posting the winning margin at the free throw lines. Both teams had 23 field goals, but the Rocks meshed 30 of 39 charities (77 per cent) compared to 17 of 33 for Hartford (52 per cent).

"It was right there at the line...they killed us at the line," lamented Hartford coach Dick Pfeifer.

Hartford, which is 0-4 in the Red Arrow and 2-5 overall, slipped to its 17th straight conference loss while getting 21 points from Dave Sexton, 14 from Gary Fernham, 12 from Dave Gallhouse and 10 from Curt Daniels.

Berrien Springs jumped off to a 29-15 first quarter lead and held edges of 44-26 at halftime and 54-42 entering the final stanza.

"The first quarter killed us," continued Pfeifer. "They scored some easy buckets off basket hangers. Our guards didn't adjust to it until it was really too late."

"The last three quarters we played them even. The kids came back and showed a lot of hustle and actually got back into the ball game."

Pfeifer also thought the fact that Hartford had only played one game in the past month hurt his Indians. "It was like starting off a whole new season," he explained.

Both teams had good field goal marks, with Berrien sinking 23 of 49 (47 per cent) and Hartford 23 of 55 (42 per cent).

Berrien also had rebounding and floor play edges. The Shamrocks won the battle of the boards 28 to 25, with Sexton having 11 for Hartford and Thiele 10 for Berrien. The Shamrocks had only 13 turnovers, compared to the Indians' 17.

Berrien Springs won the junior varsity preliminary.

Buchanan Takes Sole Bud Lead

Unbeaten Bucks Down Stubborn Chiefs

DOWAGIAC — Powerful Buchanan took over sole possession of first place in the Blossomland conference cage standings here Friday night with a 55-44 win over Dowagiac.

The Bucks, the No. 3 rated team in the first AP Class C poll this week, are now 5-0 in the league. Buchanan had shared the top spot with Brandywine but the Bobcats were knocked off by Cassopolis. Brandywine and Cass are now both tied for second at 4-1.

Buchanan trailed after the first period 17-14. The Bucks didn't start regulars Ken Garrett and Gerald and Mike Busby because they were late for the team bus along with substitute Greg Frazier.

Garrett and the Busbys entered the game midway through the first period and the Bucks finally jumped ahead to stay about half way through the second quarter.

The Bucks took a 30-26 edge at the half and expanded that to 45-37 after three periods.

"I thought we played with good poise and handled it quite well," noted Buck coach Bill Wilson of the Chiefs' deliberate, patient style of play. "Kenny (Garrett) did a good job individually on Waalkes (Bob) and the guards helped out too. That was a key."

Garrett led all scorers with 18 points while the Busby's split 24. Scott Wiltse led the Chiefs with 18 while Waalkes, hurt by an ailing wrist, only collected six points.

The Chiefs, now 1-4 in league play, were playing without Oran Danzy (16.7 average), who broke his hand in the Niles game last Tuesday. Also missing was Tom Russon (eye injury).

Buchanan, now winner of 10 in a row this season, hit 25 of 48 shots for 52 per cent and five of eight at the foul stripes. Dowagiac ended at 38 per cent and 12 of 20 in foul shooting.

In rebounding Buchanan had a 28-16 advantage with Garrett hauling away 11 caroms and Waalkes nine.

More Surgery For Landry

DETROIT (AP) — Quarterback Greg Landry of the Detroit Lions goes back to the hospital for more surgery Monday on his troublesome knee.

"The knee joint is unstable and Dr. (Edwin) Guise (the Lions' physician) wants to tighten up some things," Landry said.

The operation was postponed last season when it appeared the Lions might snare a playoff berth and Landry would have been able to play.

Landry and second-string quarterback Greg Munson both suffered knee injuries in the Lions' game at Houston last Oct. 26. Joe Reed led the team for the rest of the season, winning four and losing as many.

Marcellus Rolls Past Lawrence

MARCELLUS — Marcellus wasn't exactly ready for the defense that Lawrence threw at the Wildcats — but it only took them a quarter to adjust to it.

The defense, a 1-2-2 zone, kept the game close in the first quarter, but Marcellus blew the contest open with a 29-point second quarter and went on to down the Tigers, 85-45 in a Southwestern Athletic conference basketball game played here Friday night.

"In the last three games, they had played a man-to-man," said Wildcats' coach Joe Wood. "We had worked against that in practice most of the time. When they came out in the zone, we were kind of rusty and it took us some time to adjust to it."

Wood said that his squad was taking mostly outside shots in the first quarter but started to work it in later on and it obviously paid off.

Lonnie Lewis led the Marcellus attack with 18 points. Others in double figures for the Wildcats included Steve Bradley with 16, Dave Mason 12 and Jerry Cornwell and Bruce Murray each had 10.

Dave Congdon was the only Tiger to crack the double figures barrier, netting 13 points.

Marcellus is now 4-0 in league play and is tied with Bloomington for the top spot. Overall, the Wildcats stand at 6-1. Lawrence is 0-4 in the league and 0-7 overall.

The Wildcats kept up their fantastic shooting percentage by making 35 of 80 tries for 44 per cent. As a team, they are hitting 49 per cent and seven players are averaging better than 50 per cent from the floor. Lawrence hit 17 of 53 tries for 32 per cent.

Rangers Knock Brandywine Out Of Blossomland Lead

CASSOPOLIS — Cassopolis climbed back into the thick of the Blossomland race by beating Brandywine 63-60 here Friday night in a battle of state-ranked teams.

The Rangers and Bobcats are now both 4-1 in the league standings and trail leader Buchanan 5-0.

Cass hit just three of his first 23 shots and found itself down by 21-11 in the second quarter. But the Rangers crashed the offensive boards to gain the upper hand after the foul start.

Rebounding played the key role in the game with the Rangers holding a huge 47-22 margin in 15 and Gary Young 14 caroms.

Marcellus Rolls Past Lawrence

MARCELLUS — Marcellus wasn't exactly ready for the defense that Lawrence threw at the Wildcats — but it only took them a quarter to adjust to it.

The defense, a 1-2-2 zone, kept the game close in the first quarter but Marcellus blew the contest open with a 29-point second quarter and went on to down the Tigers 85-45 in a Southwestern Athletic conference basketball game played here Friday night.

"In the last three games, they had played a man-to-man," said Wildcats' coach Joe Wood. "We had worked against that in practice most of the time. When they came out in the zone, we were kind of rusty and it took us some time to adjust to it."

Wood said that his squad was taking mostly outside shots in the first quarter but started to work it in later on and it obviously paid off.

Lonnie Lewis led the Marcellus attack with 18 points. Others in double figures for the Wildcats included Steve Bradley with 16, Dave Mason 12 and Jerry Cornwell and Bruce Murray each had 10.

Dave Congdon was the only Tiger to crack the double figures barrier, netting 13 points.

Marcellus is now 4-0 in league play and is tied with Bloomingdale for the top spot. Overall, the Wildcats stand at 6-1. Lawrence is 0-4 in the league and 0-7 overall.

The Wildcats kept up their fantastic shooting percentage by making 35 of 80 tries for 44 per cent. As a team, they are hitting 49 per cent and seven players are averaging better than 50 per cent from the floor. Lawrence hit 17 of 53 tries for 32 per cent.

Will NL Owners Okay Giants' Move To Toronto?

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

Although a fight may be brewing, National League owners appear ready to shed the financial burden of keeping the Giants afloat by ratifying their sale to Canadian interests.

The Associated Press conducted an informal poll of National League owners Friday after Giants' owner Horace Stohm announced an agreement to sell the club for $13.25 million to a Canadian conglomerate headed by Labatt's Brewery of Toronto.

What the poll revealed was that while most owners were keeping their views to themselves and waiting to see the full financial details, several predicted that where the money goes, so go the Giants.

However, one source told The Associated Press that three NL owners have strong reservations about the move. If they all voted against the sale at an owners' meeting Wednesday in Phoenix, it would leave eight yes votes (the Giants cannot vote), and that's one short of the majority needed for ratification.

The potential opposition is known to be Walter O'Malley of the Los Angeles Dodgers, M. Donald Grant of the New York Mets and John W. Galbreath of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

O'Malley's objections are both sentimental and financial. O'Malley moved his team from New York in 1958 along with the Giants after a rivalry that spanned half a century. He also is the only NL owner who stands to lose money rather than gain by the transaction.

While other NL owners were shelling out hard-earned fan dollars to keep the Giants solvent last year, O'Malley raked them in. The traditional rivalry—began when the Giants were in Manhattan and the Dodgers in Brooklyn—brought fans in droves to both Dodger Stadium in L.A. and Candlestick Park in San Francisco.

O'Malley would issue only this one-sentence statement: "A National League meeting is scheduled for next Wednesday at which time we will be acquainted with all of the facts, and until then, there is really nothing I can say."

Grant and Galbreath, the source said, oppose the sale because they are committed to finding a major league team for Washington D.C.'s RFK Stadium first. But, the source said, if ratification falls short by a single vote, one or both may be willing to join the consensus.

Grant told The AP: "There are too many things involved to give you a real sensible answer now. It's early to say, and I would not want to preempt anybody."

However, he added: "It could be the start of something...what is the name of that song...it could be the start of something big. It could be the start of some solutions if other solutions accompany it that were satisfactory to all concerned."

Galbreath was not available for comment.

Speaking for what appeared the majority of owners, however, was Phil Wrigley of the Chicago Cubs.

Wrigley, like many of the other owners who were contacted, said he "won't know (how he'll vote) until I know all the circumstances." But he added that "assuming that it's financially sound, why, yes, I expect I'll vote for it."

He also predicted that if the deal was sound financially, the other owners would go along.

Milwaukee's Switch 'Turns Off' Pistons

Sub Love Paces Bulls' Win

MILWAUKEE (AP) — It took the Milwaukee Bucks about 3½ quarters to figure out how to stop George Trapp Friday night, but once they did the Detroit Pistons were dead.

Having trailed most of the way, the Bucks rallied for a 102-95 victory as Jim Price poured in six of his 21 points in the last 2:38. They also broke a two game losing streak and regained first place in the National Basketball Association's Midwest Division, leading Detroit by three percentage points.

Trapp, a 6-foot-8½ forward playing center in place of injured star Bob Lanier, scored all but four of his 27 points in the second half. Most came from the 20-25 foot range as he forced Milwaukee's 7-foot Elmore Smith away from the basket, which opened the middle for drives by Detroit's Eric Money and Curtis Rowe.

Smith scored 23 points and Bob Dandridge collected 22 points and 15 rebounds for the Bucks. Coach Larry Costello credited them with devising a tactical change, which he said stopped Detroit in the closing minutes.

"Bobby went over to play Trapp and Elmore took (Howard) Porter," Costello said. "That wasn't my decision. They did it on their own."

"Everything was being geared for Trapp, because when you get a hot hand you milk it until it's dry," he said. "We had to change, and I think it took them by surprise. It was a change of pace, and they didn't adjust."

Smith said Dandridge signaled the change about midway through the final quarter.

"I had to go out and play Trapp because he was hot," Smith said. "But if I got too close he'd go around me. That didn't leave me much choice, so Bobby figured we'd switch."

"I took Porter, who doesn't drive much," he said. "He mainly turns around and shoots, and I figured I could block some of his shots. Bobby is a natural forward, so he could probably do a better job on Trapp."

Trapp sank 11 of 25 shots, including 10 of 19 in the second half. However, the Pistons missed the 6-foot-11, 260 pound Lanier on the boards as the Bucks dominated 52-35. Bucks' forward Kevin Restani grabbed 15 rebounds and matched his career high of 18 points.

"Trapp was a problem, but I thought Elmore took advantage of him in the hole on offense," Costello said. "Elmore also hit the open man. He played a very intelligent game."

In other NBA games Friday night, Chicago defeated Buffalo 107-100, Philadelphia nipped Los Angeles 109-106, Boston downed Washington 118-113 and Seattle edged Phoenix 112-110 in overtime.

An 11-point spurt to begin the fourth quarter lifted Chicago past Buffalo, snapping the Braves' 10-game home winning streak. Buffalo came back, but 10 points in the final period by former Brave Jack Marin, including four free throws in the last minute, saved the Chicago victory. Bob Love, who didn't start, paced the Bulls with 25 points. Bob McAdoo scored 27 and Randy Smith 23 for Buffalo.

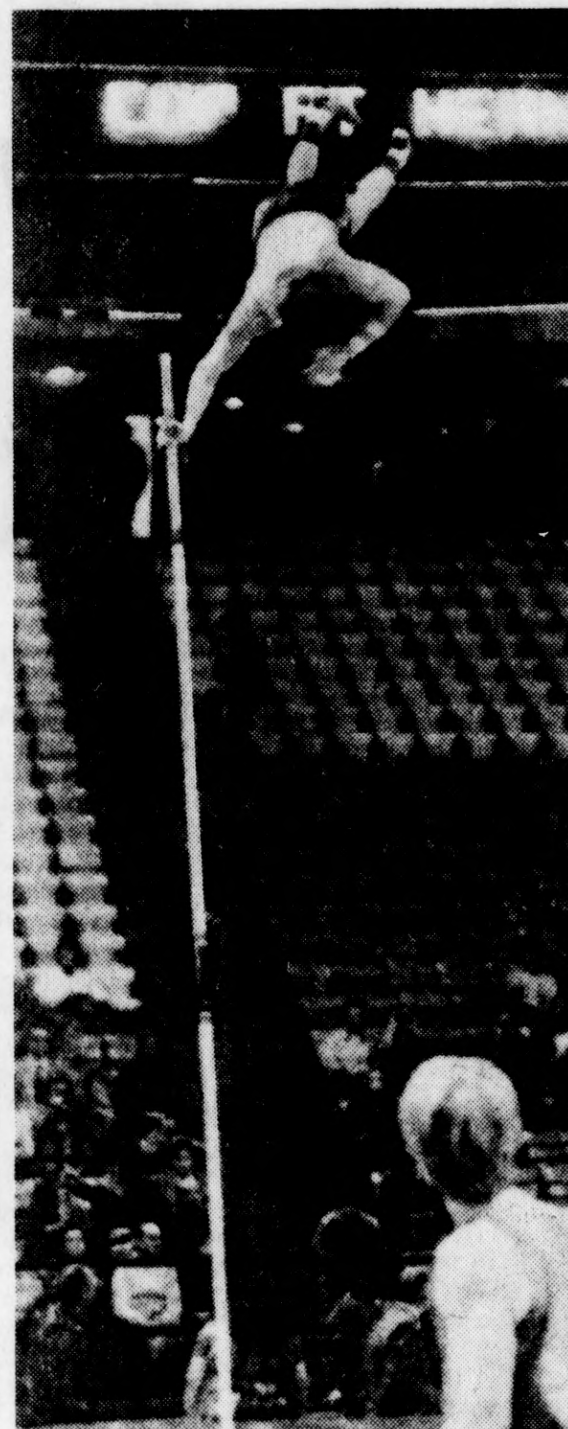

"Love missed practice because his car didn't start yesterday," Chicago Coach Dick Motta said in explaining why the team's top scorer began the game on the bench. "If the car couldn't start, why should he start?"

Frisco Vows Legal Battle

By RICHARD H. SMITH
Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Giants have agreed in principle to sell to Canadian purchasers who would move the baseball team to Toronto for the coming season, if National League owners approve and the courts do not block the transfer.

Directors of the National Exhibition Co., which owns the Giants, voted late Friday to sell the club for $13,250,000 to a Toronto group including Labatt's Breweries, Ltd.

Owners of the other 11 National League clubs will be asked in a meeting at Phoenix, Ariz. Wednesday to approve the sale and transfer of the franchise. Nine votes are needed.

In announcing the sale agreement, Charles Ruppert, executive vice president of the club, read a statement that $5,125,000 of the purchase price "will be retained in a fund to meet certain possible obligations with respect to the transaction."

Breaking the $125,000-a-year lease with the city of San Francisco for use of Candlestick Park through 1994 and costs involved in fighting any lawsuits to block the move would be financed from the $5,125,000.

Opponents of the move are thinkig bigger than that.

In less time than the 3½ hours the directors took for their meeting, the mayor of the city and the president of the Giants Booster Club each reacted with promises of court action to keep the Giants here. The team came here from New York in 1958.

Newly-elected George Moscone, serving his first full day as mayor, talked of a suit in excess of $10 million and vowed: "We will not, under any set of circumstances, settle for loss of the San Francisco Giants."

County Supervisor Quentin Kopp said, "They'd better set aside $23.5 million (the amount the city still owes on the ball park). I'm ready to fight."

Allen Murray, an insurance man who heads the Booster Club, said: "There won't be any $5 million suit; it will be an $80 million suit."

Baseball already faces trial over a $21 million suit in Seattle opening Monday and based on the transfer of the Seattle Pilots' baseball franchise to Milwaukee in 1970.

Mayor W's Uhlman of Seattle called the agreement to sell the Giants to the Toronto group instead of giving a franchise to Seattle "the shoddiest possible treatment of Seattle taxpayers and sports fans that one can imagine."

SF Really Team To Beat

Touted Dons Dumped By Pepperdine

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The San Francisco Dons were supposed to be one of the teams to beat this season in college basketball. And that's exactly what has happened — most everybody's beating them.

The 20th-ranked Dons, who recruited some of the best high school talent in the country, did not figure to lose to teams like Pepperdine.

But Friday night's 75-65 loss to their West Coast Athletic Association opponent was their fourth this season.

"This definitely was my biggest win in 20 years of coaching," said Pepperdine Coach Gary Colson after the stunning triumph in Los Angeles. "It's the biggest day in Pepperdine sports. It might have been the day we turned the corner."

Colson tempered his superlatives with some somber thoughts, though.

"We have to remember, though, that we're playing Santa Clara Saturday night, and they're 1-0 in conference play, too. We will really have to watch to make sure we don't let down."

Washington was the only other Top Twenty team in action Friday night and the eighth-ranked Huskies whipped California 76-56.

Center Marcos Leite scored 22 points and forward Ollie Matson Jr. had 19 points and 11 rebounds to lead Pepperdine's upset over San Francisco. The 6-foot-6 Matson, son of the former pro football player, scored six of his points in a late Wave rally which saw them outscore the Dons 13-4 and take a 73-61 lead.

The Pepperdine triumph in the WCAA opener for both teams came before a capacity — and school record — crowd of 3,500. The victory gave the Waves a 10-2 overall mark, while the loss was San Francisco's fourth in 15 contests. Flintie Williams added 19 points for Pepperdine, and San Francisco was led by Howard Smith, who had 18 points.

Pepperdine had led by a point, 28-27, at the intermission, and built a 90-47 margin in the second half. But the Dons ran off a 10-point string to make it 60-57 before the final Waves' spurt.

After leading by only one point at intermission, Washington took charge in the second half behind the play of James Edwards and Lars Hansen to whip California in the Pacific-8 Conference opener for both teams.

Edwards and Hansen combined for 26 points and 12 rebounds in the second half as Washington, 12-0, outscored the Bears 47-28. The Huskies led 29-28 at halftime and the game remained close until Washington ran off 10 straight points with 13 minutes to play. The Huskies later had a 12-4 stretch again Cal to increase their lead to 70-50 with three minutes to go.

Elsewhere, American University defeated Stetson 49-45 and Connecticut took Columbia 98-69 in the first round of the Connecticut Classic at Storrs. Rider downed Trenton State 82-49 and Bloomsburg State whipped Catholic University 92-80 in the first round of the Governor's Classic at Trenton, N.J.; Princeton beat Harvard 62-57; Yale stopped Brown, 52-45; Penn whipped Dartmouth 71-54; Seton Hall shocked Hawaii 79-75; Villanova tripped Boston College 78-70; Duke downed Georgia Tech 91-71; Texas-El Paso outscored Wyoming 49-45; New Mexico defeated Colorado State 80-71; Montana edged Idaho State 76-71 and Boise State downed Montana State 76-66.

Miller Sounds Warning For Tucson Challengers

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Johnny Miller, just two shots out, had a warning for pro golf's other big guns shooting for the title in the $200,000 Tucson Open.

"I might have a really low round any time, now," Miller said. "A 62 would be easy the way I'm hitting the ball."

Miller, who shot a second-round 69 that could have been much better, was one of 16 players in prime position today after two rounds of the tournament that kicked off the 1976 tour.

Always-dangerous Dave Hill, first-round leader Gibby Gilbert and 25-year-old Pat Fitzsimons shared the top spot at 137, seven under par after two trips over the 7,200 yards of cactus, desert and brush that make up the Tucson National Golf Club course.

Hill escaped without a bogey on the longest course the touring pros encounter all season but — just as he has before, during and after his last three victories — complained he wasn't playing very well. He had a 69, Fitzsimons blazed into contention with a 65, the best round of the mild, breezy day and Gilbert lost the lead alone with a bogey on the final hole that left him with a second-round 71.

British Open champion Tom Watson, Tom Weiskopf and Bobby Mitchell, the tour's self-styled "Invisible Man," were just one shot out at 138. Watson had a 68, Weiskopf 71 and Mitchell another 69.

Miller, Lee Trevino with a 67, and four others were at 139, only two shots out. The others at that figure, at their second-round scores, were Dave Stockton, 66; Frank Conner, 71; Bruce Lietzke, 67; and John Schroeder, 70.

U.S. Open king Lou Graham, Gene Littler, Jerry Heard and Curtis Sifford were very much in the race for the $40,000 first prize with 140 totals.

Arnold Palmer failed to qualify for the final two rounds. The frustrated, aging champion shot a 73, had a 150 total and was five strokes over the cut.

Both Hill, winner of the Sahara Open late last year, and the vastly-talented Weiskopf both denied they were looking at Miller, the record-setting, runaway winner of this tournament for the last two years.

"I respect Miller's ability. He's proved he's one of the game's great players. But I can't be concerned with him, I just have to try to post a score," Weiskopf said.

The outspoken Hill was a little more flavorful.

"I never pay any attention to the rest of these donkeys," Hill said. "They don't pay no attention to me so I don't pay no attention to them."

Tigers Add Power, Sign Alex Johnson

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers made another stab at adding power to their offense Friday with the signing of Alex Johnson, the 1970 American League batting champion.

Johnson, a 33-year-old right-hander, has a career average of .290. He has been a free agent since being released by the New York Yankees in September.

Johnson is the third significant addition to the Tigers' offense since they ended last season in the American League East basement. During the winter baseball meetings, the Tigers made trades for catcher Milt May and outfielder Rusty Staub, both solid left-handed hitters.

"I have always wanted to play with the Tigers because Detroit is my hometown," Johnson said. "And I always wanted to play for Ralph Houk. In fact, when the Yankees let me go, Ralph was the first one I called."

Johnson, who was Willie Horton's high school teammate at Detroit Northwestern, won the 1970 title with a .329 average. Last year, playing mostly as a designated hitter for New York, Johnson hit .261 in 82 games.

But Johnson has had his problems with management in his 12-year major league career. Detroit is his eighth team and he has never stayed with any club longer than two years. Tiger General Manager Jim Campbell, however, said he isn't concerned with Johnson's previous problems.

"His past is his past," Campbell said. "Ralph and I both felt he was entitled to a fresh start and playing in his hometown could be just what he needed."

"I'm thoroughly convinced he wants to play in Detroit. And what we needed more than anything was a good right-handed hitter."

In 1971, Johnson was fined 29 times by the California Angels and was finally suspended for what the Angels termed "not giving his best."

And twice, once with the Houston Astros and then again with the Yankees, Manager Billy Martin placed Johnson on waivers.

But Tiger Manager Houk said of Johnson, "He's always had great ability. We all know what he can do. It's up to him. We're happy to have him."

Johnson said he is ready to play any position the Tigers assign him — outfield, designated hitter or pinch hitter.

"I just like to play," he said. "I would miss hitting more than I would fielding, but it doesn't make that much difference."

"Tiger Stadium is a good ball park to hit in. The lights are good, the dimensions are good unless you're a dead-centerfielder and the infield is consistent as far as hitting a ball through."

Johnson, 6 feet tall and 205 pounds, makes his home in Detroit with his wife and two children. His brother, Ron, was a football star at the University of Michigan and now plays for the New York Giants.

Berrien County Hosting CanAmer Winter Games

The CanAmer Winter Games will be hosted by Berrien County for the first time on Saturday, March 13.

"Brant county, Ontario, has hosted the Winter Games since they began three years ago, primarily because of a lack of ice time availability for hockey around Berrien county," states

Oliver Edwards, chairman of the board of Berrien County Olympic and CanAmer Games, Inc.

This winter's hockey games will be played at the Ice Box arena in South Bend.

Besides hockey, the Winter Games will also include a new division of boys basketball for 10 and 11-year-olds and a girls gymnastic exhibition. Sites for the basketball and gymnastics will be announced later.

There will be two divisions in the hockey competition: 15 and 16 and 17 and 18-year-olds.

Tryouts for the Berrien team will be held Sunday, Jan. 18, at the Western Michigan University ice arena in Kalamazoo from 2 to 4 p.m. and at the Ice Box in South Bend from 9:15 to 11:15 p.m.

Players trying out for the CanAmer hockey team must have helmets with straps or mouth guards and heel protectors on their skates.

Points earned in hockey and basketball will be combined with results Summer Games to determine the winner of the 1976 CanAmer trophy.

Jackson Explodes Past LMC 120-81

LMC scored the game's first basket, but after that it was all downhill. Jackson raced out to a 71-44 halftime bulge and was never really headed.

"They couldn't miss and they wouldn't miss," Lake Michigan coach Art Crump said. "Their shooting and our watching them shoot was the whole story. We let them shoot their shots."

Joe Boertman pumped in 29 points to lead Jackson, which is now 1-5 in the league and 4-9 overall. Dennis Heselshwerdt added 25, Clint Smith 24 and Brian Jurasek 20.

Kerry Lee and Vern Reynolds each tossed in 14 points for LMC, now 2-4 and 4-9, respectively.

Gobles Drops 5th Straight To Hopkins

GOBLES — Hopkins handed Gobles its fifth straight setback by beating the Tigers 74-46 here Friday night in a non-league matchup.

Hopkins, 4-4 overall, got some balanced scoring with four players reaching double digits with Ron Schafer leading the way with 21 points.

Co-SAC Leading Cards Top Lawton

LAWTON — Bloomingdale remained tied with Marcellus for the Southwestern Athletic conference lead at 4-0 with a 57-50 win over Lawton here Friday night in high school basketball.

It wasn't all milk and cookies for the now 4-4 Cardinals. They blew out to a 37-20 halftime lead thanks to some good out-court shooting.

"We started off in a zone because we knew they were quick," stated Blue Devils' coach Bruce Bendix. "But they just bombed us from the outside."

Lawton didn't roll over and play dead in the last half as it closed the margin to within five points at 49-44 with about three minutes to go.

But Bloomingdale went into its stall offense and Lawton had to foul the Cards to get the ball back. "In the second half, it was our man-to-man defense that shut them off," said Bendix. "Our kids played super defense."

Kevin Burke of Lawton came off the bench to lead all scorers with 17 points. Thus is the second game in a row he has accomplished that feat. Others in double figures for the Blue Devils were John Lepley with 14 and Dawson Rupp with 12. Jeff Melvin led Bloomingdale with 16 points while Bill Rowlinson and Goldman Greene each netted 14 points.

Lawton now stands at 2-3 in the league and 2-6 overall.

Tigers Add Power, Sign Alex Johnson

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers made another stab at adding power to their offensive lineup Friday with the signing of Alex Johnson, the 1970 American League batting champion.

Johnson, a 33-year-old righthander, has a career average of .290. He has been a free agent since being released by the New York Yankees in September.

Johnson is the third significant addition to the Tigers' offense since they ended last season in the American League East basement. During the winter baseball meetings, the Tigers made trades for catcher Milt May and outfielder Rusty Staub, both solid left-handed hitters.

"I have always wanted to play with the Tigers because Detroit is my hometown," Johnson said. "And I always wanted to play for Ralph Houk. In fact, when the Yankees let me go, Ralph was the first one I called."

Johnson, who was Willie Horton's high school teammate at Detroit Northwestern, won the 1970 title with a .329 average. Last year, playing mostly as a designated hitter or New York, Johnson hit .261 in 52 games.

But Johnson has had his problems with management in his 12-year major league career. Detroit is his eighth team and he has never stayed with any club longer than two years.

Tiger GENERAL Manager Jim Campbell, however, said he isn't concerned with Johnson's previous problems.

"His past is his past," Campbell said. "Ralph and I both felt he was entitled to a fresh start and playing in his hometown could be just what he needed."

"I'm thoroughly convinced he wants to play in Detroit. And what we needed more than anything was a good right-handed hitter."

In 1971, Johnson was fined 29 times by the California Angels and was finally suspended for what the Angels termed "not giving his best."

And twice, once with the Houston Astros and then again with the Yankees, Manager Billy Martin placed Johnson on waivers.

But Tiger Manager Houk said of Johnson, "He's always had great ability. We all know what he can do. It's up to him. We're happy to have him."

Johnson said he is ready to play any position the Tigers assign him — outfield, designated hitter or pinch hitter.

"I just like to play," he said. "I would miss hitting more than I would fielding, but it doesn't make that much difference."

"Tiger Stadium is a good ball park to hit in. The lights are good, the dimensions are good unless you're a dead-centerfielder and the infield is consistent as far as hitting a ball though."

Johnson, 6 feet tall and 205 pounds, makes his home in Detroit with his wife and two children. His brother, Ron, was a football star at the University of Michigan and now plays for the New York Giants.

Berrien County Hosting CanAmer Winter Games

The CanAmer Winter Games will be hosted by Berrien County for the first time on Saturday, March 13.

"Brant county, Ontario, has hosted the Winter Games since they began three years ago, primarily because of a lack of ice time availability for hockey around Berrien county," states

Oliver Edwards, chairman of the board of Berrien County Olympic and CanAmer Games, Inc.

This winter's hockey games will be played at the Ice Box arena in South Bend.

Besides hockey, the Winter Games will also include a new division of boys basketball for 10 and 11-year-olds and a girls gymnastic exhibition. Sites for the basketball and gymnastics will be announced later.

There will be two divisions in the hockey competition: 15 and 16 and 17 and 18-year-olds. Tryouts for the Berrien team will be held Sunday, Jan. 18, at the Western Michigan University ice arena in Kalamazoo from 2 to 4 p.m. and at the Ice Box in South Bend from 9:15 to 11:15 p.m.

Players trying out for the CanAmer hockey team must have helmets with straps or mouth guards and heel protectors on their skates.

Points earned in hockey and basketball will be combined with results Summer Games to determine the winner of the 1976 CanAmer trophy.

TIME OUT!

Jackson Explodes Past LMC 120-81

JACKSON — Boasting four players with at least 20 points, Jackson Community College rolled over Lake Michigan College 120-81 here Friday night.

LMC scored the game's first basket, but after that it was all downhill. Jackson raced out to a 71-44 halftime bulge and was never really headed.

"They couldn't miss and they wouldn't miss," Lake Michigan coach Art Crump said. "Their shooting and our watching them shoot was the whole story. We let them shoot their shots."

Co-SAC Leading Cards Top Lawton

LAWTON — Bloomingdale remained tied with Marcellus for the Southwestern Athletic conference lead at 4-0 with a 57-50 win over Lawton here Friday night in high school basketball.

It wasn't all milk and cookies for the now 4-4 Cardinals. They blew out to a 37-20 halftime lead thanks to some good out-court shooting.

"We started off in a zone because we knew they were quick," stated Blue Devils' coach Bruce Bendix. "But they just bombed us from the outside."

Lawton didn't roll over and play dead in the last half as it closed the margin to within five points at 49-44 with about three minutes to go.

But Bloomingdale went into it's stall offense and Lawton had to foul the Cards to get the ball back. "In the second half, it was our man-to-man defense that shut them off," said Bendix. "Our kids played super defense."

Kevin Burke of Lawton came off the bench to lead all scorers with 17 points. Thus is the second game in a row he has accomplished that feat. Others in double figures for the Blue Devils were John Lepy with 14 and Dawson Rupp with 12.

Jeff Melvin led Bloomingdale with 16 points while Bill Rowilson and Goldman Greene each netted 14 points.

Lawton now stands at 2-3 in the league and 2-6 overall.

Pro-And-Con On Buying Land As Home Site

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Is it a mistake to put the entire savings into land until you can afford to build a house, even though it may be years away? That question, asked by a young couple, gets a variety of answers from people who have bought land.

But they agree that answer depends entirely on what you want the land now and when you can afford to build the house.

If land is a good investment and can be unloaded easily if you decide not to build, fine.

If it was a bargain and gives satisfactory use meanwhile — camping, bird watching, etc., or if it is in a location that you must be in where land is scarce — why not?

If you can afford to build on it within a reasonable time, great.

Those are good reasons to buy the land.

But there are drawbacks to owning it if it is just bought to hold until you can afford to build many years from now, even if the taxes are low, these knowledgeable people point out.

For one thing, it's expensive to build even if you do it yourself. In an inflationary period how long would it take to raise the money for the house?

Land is often bought because it is cheap and has conservation appeal, but young people forget they are going to use it as a house site, too. Then they perhaps need to remove trees, build a road, connect electricity and so on.

A swamp, marsh or pond may be an environmental asset but the big consideration must be: is there a good site for the house? If it must be placed far from these attractions so that they will not be seen, it may not fulfill the aim of a bucolic view after all.

Some towns are eyeing marshes, swamps and other watering spots and are now trying to protect them, they say. This means land purchased for building may be subjected to scrutiny as town fathers decide whether the house will be detrimental to that choice environment.

What prevails when the land is bought may be no indication of how a town acts later.

Most people agree, too, that in land prices there are few bargains unless there are some drawbacks. If there is a great deal of acreage the house no doubt will be away from all conveniences, including good rail transportation.

Some young people have made wise investments, holding out for some kind of little house to go with land. One couple managed to get an early dwelling in disrepair. They remodeled it and used it as a meanwhile house. After five years they can afford to build a small house on two other acres of the land and already have a buyer for the old house they've made livable. This is an ideal investment that takes careful planning. They did make some sacrifices, but they had something to build their dreams on and their project was debt-controlled.

Q. — The woodwork in our dining room had been stained, but I was told that I could paint right over it. Luckily, I tried out a small area first and let it stand for a couple of weeks. Sure enough, despite what I had been told, the stain had bled through. I want to be sure when I do the entire woodwork that this doesn't happen again. How can I be sure?

A. — You were wise to make a test first, since even a professional sometimes has a hard time determining whether a particular stain will bleed through a particular paint. Even where it is somebody's judgment that the stain won't bleed, it can save a lot of trouble later on if a sealer is put on first. One of the best sealers is ordinary clear shellac, diluted about 50 per cent with denatured alcohol. To be really sure, apply one coat, wait a day and apply a second coat. Wait another day, then go ahead with the painting.

Q. — One of our basement windows permits the entry of water during a heavy rainstorm. I have decided to close up the window entrance with glass blocks. However, I have discovered that, no matter what size glass blocks I get, they will not exactly fill the window opening. Several of the blocks will have to be cut. Can you tell me how to cut such blocks?

A. — Sorry. Cutting a glass block is a tricky job you should not attempt. There is another solution. Merely install a new frame around the window opening, one of a size that will take a specific number of blocks. To do this, you should decide first what size blocks you want to purchase, then determine how many will fit into the frame you intend to make. Be sure that you allow enough mortar that is used to hold the blocks in place and make the joints waterproof. If you haven't done work of a similar nature in the past, get detailed instructions from the dealer who sells you the blocks.

"An unfortunate event resulting from carelessness, unawareness, ignorance or unavoidable causes."

That's the dictionary definition of an accident. Statistics show that the large majority of accidents occur from the first three causes rather than the last. That's especially so in the case of accidents suffered by those doing-it-yourselfers.

Here are some safety rules:

- When a power machine has a blade guard, use it.
- When engaged where particles are likely to fly, such as grinding, use safety goggles.
- If you spill paint, grease or anything, wipe it up immediately.

- Stop working when you feel the least bit fatigued.
- You are also more susceptible to an accident when you are bored, so try to vary your work schedule.
- When a label says "use only in a well-ventilated area," do so.

- Dull tools cause more accidents than sharp ones.
- Before using a hammer, make sure the head is secure.
- Always pull on a wrench; never push.
- Don't smoke while using a sprayer.
- Don't paint a wooden

- ladder. It hides defects that may later occur.
- Don't replace a fuse with one of larger amperage.
- Rags used for grease, oil, paint or any similar material should be disposed of immediately, preferably in a covered metal container.

Two Homes Worth $52,000 Lead Hagar's December List

Six permits were issued during December by Hagar Township Building Inspector Floyd Elson, representing an estimated $56,800 in building projects in the township.

Two of the permits were issued for new houses.

Modern Construction company, Coloma, was issued a permit to build a tri-level 29 by 52-foot house with attached garage in Harrington Heights, Kerlikowski road, estimated cost, $32,000.

The other permit for a house went to Tony Argondelis, 5730 Martin road, Coloma, for a 24 by 38-foot dwelling plus attached garage on Lot 7, Harrington Heights, Kerlikowski road, $20,000.

Other permits went to William Parrish, 6900 Island court, Coloma, to demolish house at 4188 Bundy road, no value.

Irvin Swarz, 2588 Pier road, Benton Harbor, finish basement, panel walls and add suspended ceiling, $1,500.

Ardith Russell, 5340 Riverside road, Coloma, add new ceiling in three rooms at 3019 Lakeshore drive, $100.

Frank Bova, 3564 US-33 North, Benton Harbor, remodel upstairs bedrooms, add dormer to north side of house, addition to south side of house for family room and bedroom, $3,000.

For 1975, Elson reported 242 permits were issued representing an estimated $1,044,197 in construction. Of the total, three were commercial structures valued at $264,000; 20 were for houses worth $499,627, one was for a four-apartment complex valued at $25,000; and 218 permits totaling $266,570 were for repairs and remodeling projects.

This 'Coat' Isn't Warm

NEW YORK (AP) — "Open" and "closed coatings" on sandpaper tell about the spacing of the mineral abrasives. An open coating means the abrasive particles are spaced far apart, allowing sanded material like paint or old finishes to fall free without clogging.

A closed coating means the abrasive particles are spaced close together. Closed-coat sandpaper is the type used for most general sanding.

This 'Coat' Isn't Warm

NEW YORK (AP) — "Open" and "closed coatings" on sandpaper tell about the spacing of the mineral abrasives. An open coating means the abrasive particles are spaced far apart, allowing sanded material like paint or old finishes to fall free without clogging.

A closed coating means the abrasive particles are spaced close together. Closed-coat sandpaper is the type used for most general sanding.

Berrien 'Test Case' Appeal Turned Down

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

The Michigan Court of Appeals has denied an appeal by the Berrien prosecutor's office in what was labeled a "test case" which sought to clarify Michigan law concerning a form of double jeopardy.

The appeal sought to overturn a 1974 ruling by Berrien Circuit Judge Julian E. Hughes in which a felony charge was dismissed against a man because he was acquitted of a misdemeanor charge in district court.

Asst. Prosecutor Sally Zack said the prosecutor's office hopes to appeal the case to the state supreme court.

The state supreme court previously ruled that a defendant must be charged with all crimes arising from the same incident at one time to avoid double jeopardy.

Double jeopardy as applied in this instance essentially means a defendant cannot be prosecuted for another crime arising from the same incident if he is acquitted of the first crime with which he is charged.

The case appealed by the prosecutor's office involved

Clarence L. Kretschmer Jr., 32, of South Bend, who was arrested by Niles township police March 31, 1974, on a charge of public intoxication, a misdemeanor.

He allegedly resisted the attempt to arrest him, and was also charged with resisting arrest, a felony. On Aug. 13, 1974, Kretschmer was acquitted of the misdemeanor in Berrien Fifth District court, and Hughes dismissed the felony charge in September, ruling Kretschmer couldn't be tried on the felony charge because of the acquittal and because both charges came from the same incident.

The prosecution in the appeal argued that the offenses should be separate because one was a misdemeanor and the other a felony, and because the criminal intent in each was different.

The appeals court, though, held both were the result of a single transaction and came under the supreme court ruling.

Miss Zack explained that under the present ruling, a defendant could trespass on a citizen's property, murder the property owner, be acquitted of the trespass charge (a misdemeanor), and the prosecutor's office would not be allowed to try him for murder.

Senate CIA Plan Irks Ford Men

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House officials are expressing dismay over a Senate proposal for tighter control of the CIA as President Ford convenes a high level meeting to discuss his own plans for reorganizing the intelligence community.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, Defense Secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld, CIA Director William E. Colby and other top officials were scheduled to meet with the President today to go over a variety of options for overhauling the nation's intelligence operations.

White House counsel Philip Buchen on Friday voiced dismay at suggestions offered by the Senate Intelligence Committee, but said the President is considering "almost every option that has been seriously advocated" during the past year of investigations into the CIA, FBI and other intelligence agencies.

Buchen declined to be specific but said the options ranged from simply issuing clearer guidelines to a radical restructuring that would put all intelligence agencies under one roof.

He ruled out only two possibilities — creating a separate agency in charge of covert operations and moving the CIA director into the White House.

Buchen said he has no idea when the final package will be decided on, but another administration official predicted Ford would present at least the broad outlines of the reorganization in his State of the Union message scheduled for Jan. 19.

In a telephone interview, Buchen voiced strong disagreement with legislation drafted by the intelligence committee which would require the administration to give Congress prior notification before embarking on sensitive intelligence operations.

The Senate committee draft, a portion of which was read to The Associated Press, states that a new intelligence oversight committee to be created by the act must be informed of any "activity that is specified as especially sensitive prior to the time such activity is initiated."

The bill would reserve for Congress the right to determine which intelligence activities fall in the "especially sensitive" category, according to one source familiar with its contents.

The draft bill, copies of which have been circulated within the executive branch, represents a significant strengthening of current legislation which requires "timely" notification of Congress of CIA covert operations.

Appeals Court Says Judge Erred

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A Berrien Circuit Court judge erred in 1974 when he did not allow a defendant to show why his guilty plea should be withdrawn, the state Court of Appeals ruled Friday.

The appellate court ordered a hearing on Albert Thomas' claims that his guilty plea to armed robbery was made under duress.

Thomas, according to court record, claimed an officer had told him the judge was angry with him and that it would be better for him to plead guilty. At the time of his sentencing, he tried to withdraw the plea.

Judge Julian Hughes denied Thomas' request.

Detroit TV Personality Recovering

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Syndicated television talk show host Lou Gordon was listed in good condition Friday and transferred out of the intensive care unit following earlier open-heart surgery, a University of Michigan Hospital spokesman said.

The spokesman said Gordon was continuing to make progress in his recovery from Tuesday's surgery.

Saugatuck Woman Hurt In Crash

A Saugatuck woman was injured Friday when her auto slipped off the roadway, went out of control and struck a utility pole on US-33, between Benson and Monte roads, Benton township.

Township police said Genevieve C. Coatoun, 64, sustained a large laceration on the forehead and was admitted to Mercy hospital. She was identified as the driver. Mrs. Coatoun told police the car went out of control when the right front wheel slipped off the roadway. No tickets were issued, police said.

The road was reported partially snow-covered, and the accident was the third in the same area near the Whirlpool Corp. administration center since 3:25 p.m. Thursday. The Coatom auto crashed about 7:15 a.m. Friday.

In one of the earlier accidents, John F. Heier, 37, of 824 1/2 Michigan avenue, St. Joseph sustained head wounds and was taken to Bronson hospital, Kalamazoo. Township police said Heier later was listed in "good" condition. Heier was alone in an auto that struck several trees about 3:25 p.m. Thursday. In the other accident in the same area about 11:30 p.m. Thursday, two people received apparently minor injuries, police said.

African Leaders Begin Conference

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — African leaders met here today in an effort to bring an end to the Angolan civil war.

President Idi Amin of Uganda, chairman of the Organization of African Unity, said on the eve of the conference that Africa's first priority is to stop the bloodshed and not to endorse any of the three Angolan factions.

"We have not come here to discuss Russia, Cuba or anybody. Any force in Angola — South Africa, Europe, Russia — they are killing Angolans. We condemn everybody, even black Africans, if they are involved," Amin said on his arrival here Friday night.

Amin, dressed in a blue air force uniform and wearing a pistol on his hip, called for a cease-fire by midnight tonight.

Three Angolan factions have been fighting for control of the oil and mineral-rich west African territory since it was set free by Portugal on Nov. 11. A half-dozen cease-fires already have been ignored or lasted for a brief period.

The Popular Movement (MPLA), reportedly backed by Soviet weapons and Cuban soldiers, has declared a People's Republic of Angola. The National Union (UNITA) and National Front (FNLA) are allied as the Democratic Republic of Angola and have received American and South African aid.

Diplomats have predicted the OAU would seal MPLA delegates at the summit because more than 20 African states have recognized the faction. But some said the question is so divisive that it might not be brought up.

Amin said he was "very, very happy" with American policy on Angola after receiving a letter from President Ford saying Washington would not interfere in Angola.

Osmany Cienfuegos, secretary of the Cuban cabinet, arrived here with a five-man delegation from Havana. He said he was in Addis Ababa only for bilateral discussions with Ethiopian officials, but the Cubans wore badges entitling them to visit the OAU conference center.

Delegates arriving here Friday for the first emergency summit in the OAU's 12-year history said the crisis was complicated by an East-West confrontation involving powers far beyond the ability of Africa's young and relatively weak nations to control.

Moreover, they said, South Africa's invasion of Angola suggested that for the first time, the comparatively powerful white-minority regime was attempting to extend its influence into independent black Africa.

In Washington, presidential spokesman Ron Nessen said the United States "is encouraged by the fact the OAU is meeting at the summit level on the Angolan problem. It shows African countries are seeking an African solution to an African problem, which the United States has advocated all along."

Paw Paw Board To Meet Monday

PAW PAW — There will be a special meeting of the Paw Paw Board of Education at 7 p.m. Monday to consider the tenure status of teacher Thomas Hawley, according to announcement by Harold R. Price, school board president.

Hawley, 29, Portage, was suspended with pay by Supt. Norval Bovee May 8 following his arrest on a charge of criminal sexual conduct involving a 12-year-old boy. The boy is a student at Black River elementary where Hawley taught.

The board voted July 14 to initiate procedures to end Hawley's teacher tenure after the criminal charges were filed against him. Hawley's first trial on the charge ended Sept. 17 when Van Buren Circuit Court Judge David Anderson Jr. declared a mistrial, saying there had been a procedural error made in regard to the admissibility of a statement made by Hawley at the time of his arrest.

Resolution of the tenure charges is not expected to be completed until the outcome of a new trial, which has not yet been scheduled.

Van Buren Man Is Bound Over

PAW PAW — Billy H. Sikes, 18, Box 264, Bangor, was bound over to Van Buren circuit court yesterday after waiving Seventh district court preliminary examination on a charge of unlawful use of a motor vehicle. The charge grew out of the theft of a two-ton flatbed truck from Sikes' former employer, Shafer Farms, on Dec. 24 in Arlington township, according to Van Buren sheriff's deputies.

Sikes was confined at liberty on $1,000 bond.

In another case, Thomas Munson, 29, 518 Lincoln, Bangor, was ordered held on $1,500 bond after demanding a preliminary examination on a charge of writing three non-sufficient fund checks within 10 days.

The checks, totaling $33, were written between Sept. 25-30 on a Lawton bank account, and cashed at a Lawrence grocery store, according to the complaint.

GOP Leader Urges Change In Tax Law

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Senate Minority Leader Robert Davis says Michigan's 10-day Single Business Tax needs changes to ease the burden on small businesses.

The Gaylord Republican said the new tax is now estimated by budget officials to bring in $50 million more than expected. And he urged the burden on small businesses be eased by that amount.

At a news conference Friday, Davis released a letter he had sent to Gov. William Milliken urging the change in the tax. Milliken proposed the new tax to replace eight business taxes, and it won legislative approval last year.

A spokesman for Milliken said the governor received the letter but had no immediate comment.

The new tax, a single levy on profits, payrolls, interest and depreciation, was intended to provide a major break for utilities and industries in an attempt to spur industrial expansion and create new jobs. It was understood that many small businesses — including professional and service firms — would bear a bigger tax burden.

But Davis said Friday such businesses are hurting even more than expected. "It was not understood to be that costly," he said.

In his letter to Milliken, Davis said legislators have "received a great deal of negative response to the impact of the Single Business Tax on small businesses. It is their feeling that small businesses, which are the backbone of Michigan's economy, are paying too great a portion of the total tax burden."

"The added expense of this new tax may prove to be the downfall of many small businesses in the state," Davis said.

Davis asked Milliken to direct Gerald Miller, director of the Department of Management and Budget, to aid in drafting changes in the law, which took effect Jan. 1.

On other matters, Davis:

— Said he supports raising taxes on cigarettes, beer, wine and liquor if additional revenue is needed to balance the upcoming budget. He also urged quick approval of welfare reform, which, he said, could save the state $75 million.

— Predicted Milliken will propose a budget for 1976-77 of only $3.1 billion to $3.2 billion, a small increase over the current budget of $3.07 billion. "It's going to be a very austere year," he said.

— Said "there will no further compromise" on the Republican side in worker's compensation revisions. The governor and majority Democrats are battling over the cost of increasing compensation benefits.

— Said he will urge Senate Republicans to file a new suit before the state Supreme Court over reapportionment of Michigan legislative districts. A Democratic-controlled court selected the current districting plan, which Republicans maintained is gerrymandered to help Democrats. Davis said the current GOP tilt on the court means "our chances are better" in getting a new districting plan.

Berrien 'Test Case' Appeal Turned Down

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

The Michigan Court of Appeals has denied an appeal by the Berrien prosecutor's office in what was labeled a "test case" which sought to clarify Michigan law concerning a form of double jeopardy.

The appeal sought to overturn a 1974 ruling by Berrien Circuit Judge Julian E. Hughes in which a felony charge was dismissed against a man because he was acquitted of a misdemeanor charge in district court.

Asst. Prosecutor Sally Zack said the prosecutor's office hopes to appeal the case to the state supreme court.

The state supreme court previously ruled that a defendant must be charged with all crimes arising from the same incident at one time to avoid double jeopardy.

Double jeopardy as applied in this instance essentially means a defendant cannot be prosecuted for another crime arising from the same incident if he is acquitted of the first crime with which he is charged.

The case appealed by the prosecutor's office involved

Clarence L. Kretschmer Jr., 32, of South Bend, who was arrested by Niles township police March 31, 1974, on a charge of public intoxication, a misdemeanor.

He allegedly resisted the attempt to arrest him, and was also charged with resisting arrest, a felony. On Aug. 13, 1974, Kretschmer was acquitted of the misdemeanor in Berrien Fifth District court, and Hughes dismissed the felony charge in September, ruling Kretschmer couldn't be tried on the felony charge because of the acquittal and because both charges came from the same incident.

The prosecution in the appeal argued that the offenses should be separate because one was a misdemeanor and the other a felony, and because the criminal intent in each was different.

The appeals court, though, held both were the result of a single transaction and came under the supreme court ruling.

Miss Zack explained that under the present ruling, a defendant could trespass on a citizen's property, murder the property owner, be acquitted of the trespass charge (a misdemeanor), and the prosecutor's office would not be allowed to try him for murder.

Senate CIA Plan Irks Ford Men

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House officials are expressing dismay over a Senate proposal for tighter control of the CIA as President Ford convenes a high level meeting to discuss his own plans for reorganizing the intelligence community.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, Defense Secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld, CIA Director William E. Colby and other top officials were scheduled to meet with the President today to go over a variety of options for overhauling the nation's intelligence operations.

White House counsel Philip Buchen on Friday voiced dismay at suggestions offered by the Senate Intelligence Committee, but said the President is considering "almost every option that has been seriously advocated" during the past year of investigations into the CIA, FBI and other intelligence agencies.

Buchen declined to be specific but said the options ranged from simply issuing clearer guidelines to a radical restructuring that would put all intelligence agencies under one roof.

He ruled out only two possibilities — creating a separate agency in charge of covert operations and moving the CIA director into the White House.

Buchen said he has no idea when the final package will be decided on, but another administration official predicted Ford would present at least the broad outlines of the reorganization in his State of the Union message scheduled for Jan. 19.

In a telephone interview, Buchen voiced strong disagreement with legislation drafted by the intelligence committee which would require the administration to give Congress prior notification before embarking on sensitive intelligence operations.

The Senate committee draft, a portion of which was read to The Associated Press, states that a new intelligence oversight committee to be created by the act must be informed of any "activity that is specified as especially sensitive prior to the time such activity is initiated."

The bill would reserve for Congress the right to determine which intelligence activities fall in the "especially sensitive" category, according to one source familiar with its contents.

The draft bill, copies of which have been circulated within the executive branch, represents a significant strengthening of current legislation which requires "timely" notification of Congress of CIA covert operations.

Appeals Court Says Judge Erred

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A Berrien Circuit Court judge erred in 1974 when he did not allow a defendant to show why his guilty plea should be withdrawn, the state Court of Appeals ruled Friday.

The appellate court ordered a hearing on Albert Thomas' claims that his guilty plea to armed robbery was made under duress.

Thomas, according to court record, claimed an officer had told him the judge was angry with him and that it would be better for him to plead guilty.

At the time of his sentencing, he tried to withdraw the plea.

Judge Julian Hughes denied Thomas' request.

Hughes abused his discretion in not allowing Thomas to give his reasons for wanting to withdraw the plea or present evidence, the appellate court ruled.

Also dismissed was a charge of breaking and entering filed against Sammie E. Fee, 18, of Dayton Lake road, Galien.

Sentenced were: James L. Brown, 18, of 141 Church street, Benton Harbor, 30 days in jail for assault and battery against Lloyd Hughes, Benton Harbor policeman, Dec. 6.

Roosevelt Perkins, 26, Milner hotel, Benton Harbor, one year in jail for recklessly allowing a handgun to fire and wound Ray Hampton Dec. 13 in Benton Harbor. The charge was reduced from assault with a deadly weapon.

Saugatuck Woman Hurt In Crash

A Saugatuck woman was injured Friday when her auto slipped off the roadway, went out of control and struck a utility pole on US-33, between Benson and Monte roads, Benton township.

Township police said Genevieve C. Coatoam, 64, sustained a large laceration on the forehead and was admitted to Mercy hospital. She was identified as the driver. Mrs. Coatoam told police the car went out of control when the right front wheel slipped off the roadway. No tickets were issued, police said.

The road was reported partially snow-covered, and the accident was the third in the same area near the Whirlpool Corp. administration center since 3:25 p.m. Thursday. The Coatoam auto crashed about 7:15 a.m. Friday.

In one of the earlier accidents, John F. Heier, 37, of 824½ Michigan avenue, St. Joseph sustained head wounds and was taken to Bronson hospital, Kalamazoo. Township police said Heier later was listed in "good" condition. Heier was alone in an auto that struck several trees about 3:25 p.m. Thursday. In the other accident in the same area about 11:30 p.m. Thursday, two people received apparently minor injuries, police said.

African Leaders Begin Conference

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — African leaders met here today in an effort to bring an end to the Angolan civil war.

President Idi Amin of Uganda, chairman of the Organization of African Unity, said on the eve of the conference that Africa's first priority is to stop the bloodshed and not to endorse any of the three Angolan factions.

"We have not come here to discuss Russia, Cuba or anybody. Any force in Angola — South Africa, Europe, Russia — they are killing Angolans. We condemn everybody, even black Africans, if they are involved," Amin said on his arrival here Friday night.

Amin, dressed in a blue air force uniform and wearing a pistol on his hip, called for a cease-fire by midnight tonight.

Three Angolan factions have been fighting for control of the oil and mineral-rich west African territory since it was set free by Portugal on Nov. 11. A half-dozen cease-fires already have been ignored or lasted for a brief period.

The Popular Movement (MPLA), reportedly backed by Soviet weapons and Cuban soldiers, has declared a People's Republic of Angola. The National Union (UNITA) and National Front (FNLA) are allied as the Democratic Republic of Angola and have received American and South African aid.

Diplomats have predicted the OAU would seat MPLA delegates at the summit because more than 20 African states have recognized the faction. But some said the question is so divisive that it might not be brought up.

Amin said he was "very, very happy" with American policy on Angola after receiving a letter from President Ford saying Washington would not interfere in Angola.

Osmany Cienfuegos, secretary of the Cuban cabinet, arrived here with a five-man delegation from Havana. He said he was in Addis Ababa only for bilateral discussions with Ethiopian officials, but the Cubans wore badges entitling them to visit the OAU conference center.

Delegates arriving here Friday for the first emergency summit in the OAU's 12-year history said the crisis was complicated by an East-West

More Snowmobile Deaths

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — More people in Michigan were killed on snowmobiles in 1975 than in any other state, says an official of the state Department of Natural Resources. The 44 who died set a new high record for Michigan by topping 1974's figure of 34 deaths, said Frank Polk of the DNR's law enforcement division. Most of the victims, who ranged in age from 4 to 63 years, drowned when their vehicles fell through thin ice or died when the machines struck trees or parked cars. But others were decapitated by guy wires, run over by other snowmobiles or killed by trains, Polk said. State Police statistics show another 1,600 people were injured in snowmobile accidents last year. Most had broken legs or head and neck injuries.

BUY! BUY! Market Chalks Up Near-Record Week

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market roared ahead this past week in a surge of buying that produced the second-busiest week in New York Stock Exchange history. Prices posted their biggest weekly gain since the fall of 1974 with encouragement from signs of slackening inflationary pressures and falling interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, rising in all five sessions, piled up a 52.42 gain to 911.13. It was the largest advance for the average since it took a record 73.61 jump from Oct. 7 through 11, 1974.

Nearly 9 out of every 10 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange rose in price, including all 25 of the most-active stocks.

The final tally showed 1,807 gainers and only 165 losers among the 2,072 issues changing hands.

Turnover on the Big Board came to 141.94 million shares, falling just short of the record of 145.88 million set late last January.

The activity reached a peak on Wednesday when 33.17 million shares were traded for the third-largest daily total on record.

What appeared to happen, analysts said, was a shift in psychology that started with a few investors buying, producing gains that attracted more investors who had been waiting restlessly for a sign of which way the market was headed after six months of inconclusive fluctuations.

As often seems to happen in the market, once a trend was established the economic news fell into line to support that trend.

On Tuesday, the Federal Reserve made a move, in the money markets which credit experts said confirmed that it had decided to relax its credit policy further.

Cleveland Trust on Wednesday lowered its prime lending rate from 7 1/4 to 7 per cent. By Friday most of the nation's major banks had matched that reduction.

The government, meanwhile, reported that its wholesale price index had fallen 0.4 per cent in December, after adjustment for seasonal influences.

The index wound up 1975 with a net rise of 4.2 per cent — a distinct drop from the 20.9 per cent jump it registered the previous year.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index climbed 4.06 to 94.85, and the NYSE's composite index rose 2.25 to 30.28.

Both the Dow and the NYSE index passed milestones — the Dow closing above 900 for the first time since November 1973, and the NYSE holding above 30 for the first time since last July.

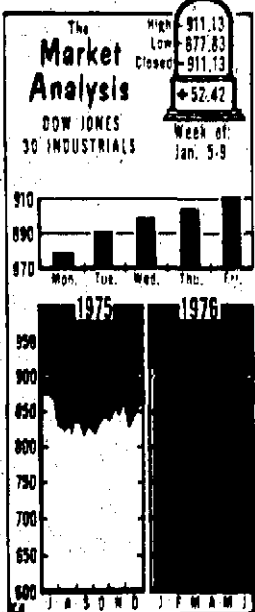

In all, 352 Big Board issues reached new 1975-76 highs, against just six new lows.

One of the biggest gains of the week was posted by Arctic Oil & Gas, which shot up 8 1/4 to 24 1/4. Mesa Petroleum offered $22 a share for the company's stock, and Arctic opposed the offer as inadequate.

Tesaco topped the active list on the NYSE, up 1 1/2 to 25 1/4.

Among big-name blue chips, General Motors gained 2 1/2 to 60 1/2; American Telephone rose 1 1/2 to 52; General Electric added 4 to 50 1/2, and U.S. Steel picked up 3 1/2 to 71.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 4.51 to 88.62.

Stock Options Talk Scheduled Tuesday

Buying and selling stock options appears to be among the most popular investment instruments available in today's market, according to Donald R. Buske, manager of the Grand Rapids office of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, world's largest securities company.

To explain options and how they work, Buske will host a free forum on the topic next Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Holiday Inn, 100 Main Street, St. Joseph.

Although the Merrill Lynch forum is open to the public without charge, reservations are necessary. To reserve a seat, telephone (616) 451-3001.

"Options provide a hedge in an uncertain market," Buske noted. "And that's what investors are currently concerned about. In a falling market, for example, an option program can possibly provide protection against a decline in stock investments."

The Merrill Lynch manager explained that stock options are a century-old device, newly popularized. They allow their holder to buy from or sell to another person 100 shares of a stock at a specified price and within a specified time. On the Chicago Board Options Exchange, for example, a listing titled Xerox, Jan. 50, means that the buyer has the right to purchase 100 shares of Xerox common stock for $50 a share at any time before the last business day in January, regardless of Xerox's market price. However the buyer of an option pays a "premium" for this right.

Buske warned, however, that the option buyer stands to lose his investment if the price of the stock declines or remains the same. The buyer might lose only part of his investment if the stock moves up less than predicted. But the potential for a large gain while risking a relatively small amount of money is one of the appeals to the option buyer.

The manager stated that all types of people from varying economic backgrounds are using options. "Airline pilots, computer operators, librarians, graduate students, retired persons — a variety of investors are using options," he said.

$200,000 Suit Claims Teacher Hit Student

PAW PAW — A lawsuit filed on behalf of a Mattawan high school student in Van Buren circuit court is seeking $200,000 for hearing damages it is claimed the youth suffered when he allegedly was struck in the head by a Mattawan teacher.

According to the suit filed by Mrs. Laura Sirrine on behalf of her son, Billy Joe Sirrine, 16, the boy suffered a perforation of his ear drum when he was struck on the left side of the head by a teacher, Larry C. Jones, at a band camp being held in Angola, Ind. on Aug. 8, 1974.

The blow, according to the suit, caused a sudden hearing loss, and has resulted in a drop in the boy's attendance at school, diminished his learning ability, and created a permanent impairment to his earning capacity.

Jones and the Mattawan Consolidated schools, which the suit said had care, control and management of the boy while he was at the camp, are named as co-defendants.

Mattawan Supt. John Gannell could not be reached for comment.

Ex-Employee Says Bell Fired Her For Absences Because Of Rape

DETROIT (AP) — A former information operator at Michigan Bell charges she was fired from her job because she took time off to recover from a sexual assault and to help convict her assailant.

A Michigan Bell spokesman said she was dismissed for repeated absences.

The case centered about George F. Onifer who was convicted July 21 for the rape and kidnapping of Nancy Butler, 20, of Farmington Hills. He was given a 25-year jail term.

Onifer also was convicted last year of the kidnapping-murder of an 11-year-old Detroit girl and was given a life sentence. That crime occurred two months after the attack on Miss Butler.

The Butler woman said she was fired by Michigan Bell two weeks before Onifer was convicted of the attack on her.

She said that she after the attack she was docked a week's pay and also was docked when she went to St. Mary's Hospital in Livonia in February for treatment of an emotional problem.

"The whole thing was nothing to Bell," she said. "They would not pay me since I was not leaving for any duty."

The Communication Workers of America (CWA) has filed a grievance on her behalf.

Company spokesman Phil Jones said the woman had been offered her job again but that she wanted to work in a different office and also reportedly wanted back pay.

Miss Butler said that after the attack, she was afraid to leave the house.

Whalen To Begin Burglary Sentence In About Week

By SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Federal authorities say government informer John Whalen will begin serving his sentence for burglary in a federal prison in about a week.

The announcement followed a state Supreme Court decision Friday that denied Whalen a new trial on his 1974 burglary conviction.

Whalen, chief government witness at the trial of former Gov. John B. Swainson, was originally convicted on the charge in 1969. In December 1973, Supreme Court justices including Swainson granted Whalen a new trial.

The court's action Friday erases any possibility that Whalen might be released from federal custody or retried for a 1969 Adrian jewelry store burglary on order of a state court.

But Whalen's attorney, Deday LaRene, said earlier he would take the case to federal court if the state Supreme Court refused Whalen a new trial.

Whalen, 38, was the key witness against Swainson in a bribery-conspiracy-perjury trial that ended in Swainson's perjury conviction last fall. Swainson later resigned from the high court and is appealing the verdict.

Whalen has been in federal custody since Dec. 19. He was to have begun a six-to-10-year sentence Dec. 18 as a result of a Lenawee County Circuit Court bench warrant for his arrest. Under a government arrangement, Whalen's time in custody will go towards his burglary sentence.

Whalen claims he was abducted and tortured, shot twice and burned many times with cigarettes on Dec. 18. He entered a hospital near Mount Clemens Dec. 19, but was discharged to federal marshalls several days later.

U.S. Atty. Ralph Guy would not say Friday if Whalen has been in prison since he was hospitalized. Guy said Whalen would be transported to an undisclosed federal prison after testifying next week against James Pulvirenti, 39, charged with Whalen's abduction and torture.

The Whalen-Swainson story has included numerous twists and turns, including charges by a government attorney that Swainson's attorney hired Pulvirenti to intimidate Whalen. Federal investigators say the attorney, Konrad Kohl, has been cleared of that charge.

Whalen was briefly held in custody last month after police found a $6,000 diamond necklace in his car, but no charges were filed because police could not locate the necklace's owner.

In addition, Whalen's St. Clair Shores home was destroyed in an apparent arson fire in November.

Authorities say some of these events may be linked to Whalen's informing on Detroit-area criminals.

The Supreme Court justices said Friday they were not persuaded that "questions presented (in Whalen's appeal) should be reviewed by this court."

The high court denied three motions filed by Whalen's attorney.

One request was for a lower bond, the second sought disqualification of the justices because of their association with Swainson, and the third sought a high court review of Whalen's conviction.

The family got dressed and rode with the Marine to church. They went through the entire service, including communion, without a word.

"When I saw them, I thought they were a visiting family," Msgr. Morris said. "But when one of the parishioners said after mass, 'That's not our family, they look too Oriental,' I knew something was wrong."

"Not only were they the wrong family, but they were Koreans and Buddhists to boot."

The family was quickly returned to its apartment and the volunteer then went to the right address.

In defense of the former Marine, Msgr. Morris said the "wrong" family also had six members and he had gone to the right apartment number but the wrong building.

BUY! BUY!

Market Chalks Up Near-Record Week

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market roared ahead this past week in a surge of buying that produced the second-busiest week in New York Stock Exchange history. Prices posted their biggest weekly gain since the fall of 1974 with encouragement from signs of slackening inflationary pressures and falling interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, rising in all five sessions, piled up a 52.42 gain to 911.13. It was the largest advance for the average since it took a record 73.61 jump from Oct. 7 through 11, 1974.

Nearly 9 out of every 10 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange rose in price, including all 25 of the most-active stocks.

The final tally showed 1,807 gainers and only 165 losers among the 2,072 issues changing hands.

Turnover on the Big Board came to 141.94 million shares, falling just short of the record of 145.68 million set late last January.

The activity reached a peak on Wednesday when 33.17 million shares were traded for the third-largest daily total on record.

What appeared to happen, analysts said, was a shift in psychology that started with a few investors buying, producing gains that attracted more investors who had been waiting restlessly for a sign of which way the market was headed after six months of inconclusive fluctuations.

As often seems to happen in the market, once a trend was established the economic news fell into line to support that trend.

In all, 352 Big Board issues reached new 1975-76 highs, against just six new lows.

One of the biggest gains of the week was posted by Aztec Oil & Gas, which shot up 9 1/4 to 24 3/4. Mesa Petroleum offered $22 a share for the company's stock, and Aztec opposed the offer as inadequate.

Texaco topped the active list on the NYSE, up 1 1/4 to 25 1/4.

Among big-name blue chips, General Motors gained 2 1/2 to 60 3/4; American Telephone rose 1 1/2 to 52; General Electric added 4 to 50 1/2, and U.S. Steel picked up 5 1/2 to 71.

NEW YORK (AP) — William J. Usery, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, says he was disappointed by President Ford's veto of the bill that would have broadened picketing rights at construction sites.

DETROIT (AP) — A former information operator at Michigan Bell charges she was fired from her job because she took time off to recover from a sexual assault and to help convict her assailant.

A Michigan Bell spokesman said she was dismissed for repeated absences.

The case centered about George F. Onifer who was convicted July 21 for the rape and kidnapping of Nancy Butler, 20, of Farmington Hills. He was given a 25-year jail term.

Onifer also was convicted last year of the kidnapping of an 11-year-old Detroit girl and was given a life sentence. That crime occurred two months after the attack on Miss Butler.

The Butler woman said she was fired by Michigan Bell two weeks before Onifer was convicted of the attack on her.

She said that she after the attack she was docked a week's pay and also was docked when she went to St. Mary's Hospital in Livonia in February for treatment of an emotional problem. "The whole thing was nothing to me," she said. "They would not pay me since I was not leaving for jury duty."

The Communication Workers of America (CWA) has filed a grievance on her behalf.

Company spokesman Phil Jones said the woman had been offered her job again but that she wanted to work in a different office and also reportedly wanted back pay.

Miss Butler said that after the attack, she was afraid to leave the house.

Whalen To Begin Burglary Sentence In About Week

By SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Federal authorities say government informant John Whalen will begin serving his sentence for burglary in a federal prison in about a week.

The announcement followed a state Supreme Court decision Friday that denied Whalen a new trial on his 1974 burglary conviction.

Whalen, chief government witness at the trial of former Gov. John B. Swainson, was originally convicted on the charge in 1969. In December 1973, Supreme Court justices including Swainson granted Whalen a new trial.

The court's action Friday erases any possibility that Whalen might be released from federal custody or retried for a 1969 Adrian jewelry store burglary on order of a state court.

But Whalen's attorney, Deday LaRene, said earlier he would take the case to federal court if the state Supreme Court refused Whalen a new trial.

Whalen, 30, was the key witness against Swainson in a bribery-conspiracy-perjury trial that ended in Swainson's perjury conviction last fall. Swainson later resigned from the high court, and is appealing the verdict.

Whalen has been in federal custody since Dec. 19. He was to have begun a six-to-10-year sentence Dec. 18 as a result of a Lenawee County Circuit Court bench warrant for his arrest. Under a government arrangement, Whalen's time in custody will go towards his burglary sentence.

Whalen claims he was abducted and tortured, shot twice and burned many times with cigarettes on Dec. 18. He entered a hospital near Mount Clemens Dec. 19, but was discharged to federal marshalls several days later.

U.S. Atty. Ralph Guy would not say Friday if Whalen has been in prison since he was hospitalized. Guy said Whalen would be transported to an undisclosed federal prison after testifying next week against James Pulvirenti, 39, charged with Whalen's abduction and torture.

The Whalen-Swainson story has included numerous twists and turns, including charges by a government attorney that Swainson's attorney hired Pulvirenti to intimidate Whalen. Federal investigators say the attorney, Konrad Kohl, has been cleared of that charge.

Whalen was briefly held in custody last month after police found a $6,000 diamond necklace in his car, but no charges were filed because police could not locate the necklace's owner.

In addition, Whalen's St. Clair Shores home was destroyed in an apparent arson fire in November.

Authorities say some of these events may be linked to Whalen's informing on Detroit-area criminals.

The Supreme Court justices said Friday they were not persuaded that "questions presented (in Whalen's appeal) should be reviewed by this court."

Cleaver Still In Jail

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Former Black Panther Party leader Eldridge Cleaver remained in jail today in lieu of $100,000 bail and apparently lacks enough money to hire a private attorney to fight charges stemming from a 1969 shootout with police.

Kathy Wood told Benton township police Friday after-

The state Court of Appeals in December lifted Whalen's $50,000 bond and, saying, "Enough is enough," ordered Whalen to begin serving his sentence immediately.

But Supreme Court deliberations over his appeal prevented him from going immediately to prison, until Lenawee County Circuit Judge Rex Martin issued a bench warrant for his arrest.

The high court denied three motions filed by Whalen's attorney.

One request was for a lower bond, the second sought disqualification of the justices because of their association with Swainson, and the third sought a high court review of Whalen's conviction.

Catholic Church Host To Buddhists

MEMPHIS (AP) — When the Resurrection Roman Catholic Church decided to bring its recently adopted Vietnamese family to Mass, a retired Marine Corps officer volunteered to pick them up.

"When he got to the apartment, some of the children were sleeping so the Marine went into the bedroom and said, 'Chop! Chop! It's time to get up and go,'" said the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Paul J. Morris.

The family got dressed and rode with the Marine to church. They went through the entire service, including communion, without a word.

"When I saw them, I thought they were a visiting family," Msgr. Morris said. "But when one of the parishioners said after mass, 'That's not our family, they look too Oriental,' I knew something was wrong."

"Not only were they the wrong family, but they were Koreans and Buddhists to boot."

The family was quickly returned to its apartment and the volunteer then went to the right address.

In defense of the former Marine, Msgr. Morris said the "wrong" family also had six members and he had gone to the right apartment number but the wrong building.

township want an ambulance service, let them work for it like the people in our community have worked. We did not ask Benton township to pay for our new ambulance or the taxpayers of Berrien county.

We have one of the finest ambulance services and personnel in the country. The ambulance crew is well trained and dedicated people, we appreciate them and need them in our community.

In a county-wide service, where would all these ambulances be located? How many of our senior citizens could pay $80 a call? We are on the end of Berrien county and how quick could we get an ambulance?

Maybe some of the people in Coloma community never realized what we really have going for us, stop and take a good look.

A number one ambulance service, one of the best volunteer fire departments, a township board and supervisor, a city commission and mayor, all to be proud of in these troubled times.

So, again I say, we are taking care of our problems and if we can I'm sure the other townships and cities, with a little effort and work, can do the same without our tax dollars.

SAYS FLUORIDE GAVE GIRLS GREEN HAIR

Editor,

In the December issue of the Let's Live magazine is a very informative article which should be of great interest to many people.

In the New England Journal of Medicine recently, a doctor reported an epidemic of green hair, especially among many blond girls at Framingham State College.

Scientific sleuthing traced the cause to the introduction of fluoride into the town water supply. The fluoride made the water acid. The acid content bleached copper out of the brass pipes.

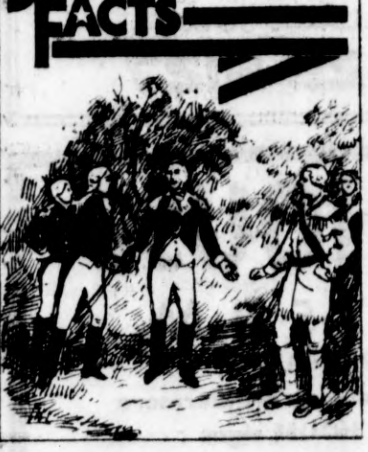

What does excessive copper do to human beings? It keeps zinc from being absorbed — zinc that is essential for the body's production of insulin — thereby affecting both diabetes and hypoglycemics. Too much copper endangers those with Wilson's Disease, a destroyer of both body and brain.

Should your community be on the verge of supplying green hair — if you have brass pipes in your home — sickness, or even death to the taxpayer at no extra charge.

Please refer your family physician to the New England Journal of Medicine's February 27, 1975, issue.

Oh, for some pure American water again and for liberation from bureaucrats who are determined to preserve our teeth even if it kills us.

BICENTENNIAL FACTS

ADVANCING down the Hudson River as part of a grand design for conquering the northern colonies, the British army of Gen. John Burgoyne clashed in September 1777 with the American army of Gen. Horatio Gates. The Battle of Saratoga and the resulting surrender of Burgoyne's army wrecked the British campaign. More important, it was the turning point of the Revolution. Not only did the colonists draw new hope at a critical moment when defeat would have been devastating, but the victory also had a decisive influence on negotiations in Europe for an alliance with France. The World Almanac recalls.

Payroll Firm's Workers Compile Client Tax Forms

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Employees of a payroll firm that had thousands of its checks bounce before its president vanished before compiling tax forms for its customers Friday while officials struggled to learn how much the firm's closing cost its clients.

At the same time, the nationwide search for James Robert Redican, 37, seemed to be following a cold trail despite the FBI's entry into the search.

Authorities conceded the last definite sighting of Redican, president of Computer Payroll & Accounting Services, was Tuesday.

Sgt. Donald Yerrick, a Kentwood detective, said the last confirmed sighting occurred when Redican sold a 1959 sports car to a teacher in Haslett, near Lansing, for $2,350. There was a later report Redican and his wife were seen at Detroit Metropolitan Airport on Tuesday morning. But Yerrick said that has not been confirmed.

Redican is sought on an extortion charge and a federal fugitive warrant. He first was charged with larceny by conversion but that warrant was rewritten on the basis of new evidence.

Meanwhile, a brother of the missing man said he last saw Redican on Monday in Lansing.

Jack Redican, in a phone call late Friday to the Detroit bureau of The Associated Press, said he went to his brother's home in Holland Sunday after his brother called and asked him to pick up the men's mother and James Redican's 3-year-old daughter. Jack Redican, 47, said his brother said he wanted his daughter away "for one or two days, until this thing blows over." He said made the trip and and his brother visited him in Lansing on Monday.

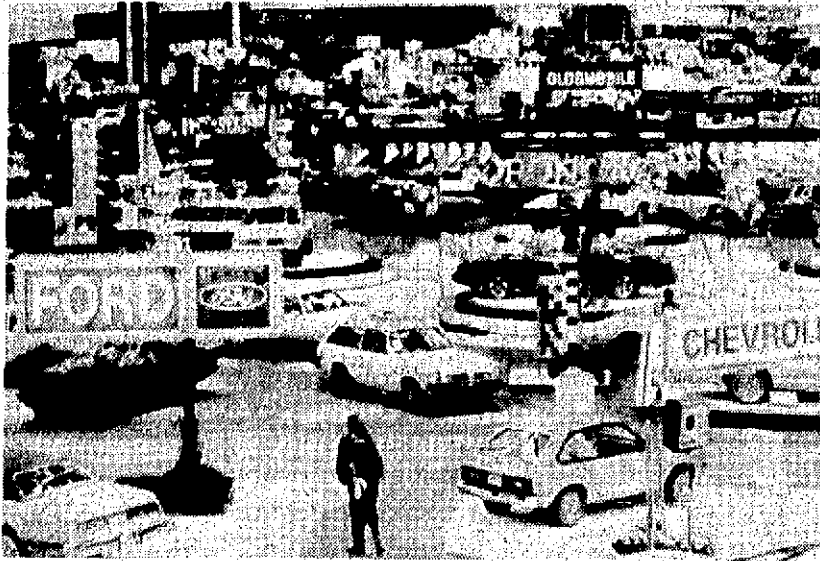

Jack Redican said he talked to his brother by phone early Tuesday, when James Redican said he wanted to hire an attorney to represent him. He said he hasn't heard from his brother since.

Jack Redican was manager of the Kentwood-based Computer Payroll firm's Lansing office for 2½ years until Monday.

Asked if he thought his brother had left the country, Jack Redican said, "One would think so, since he hasn't been arrested yet even though everyone's looking for him."

He said he and his brother saw each other infrequently and were "not close," but he described the missing man as a responsible business leader whom he respected.

He said he first learned of the company's financial troubles

DETROIT AUTO SHOW: Workers put the finishing touches on the 60th Detroit Auto Show Friday before a charity preview at Detroit's Cobo Hall. The show opens to the public today and runs to Jan. 18th. More than 250 cars are on display along with some entertainment. (AP Wirephoto)

when checks began bouncing. "I had no indication this would happen," he said Friday. "I knew nothing about it. I was just totally surprised."

Jack Redican said he began receiving threats of physical harm at the Lansing office a week ago and closed it on Jan. 2.

Although he is unemployed, he said he is not going to look for another job until the Computer Payroll books are straightened out. He said he is hopeful the company can reopen.

"It is my fondest hope that we can get it off the ground again," he said. "There's a good chance enough clients are sticking by us. Our only assets are our clients." He said he is cooperating with law enforcement officials in the search for his missing brother.

Russell Greavu, Computer Payroll's general manager, said four employees were doing the tax forms voluntarily Friday because they didn't want client firms to suffer federal tax penalties. The firms had relied at Computer Payroll for the tax information.

The work was done under a court-appointed receiver's supervision since a petition has been filed to declare both Redican and his company involuntarily bankrupt.

No Serious Auto Strikes This Year, Crim Predicts

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — House Speaker Bobby Crim said Friday he is "pretty optimistic" there will be "no serious auto industry strikes this year."

The Davison Democrat said a bad economy and "high unemployment" will prevent prolonged strikes unless unforeseen complications arise.

"When you have different economic problems and obviously profits of the companies are down, it is difficult to bargain for higher packages. In light of past contracts, the demands won't be as great," Crim said.

"A lot of these people have been unemployed for a long time. There are economic pressures on both sides" to settle new contracts, he said.

Republican Gov. William Milliken said earlier this week he, too, believed the uncertain economy could discourage a major auto strike.

Auto industry contracts with the United Auto Workers are up for renegotiation this fall.

Crim also said if Michigan needs a tax increase this year,

Republicans and Democrats will have to act together to create it.

But, Crim said the state can provide essential services without a tax hike if there is a substantial improvement in the economy.

A tax hike "either is inevitable or we must have a considerable income tax cut."

The budget will be only 1 to 5 per cent larger than last year's $3,043 billion, Crim said.

"No doubt a bipartisan approach would be needed to get a tax increase. There is no way I could get 56 members of my caucus to vote for it," said Crim, referring to the minimum number of votes needed to pass a measure in the House.

Crim made his comments during and after the taping of an interview for WKAR-TV, Michigan State University's public television station.

Crim also said he would oppose a bill to legalize casino gambling in Detroit unless the question goes to a statewide vote. "There is no doubt in my mind a constitutional amendment would be attached to the bill to put it to a statewide vote.

That's the legitimate place for the question," said Crim.

Rep. Casmer (D-Oakland), Detroit, says he will introduce a bill to legalize casino gambling inside the city of Detroit.

Crim said his top legislative priorities for the coming year are a revised Worker's Compensation bill and use of adoption of a Deceptive Trade Practices act, transportation bonding and a long-term cure for the medical malpractice insurance problem.

Crim also said he is leaning toward running for re-election and that a possible attempt at the governorship in 1978 is playing a part in his decision. He said he will announce in April about running again or going into private industry.

For the past year, Crim has said he leans toward getting out of politics to make more money in private industry. Crim says he must consider financing college education for his sons when looking at his political future.

Payroll Firm's Workers Compile Client Tax Forms

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Employees of a payroll firm that had thousands of its checks bounce before its president vanished were compiling tax forms for its customers Friday while officials struggled to learn how much the firm's closing cost its clients.

At the same time, the nationwide search for James Robert Redican, 37, seemed to be following a cold trail despite the FBI's entry into the search.

Authorities conceded the last definite sighting of Redican, president of Computer Payroll & Accounting Services, was Tuesday.

Sgt. Donald Yerrick, a Kentwood detective, said the last confirmed sighting occurred when Redican sold a 1959 sports car to a teacher in Haslett, near Lansing, for $2,950. There was a later report Redican and his wife were seen at Detroit Metropolitan Airport on Tuesday morning. But Yerrick said that has not been confirmed.

Redican is sought on an extortion charge and a federal fugitive warrant. He first was charged with larceny by conversion but that warrant was rewritten on the basis of new evidence.

Meanwhile, a brother of the missing man said he last saw Redican on Monday in Lansing.

Jack Redican, in a phone call late Friday to the Detroit bureau of The Associated Press, said he went to his brother's home in Holland Sunday after his brother called and asked him to pick up the men's mother and James Redican's 3-year-old daughter. Jack Redican, 47, said his brother said he wanted his daughter away "for one or two days, until this thing blows over." He said made the trip and and his brother visited him in Lansing on Monday.

Jack Redican said he talked to his brother by phone early Tuesday, when James Redican said he wanted to hire an attorney to represent him. He said he hasn't heard from his brother since.

Jack Redican was manager of the Kentwood-based Computer Payroll firm's Lansing office for 2½ years until Monday.

Asked if he thought his brother had left the country, Jack Redican said, "One would think so, since he hasn't been arrested yet even though everyone's looking for him."

He said he and his brother saw each other infrequently and were "not close," but he described the missing man as a responsible business leader whom he respected.

He said he first learned of the company's financial troubles

DETROIT AUTO SHOW: Workers put the finishing touches on the 60th Detroit Auto Show Friday before a charity preview at Detroit's Cobo Hall. The show opens to the public today and runs to Jan. 18th. More than 250 cars are on display along with some entertainment. (AP Wirephoto)

when checks began bouncing. "I had no indication this would happen," he said Friday. "I knew nothing about it. I was just totally surprised."

Jack Redican said he began receiving threats of physical harm at the Lansing office a week ago and closed it on Jan. 2. Although he is unemployed, he said he is not going to look for another job until the Computer Payroll books are straightened out. He said he is hopeful the company can reopen.

"It is my fondest hope that we can get it off the ground again," he said. "There's a good chance enough clients are sticking by us. Our only assets are our clients." He said he is cooperating with law enforcement officials in the search for his missing brother.

Russell Greavu, Computer Payroll's general manager, said four employees were doing the tax forms voluntarily Friday because they didn't want client firms to suffer federal tax penalties. The firms had relied on Computer Payroll for the tax information.

The work was done under a court-appointed receiver's supervision since a petition has been filed to declare both Redican and his company involuntarily bankrupt.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR EILEEN FULTON, star of "As the World Turns"
Did you ever do love scenes with someone you personally didn't like?—H.C., Miami Beach, Fla.

● Yes. There was once an actor (who shall remain nameless) whom I loathed. I couldn't stand his smell, his jokes or getting near him—let alone kissing him. The first thing I did was give him a bottle of my husband's favorite cologne, so one problem was eliminated. About the others—well, I tried to make up nice things about him. First I'd think of something sweet my husband did, then transfer it to the actor. Once a scene began, I'd be O.K. That's because I assumed the role of the character I was portraying. But it was tough going until the cameras started to roll.

FOR BOB HOPE

Who is your favorite comedian?—M.Y., Wilcox, Lansing, Mich.

● There are a lot of comedians I enjoy, really too many to make a complete list. I like Shecky Green, as well as many, many others who appear in Las Vegas. Some of the people who make me laugh hardest are behind-the-scenes people. For instance, I have a comedy writer named Charlie Lee who really breaks me up.

FOR SEN. BARRY GOLDWATER (R-Ariz.)

Why are you such an outspoken defender of our military forces? Can't the world's most extravagant military establishment defend itself?—R. Barney, San Antonio, Texas

● The U.S. does not have the most extravagant military system. I would bestow that honor on the Soviets. But to answer the main question, as long as there's a threat to our freedom or that of our allies, America must remain militarily strong. That threat has been, is and will continue to be the Soviet Union until we are mutually able to reduce it.

FOR SUNNY GRIFFIN, model

Do you feel that fashion is more down-to-earth today?—P.P., Scranton, Pa.

● Yes, for a very good reason—clothing has become a major investment. So, you'll be seeing more and more understated but chic clothing as long as the recession continues. I'd like to offer one hint about make-up for all the earth-colored clothes that are now the rage: complement them with deeper but not darker shades of make-up. Otherwise, you'll look invisible!

FOR JIMMY COCO, actor

You've been on Johnny Carson's show so often. What's he like?—L.E., Chattanooga, Tenn.

● Terrific to work with. He keeps guests at ease and out of embarrassing situations. He's the sort you want to know better away from the studio. And what a sense of humor! He passed a hotel room and heard the announcement on TV, "... And he-e-e-re's Johnny!" He knocked on the door, and the fellow who opened it cast one eye on the TV Johnny and his other eye on Johnny in the flesh. Johnny just asked him: "Can you tell me what time it is?"

FOR SANDY DUNCAN

Is this your first or second marriage, and do you have any children?—D.C., Vancouver, Wash.

● Tom (Calcutt) is my second husband. He's a doctor and was one of a team who examined me when I had my eye surgery. We've been married since January 1973. Scott, my 10-year-old stepson, is as tall as I am (5'4"). He's all I could want in a child. In fact, I'm not sure I want any of my own. He's fulfilled my maternal instincts.

FOR ABIGAIL VAN BUREN, "Dear Abby" columnist

Have you ever been asked a question that was impossible to answer?—Allen Spence, Blountville, Tenn.

● Stumped? No. But when a problem concerns something that one cannot change, such as a physical deformity that absolutely defies correction, the only answer to give is: "Learn to live with it, dear."

FOR EARL BUTZ, Secretary of Agriculture

Are the Russian people being told where all this wheat they're getting came from?—Hal Borden, Crystal Beach, Fla.

● No, I'm afraid not. The Soviet Union does not, as a matter of policy, report on grain imports in the public press. But some Russians will learn about these imports via foreign radio broadcasts, such as Voice of America.

FOR GRAHAM KERR, "The Galloping Gourmet"

Tell me, what happens to the food you prepare—who eats it, who pays for it and who cleans up?—Lenora Renshaw, Arroyo Grande, Calif.

● Our crew eats it, every single scrap. I pay for half the cost, and our production company takes care of the rest. Carol and Ann, who, incidentally, gave 10 percent of their wages to Freedom from Hunger relief, make everything nice and shipshape in the studio.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

I saw an amateur production of "The King and I," and it reminded me of Yul Brynner. What's he doing these days?—B.E., Albany, N.Y.

● Brynner, now 55, is appearing in "Home Sweet Homer," his first Broadway show since he did "The King and I" 24 years ago. His last movie was "Westworld." You don't hear too much about him because he lives in Normandy, France, with his wife Jacqueline and adopted Vietnamese daughters, Mia, 19 months and Melody, 7 months (Yul has two children, Rock and Victoria, by previous marriages). He has made many documentary films for the U.N. World Refugees Organization. Oriental-born, he speaks 11 languages, and is shocked when he hears himself on tape. "I sound like a lousy foreigner," he complained. "It upsets me because I think of myself as an American actor." Brynner rejected his "King and I" role when it was first offered to him. He was 31 at the time, and felt he could not play a 55-year-old man.

Tell me, what happens to the food you prepare—who eats it, who pays for it and who cleans up?—Lenora Renshaw, Arroyo Grande, Calif.

● Our crew eats it, every single scrap. I pay for half the cost, and our production company takes care of the rest. Carol and Ann, who, incidentally, gave 10 percent of their wages to Freedom from Hunger relief, make everything nice and shipshape in the studio.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

I saw an amateur production of "The King and I," and it reminded me of Yul Brynner. What's he doing these days?—B.E., Albany, N.Y.

● Brynner, now 55, is appearing in "Home Sweet Homer," his first Broadway show since he did "The King and I" 24 years ago. His last movie was "Westworld." You don't hear too much about him because he lives in Normandy, France, with his wife Jacqueline and adopted Vietnamese daughters, Mia, 19 months and Melody, 7 months (Yul has two children, Rock and Victoria, by previous marriages). He has made many documentary films for the U.N. World Refugees Organization. Oriental-born, he speaks 11 languages, and is shocked when he hears himself on tape. "I sound like a lousy foreigner," he complained. "It upsets me because I think of myself as an American actor." Brynner rejected his "King and I" role when it was first offered to him. He was 31 at the time, and felt he could not play a 55-year-old man.

By Peer J.

California's 34th Governor, Edmund Gerald Brown, Jr., has always wanted to do things on his own. But from the time he was born, he was cast in a role that had to be played out in the shadow of his effusive father, ex-Gov. Edmund Gerald (Pat) Brown, Sr. That overwhelming fact seems to have made Jerry Brown the kind of man he is today.

His father did the casting. "Pat had wanted his son to be named after him," said Bernice, wife of an ex-Governor named Brown, and mother of the present Governor of the same name. I never liked the idea of calling him Ed, so I used his middle name." Last January, 37-year-old Jerry Brown took over the governorship his father filled for eight years. Since then, the big political question has been: Just who and what is this rather puzzling, slender, intense-looking, heavy-browed, easily annoyed man who holds one of the nation's key political offices?

Is he, as first suggested, the intellectual leader who can rekindle the national spirit shot down by Kennedy's assassin? Or is he just a fellow pointing to tracks long imprinted in the sand? And how hard is he trying to prove to the world and himself that he's his own man, not just Pat Brown's son?

Jerry Brown seems to be doing everything he can to be as unlike his father as possible. He was quoted as saying he felt he almost lost the election because people associated him with his father. After he took office, he remarked, "I don't think my father thought I'd make it," and he refused to live in the new governor's mansion which he sarcastically calls "that $1.3 million Taj Mahal." Kidding, he says, "Maybe we can turn it into a halfway house for lobbyists."

His father, who loved the pomp of the office, chuckled. "I'd sorta hoped they'd let a retired Governor use it. Bernice and I could do all of his entertaining for him. But I'd never suggest that. Jerry wouldn't like it."

The new Governor seldom entertains. If he has to, he usually takes guests out to dinner or meets them at the office to talk. "I think he's missing out on a lot that way," his father said in his roomy law office in Beverly Hills. "One of the nicest things about being governor was getting to entertain interesting people like Sadat, Indira Gandhi and Khrushchev. I loved it!"

When I asked Jerry Brown why he turned down the mansion, he said, "First of all, it saves about a million dollars on security (a fact which worries his mother a lot) and in upkeep and maintenance fees. And even if I were married and had a family, I wouldn't want to live 25 miles away in a wealthy suburban area that bespeaks the affluence of a past era. To me, this symbolizes the disconnection between my job and what it stands for. If the old governor's mansion was still available, and if I had a family, that might have been O.K. But it's ridiculous to consider a place that's so big and expensive that there can't be five people in all of Sacramento who could maintain it! You can see where I stay from my office window," he said, pointing. "It's in walking distance, and I only sleep there anyway, so it's perfectly adequate."

He pays the rent himself, and one reporter wrote that he slept on a mattress on the floor, implying a monastic existence. "I wish they hadn't said it like that," said Jerry's mother. "Besides, Jerry has a nice home in Los Angeles. [It features a large room with fireplace, lots of books and plenty of windows overlooking Hollywood.] It's rather isolated, with lots of trees around it, the way Jerry likes it."

(I had asked Jerry if he was raised frugally. "Let's say I didn't have much of an allowance," he said. "I was given the option of making an effort and doing chores—or not getting an allowance." He grinned. "I usually opted for no allowance and no chores.")

His mother remembers: "When he was in high school, he'd come home around 3:30 and fix himself a steak and salad. That was his idea of a snack. And believe it or not, he could still sit down and eat dinner! He never gained weight then—maybe it was all that swimming and weight lifting he did. But now, he watches it. He'll say, 'No potatoes for me.'"

Jerry Brown has also refused Ronald Reagan's private jet, preferring to fly commercially ("You sit next to interesting people . . ." but airline officials shudder at the security risk). He has brushed aside the limousine used by his predecessors. "I drive whatever car is available in the motor pool. This year it happens to be '74 Plymouths," he told me. The only additions to the two vehicles he uses are state police radios and telephones.

where he is by accident. When Jerry was born, Pat Brown was already a prominent lawyer in San Francisco. By the time Jerry was five, his father had become a district attorney, and in 1951 he was elected attorney general of California. In '58, he ran for governor, won and remained chief executive for two terms. During all this time, Brown Sr. used his son as a ploy in his own campaigns ("When we were young, our father paraded us before the public. I didn't like it, and I'm sure Jerry didn't either," says Jerry's sister, Kathleen Rice, of the L.A. Board of Education.)

The Brown children all vividly remember fiery discussions at the dinner table, and in particular, Jerry's debates with his father. Pat calls them "rousing conversations," but Jerry—at 12 and 13—tended to feel they were tests of his mettle. His father thought he was helping him to find his identity. Jerry thought he was being squelched.

At 17, Jerry went off to Santa Clara University, a Catholic school. It was a step toward the independence he wanted so much. But this, too, was heavily influenced by his father.

Jerry's enrollment in Catholic St. Ignatius High School and Santa Clara was foreseeable. But not foreseeable was his leaving college to cloister himself as a Jesuit seminarian at Sacred Heart in Los Gatos, where—from age 18 to 22—he lived in extreme self-discipline amid books and scholars for three and a half years. "Studying for the priesthood gave me the opportunity to read, to think, to reflect," he says now. "I went into it because I thought the spiritual life was the most serious, worthwhile way to spend time. I felt I would be dealing with important things, and would get to the heart of things."

His mother says: "There's no question that Jerry's years under the Jesuits influenced him, and as a result, he became a scholar—which he might not have become otherwise."

For two hours every month, during visiting times, Pat Brown tried to persuade his son to return to the outside world and study law. At last he won—almost. Young Brown left to attend California's Berkeley campus. But he studied Latin and Greek, not law.

"I left," he said, "because after a few years I felt I had to move somewhere else. I was unwilling to accept the conformity that was expected of me. There were some promises I had to make that I simply couldn't fulfill. I wanted more freedom than I could have as a priest."

His pious training still shows. "I think he has a great inner strength," says his mother, whom he resembles. "When he was in training, he probably started thinking about the real values in life, and now he measures everything by that."

During his college days, he enjoyed the run of the governor's mansion and the State Capitol. No one was safe from his questioning. He also watched his father in action. Always outgoing, even bombastic, his father enjoyed the power of his office and went at his job with great enthusiasm. "Perhaps my best quality is that I like people. I never can believe that I can't make people like me," Pat Brown said.

It would have been hard to escape such a whirlwind. Before long, Jerry was willing to get a law degree, like his father. By then it was almost a foregone conclusion that the second Edmund G. Brown would get into politics. Said Barbara, "I think he did it to please our father." "It has always been part of my life," Jerry told me. "But consciously, I went into politics during the Vietnam War when I worked on Eugene McCarthy's campaign in an effort to end the war."

In 1969 Jerry won a place on the L.A. Community College Board of Trustees. In 1970 he became California's Secretary of State. "His four years in that job were good experience," his father said. "He learned a lot."

In 1974 Jerry took on the governorship, winning out in a hard-fought battle against Republican Houston Flournoy. Ironically, Pat Brown himself had considered running for the Winners of hockey's Lady Byng Trophy for good sportsmanship were once derided as "gentlemanly losers." But Gil Perreault, center of the Buffalo Sabres' famed "French Connection," has disproved this. Perreault has been the key to turning the Sabres from an also-ran expansion club to a contender for the championship Stanley Cup. Last season, Buffalo went all the way to the final round of playoffs before being edged out in a dramatic series by the champion Philadelphia Flyers. Perreault feels his team could win it all this season . . .

"You don't have to knock opposing players on the head to win games or draw big crowds in hockey," Perreault points out. "The true hockey fan appreciates skill, not violence." . . . Skill and speed are Perreault's forte, and he brings crowds to their feet not by swinging his stick but by his dazzling maneuvers. "He's the most exciting player to watch on a rink-length rush," says his coach, Floyd Smith. "He's ice hockey's version of the home-run hitter." . . . Perreault is a native of Victoriaville, Quebec, the hometown of one of hockey's all-time greats, Jean Beliveau of Montreal's Flying Frenchmen. Perreault's boyhood dream was to follow in Beliveau's footsteps with Montreal, but although he played for the Montreal Junior team in the amateurs, he became the No. 1 amateur draft choice of the new Buffalo team. Perreault promptly proved how fortunate Buffalo was by scoring a first-year record of 38 goals and winning "Rookie of the Year" honors for the 1970-71 season. Buffalo soon teamed Perreault with two other speedy skaters from French Canada, Richard Martin and Rene Robert. The threesome are regarded by many hockey experts as the best line in the National Hockey League.

. . . Perreault's one nemesis has been a defenseman named Mike Robitaille. Robitaille was a teammate two years ago when he accidentally fell over the Buffalo center, causing a knee injury which made Perreault ineffective for the rest of the season. Last year, while playing for Vancouver, Robitaille ran into Perreault again, injuring him in the same place. Perreault was sidelined for a few weeks but came back in time to pace the Sabres to a first-place finish in the Adams Division and to a playoff victory over the rival Frenchmen of Montreal.

The Governor's Son

office again. "I stepped aside because Jerry was running," Pat admitted. "I didn't want to be in there trying to get votes against him. And I now realize that as we go along, we get barnacles—we get stuck with ideas and end up defending them. Jerry is fresh, has a new approach."

Since he took office, Jerry has not been free of criticism. One of the complaints is that he seems to have a hard time reaching decisions. Gray Davis, Jerry's executive assistant, defends his boss: "The easiest thing in the world would be for the Governor to present a problem to five advisors, then make a decision based on the best opinion. Jerry doesn't work that way. He will throw an idea at the legislature and let them come back with suggestions." Jerry himself admits that he does not believe in "hasty decisions." "I consider all the pros and cons," he says.

So far, Jerry has spent most of his energies on the Farm-Labor Program, the closing of tax loopholes, housing for poor income groups, and most of all, education. He has also given a lot of thought to what he sees as the country's changing needs and values. "It's time to realize there is a limit to economic growth, that we must live within our income and our resources. The present is not just an extension of the past where we had, full employment, unlimited growth, unlimited everything. We have to learn to live with what we have if we want to survive. That includes holding the lid on spending."

He continues: "There has been an enormous appetite in this country for public service. I think people have to realize that public service isn't cheap. We have problems today that may take up to ten years to solve. For other problems, there may be no solution. But we must try."

The logical next step for an ambitious man—and Governor Brown is ambitious—is the Presidency.

"I'm not a candidate and I plan to stick to the job I'm doing now," he said. "I've only been in office nine months and I find this place hard enough to run." He grinned. "It's questionable whether California is even governable!"

"I think my son could be President," Pat Brown said firmly. "I think I could have been, under other circumstances. It's possible he could do what Kennedy did. He's a greater intellectual, and he's not that wealthy, but he has that mass appeal. Not individual appeal—he's more of an introvert—but mass appeal."

Unfortunately, Jerry does have one problem Kennedy did not: he tends to alienate people. "He's alienated some governors," says Pat Brown, "because he hasn't gone to their conferences." And says Jerry's mother: "Jerry wasn't particularly sensitive as a child. But he was thoughtful, and he still is. For instance, he will not give Christmas presents every year just because everyone else is doing so. When he does give something, it is given with a lot of thought. He won't give something unless it's meaningful!"

The day FAMILY WEEKLY talked with Governor Brown—the first interview he'd given to a weekly magazine, and he were told—he was in shirtsleeves, and his lunch was a sandwich sent up from the cafeteria. And he was putting in an 18-hour-day, as usual. Was it true that he works nonstop, seven days a week, and has taken off an average of only one and a half days a month? "I work long hours, but I try to take off on Sunday," he said. "Then I'll go to the beach. Or out on a date." But Gray Davis says Jerry relaxes by working. His No. 1 enjoyment is solving problems.

"He's always kept his private life private," says his father, "but I can tell you he's brought home a lot of girls to meet us. Some of them I really liked—like Natalie Wood. He went with her for about a year after she divorced Bob Wagner. And lately there was Candice Bergen..."

"When we were young, our father paraded us before the public. I didn't like it, and I'm sure Jerry didn't either."—Jerry Brown's sister, Kathleen.

Was Jerry seeing a lot of singer Linda Ronstadt? "I've dated Linda," he said, then grinned. "I've also dated other girls..."

Any wedding plans for Jerry? "No," he says. "I think the job's breakneck pace is incompatible with marriage. For two people to be together constantly takes a lot of consideration and attention. I don't have the time right now."

Does the Governor have a sense of humor? "Yes, he does," his father said. "But it's intellectual and very subtle. Still, he can laugh uproariously." As for a temper, "He gets annoyed—irritated may be a better word—but he doesn't let go. Usually he just snaps back, or gets sarcastic."

Is there a rift between father and son? "We've always had a close relationship," his father insists. And Tom Quinn, who ran Jerry's campaign, said, "Jerry's warmth toward his father is deep and sincere. Pat didn't play an active role in Jerry's campaign because Jerry didn't want to use his father to win. I'm not sure Pat ever understood just how much his son wanted to do it himself."

Just as no two people are exactly alike, no two Spectrum of Life Rings are exactly alike because these extraordinary rings actually change color to reflect YOUR special and changing moods. Unlike any other ring you have ever seen, when you place this ring on your finger it seems to come to life. The stone is activated by the heat or energy in your hand.

Just as your mood can change in a matter of moments, this fascinating stone will also change that quickly to reflect your every level of emotion. It may be turquoise when you're relaxed, jade when you're indecisive, and sapphire when your mood is passionate and vibrant. It will take on the appearance and color of eight different natural stones.

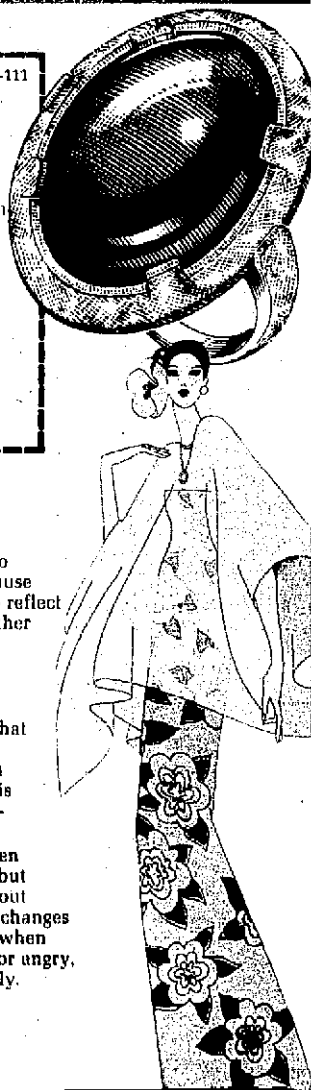

Not only will you be the center of attention when you're wearing this conversation piece in public, but the Spectrum of Life Ring will teach you more about yourself even when you're alone. You will notice changes in your stone when you wake up in the morning, when you drink a cup of coffee, when you are nervous or angry, and of course when you are turned on passionately.

Choose either the tailored cabochon crystal or the handsome etched cameo crystal. This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen makes an easy seafood casserole using fresh frozen cod fillets. "This is one of those easy recipes you'll want to try," says Marilyn. ### COD 'N' TATER BAKE

1 pkg. (1 lb.) frozen cod fillets, thawed
 1 can (10% oz.) cream of shrimp soup, undiluted
 ½ cup sour cream
 2 tablespoons chopped green onion
 1 tablespoon white horseradish
 Few drops Tabasco
 ¼ teaspoon paprika
 1 pkg. (1 lb.) frozen potato rounds

1. Preheat oven to 400°F.
2. Arrange fillets in serving-size portions in 2-qt. shallow baking dish.
3. To make sauce, combine soup, sour cream, green onion, horseradish, Tabasco and paprika in small bowl.
4. Spoon sauce over fish fillets, covering them completely. Top with frozen potato rounds.
5. Bake 30 to 35 minutes, or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork.

Makes 4 servings

Quick to make, layered Cod 'n' Tater Casserole makes a pleasing family dinner.

What's Smart: Fish, almost a perfect food because its protein is complete protein, makes a nutritious, economical entrée. Lean, white-fleshed North Atlantic Ocean fish contain 18- to 20-percent protein and are 85- to 95-percent digestible. A four-ounce serving of "lean" fish contains fewer than 100 calories. The price of frozen cod fillets, in plentiful supply now, will generally range from $1.25 to $1.30 per pound.

Here are several tips for the proper handling of fish:

1. When purchasing frozen fish, select undamaged packages which feel solid.
2. Store fish in your freezer in its original vapor-moisture proof wrapping. Keep fish frozen until you plan to use it.
3. Because a home freezer may not keep foods at the ideal temperature — zero — storage should be limited. (Put purchasing date on packages.)

4. The refrigerator is the proper thawing spot for frozen fish (allow 24 hours for a one-pound package). Do not thaw fish at room temperature.

5. If the thawing process must be speeded up, immerse the fish in cold water, or hold it under cold running water. Fish must be wrapped in a waterproof package.

6. Use fish immediately after thawing. Never keep thawed fish longer than 24 hours.

TRY THIS NEW PIPE FOR 30 DAYS!

.. For cigar smokers and cigarette smokers alike a "Carey Pipe" can save hundreds of dollars a year.

.. If you are a pipe smoker, a "Carey Pipe" can end forever your constant search for the most enjoyable smoke of your life.

So different that it's patented by the UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT patent number 3267941

"MAGIC INCH"

If you don't agree that it's the best smoke you've ever had, it won't cost you a dime. This top grade Mediterranean briar incorporates a sensational invention that contradicts every idea you've ever had about pipe smoking. It completely eliminates breaking-in. Tars, sludge, bite, and bitterness never reach your mouth. You get cleaner, cooler, tastier, moisture-free thoroughly enjoyable smoking.

It's the first pipe in the world that's guaranteed to give unadulterated pleasure to smokers.

E. A. Carey

Give it 30 days—

No cigarette, no cigar, nor any other pipe can give you the full rich flavor, aroma, deep down satisfaction, enjoyment, and peace of mind that you get from a Carey Pipe.

You may be a pipe smoker with a rack full of pipes and still searching for the ideal smoke, or perhaps you would like to switch to a pipe to cut down on cigarettes or expensive cigars.

The Carey Pipe may look like any ordinary pipe, but it's a lot different! In fact, there's nothing like it in the whole world. The Carey Pipe is made of the finest aged Mediterranean briar—but, its big secret lies in the exclusive patented "MAGIC INCH," cleverly concealed in a bite proof nylon stem.

It's Not a Filter

The "Magic Inch" is not a filter that gets soggy and loaded with foul smelling goo. A soggy, foul smelling filter transmits its stale foul odor into each successive puff of smoke, creating more problems than it solves.

It's Not a Trap

The "Magic Inch" is not a trap collecting moisture that gurgles with every draw. It is not a trap that must be cleaned after every smoke.

It's Almost Magic

Not my magic but NATURE'S OWN MAGIC. Warm winds pick up moisture by evaporation from the oceans, lakes, rivers, and streams, lift it high into the atmosphere where the cooler upper air squeezes it into drops of water that fall back to earth in its most perfect state of purity. Just as the colder upper air of the atmosphere causes rain, the cool air entering the "Magic Inch" chamber through the special louvers of the patented Carey stem, causes immediate condensation of the moisture in the smoke where it drops to the bottom of the chamber, is absorbed by the natural fiber sleeve of the "Magic Inch," and in turn, is evaporated into the outside air. No accumulation ever remains to form sludge or slugs of bitter tasting goo. The "Magic Inch" also mixes purifying oxygen with the smoke from the tobacco, in perfectly controlled proportions, cooling the smoke, eliminating all tongue bite, and creating MELLOWNESS, MILDNESS, and SWEETNESS that was never before enjoyed in pipe smoking.

Today, over one hundred and fifty thousand pipe smokers smoke Carey Pipes almost exclusively. They all got started by accepting my most unusual offer to test a Carey Pipe for 30 days, without any risk on their part whatsoever.

They were all granted the same option which is yours also. After 30 days, if you agree that the Carey Pipe is the best smoke of your life, you may keep it; if you don't agree, whack it with a hammer and return the broken pieces to me. The trial has cost you nothing! How many businesses are that sure of their product?

A Psychiatrist's New Look at Housewife Boredom

By Dusty Sklar

I sometimes get so lonely," a young woman once told me, "that I go out and sit through a PTA meeting just to be with people." If you've ever sat through any organizational business meeting, you know how lonely that is.

It's odd to think of eventlessness as causing anxiety, but Psychiatrist Robert Seidenberg has described the feelings of panic, dread and impending disaster which a young suburban housewife may experience even when the conditions of her life are quite stable and secure. It's apparently the anticipation of more and more "eventlessness," the absence of stimuli, challenge, choices, decision-making, which can threaten one's well-being as much as a physical danger. The "something" that a housewife may dread is that "nothing" is going to happen—and for a long, long time. The future will be only a continuation of the past, and it will be bland, banal and confined.

Dr. Seidenberg describes a patient, a married woman with young children living an apparently well-adjusted life. The young woman's complaint is: "I'm afraid something is going to happen, but I don't know what it is." Dr. Seidenberg soon discovers that the woman's life lacks any sense of challenge or adventure. Ironically, she feels herself unaccountably threatened by some nameless danger. During the course of her psychoanalysis, it becomes clear that she has been caught in a secure trap. Her life is devoid of deprivation, predatory human beings or ferocious animals. Absence of challenge, decision-making, problem-solving would be her destiny.

"When a person has nothing to look forward to but an uninterrupted continuation of life, she may suffer the same feelings of helplessness as if she were overwhelmed by some external force."

This very absence of stimuli can have the same effects as an actual physical danger. When a person has nothing to look forward to but an uninterrupted continuation of life, she may suffer the same feelings of helplessness as if she were overwhelmed by some external force. Because she can't name the enemy, she is doomed to accept a passive role with a creeping sense of inferiority.

But why this increased dissatisfaction at a time when the feminist movement has made it possible for more and more women to fulfill themselves outside the home? Why now, of all times, should there be a greater incidence of suicide among the female population than among the male population?

Today, even though the average woman is still a "private person," she is excited and stimulated by the desire for a public life, which is still burdened by social and psychological penalties. It is also burdened by what Martina Horner, former Harvard psychologist and now president of Radcliffe, calls the "fear of success." The will not to succeed increases with a woman's ability. A major reason for this fear may be that success outside the home is still considered unfeminine.

What can a woman who faces the trauma of eventlessness do to extricate herself? How can she prevent the possible loss of self?

1. Recognize the dangers.

Dr. Seidenberg feels that the anxiety itself is "salutary and self-preservative." His own particular patient withdrew from the role of shopper and hair-dryer captive to become a door-to-door canvasser for a research corporation in a dangerous inner-city neighborhood. "Plagued by anxiety in supermarkets and beauty salons," says Dr. Seidenberg, "she suffered no fear in this 'outside' work, only exhilaration, giving evidence once again that the overriding danger to her existence lay in the 'safety' of the housewife's role."

Sociologist Robert Coles says that what a child needs more than anything else is his parents' "support, concern and help." And yet: "These days, I feel a cultural pressure not to be absorbed in my child," says Ann

Roiphe, author of "Up the Sandbox." Young women such as this one are not well served by a society which insists that all of life's prizes are won by those who are successful outside the home. "The new tolerance," says Mrs. Roiphe, "should ultimately respect the lady who wants to make pies, as well as the one who majors in higher mathematics."

And, also on the positive side, Margaret Mead points out that the home still "has areas of freedom that are almost wholly lacking in much American employment."

2. Encourage yourself and others to take the job of child-rearing seriously. It has never been more difficult, nor more denigrated. Love is, unfortunately, not enough in bringing up children well. The job requires all your intelligence and conscious effort, a putting-in-order of your own emotional state.

3. Finally, don't ignore your private dreams. If you can, decide what it is you really want to do in life—and if you can't just go out and do those things now, perhaps there is some way you can work toward them—day by day by day.

Jobmanship

Business Clichés That Could Spell Trouble

ONE MISTAKE AND YOU'RE OUT!

Some of the slogans you may hear at work sound more sensible than they really are. Writing in a leading management publication, Fred Fisher, Vice President of National Training and Development Service, points out that comments like "Have you checked the company policy on that?" or "Does it square with the organization chart?" can often kill good ideas. You can add to profits or cut costs if you'll stop reacting to new ideas with the above remarks. When you hear your bosses insisting that "If there is one thing we believe in, it's competition," look around and see if they're talking about competition with other companies or internal competition in which every department is busy competing. In cases where your boss has the attitude, "We've got to minimize our risks," realize you're not going to learn very much on this job. A risk-minimizing atmosphere means your boss might expect you to forget aggressiveness and stick to company tradition. The boss's next step may be: "One mistake and you're out." This, Fisher says, can be one of the most dangerous of business clichés. Mistakes are a cost of doing business in an aggressive outfit and should be brought out in the open and worked on. But under the "one mistake and you're out" attitude, people naturally will do anything to hide and disguise their errors. So the business loses and no one learns.

Sociologist Robert Coles says that what a child needs more than anything else is his parents' "support, concern and help." And yet: "These days, I feel a cultural pressure not to be absorbed in my child," says Ann

Roiphe, author of "Up the Sandbox." Young women such as this one are not well served by a society which insists that all of life's prizes are won by those who are successful outside the home. "The new tolerance," says Mrs. Roiphe, "should ultimately respect the lady who wants to make pies, as well as the one who majors in higher mathematics."

And, also on the positive side, Margaret Mead points out that the home still "has areas of freedom that are almost wholly lacking in much American employment."

2. Encourage yourself and others to take the job of child-rearing seriously. It has never been more difficult, nor more denigrated. Love is, unfortunately, not enough in bringing up children well. The job requires all your intelligence and conscious effort, a putting-in-order of your own emotional state.

3. Finally, don't ignore your private dreams. If you can, decide what it is you really want to do in life—and if you can't just go out and do those things now, perhaps there is some way you can work toward them—day by day by day.

Jobmanship

Business Clichés That Could Spell Trouble

Some of the slogans you may hear at work sound more sensible than they really are. Writing in a leading management publication, Fred Fisher, Vice President of National Training and Development Service, points out that comments like "Have you checked the company policy on that?" or "Does it square with the organization chart?" can often kill good ideas. You can add to profits or cut costs if you'll stop reacting to new ideas with the above remarks. When you hear your bosses insisting that "If there is one thing we believe in, it's competition," look around and see if they're talking about competition with other companies or internal competition in which every department is busy competing. In cases where your boss has the attitude, "We've got to minimize our risks," realize you're not going to learn very much on this job. A risk-minimizing atmosphere means your boss might expect you to forget aggressiveness and stick to company tradition. The boss's next step may be: "One mistake and you're out." This, Fisher says, can be one of the most dangerous of business clichés. Mistakes are a cost of doing business in an aggressive outfit and should be brought out in the open and worked on. But under the "one mistake and you're out" attitude, people naturally will do anything to hide and disguise their errors. So the business loses and no one learns.

"My husband laughed when I came home with Bantron. He said a person has to quit smoking on their own will power. Now he isn't laughing anymore."

This is from Mrs. Lori Helmlinger (right) of Anna, Ohio, a two pack a day smoker for over twenty years. With the help of Bantron® Smoking Deterrent Tablets she quit for good in just six days. In actual clinical tests of Bantron among smokers who wanted to quit, more than 4 out of 5 did so easily and pleasantly in 5 to 7 days. Bantron is not habit forming and does not affect your taste in any way. It works by acting as a substitute for the nicotine in your system. Try Bantron. Thousands of people all over the world have quit with its help. You can get a 7 day supply at your drug store now—enough to do the job.

Can You "Track" the Criminal Mind?

True or False?

Children who participate in athletics are less likely to become delinquent. (See number 2.)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. People who believe society is to blame for a criminal's behavior have a different view of life from people who believe the criminal himself is solely responsible.
2. Children who participate in athletics are less likely to become delinquent.
3. When a person departs from the straight and narrow, his personality-type determines the kind of crime he will most likely commit.
4. There are certain signs in children which are predictive of violent or anti-social tendencies.
5. Nobody knows just why vandals want to destroy things.
6. You can reduce your vulnerability to crime without a revolver under your pillow.

ANSWERS

1. True. Psychological studies at Yale and at the University of Chicago have found that people tend to be divided into two psychological types: the Externals, who tend to attribute responsibility for their own and other people's acts to external forces outside their control, such as environment, luck or social conditions in general; and the Internals, who tend to assume responsibility for their own acts, believing that whether the individual deserves praise or blame depends largely on his own efforts and personal motivation. Investigations have shown that this is true even in attributing blame for auto accidents.
2. True—according to studies of high school students. It's suggested that this is because athletics "provide greater exposure to non-delinquent influences, stronger social controls, and that athletics result in less pressure toward rebellion, less boredom and less need to assert masculinity through deviant behavior." Another investigator concludes from his findings that if it were not for interest in interscholastic sports, there would be a marked increase in dropouts and various forms of delinquency.
3. True. Criminals have been found to have particular psychological attitudes that have a great influence on their choice of criminal behavior. This explains why there are specific types who specialize in pocket-picking or robbery with violence or fraud. Such criminals usually find themselves incapable of committing a different kind of crime. Thus the law-abiding citizen may take what consolation he can from the fact that the pickpocket isn't likely to try to sell him some phony oil stocks.

4. True. Studies show that a triad of behavioral symptoms—setting fires, chronic bed-wetting and mistreatment of animals—is indicative of an antisocial personality in the making. If a child shows these signs, the alert parent will recognize them and realize that the child needs special guidance and understanding.

5. False. Psychological studies show that they do it because, to them, it is exhilarating and exciting and provides a means of hitting out at society, which they feel has stacked the cards against them. As one authority who has completed an investigation of the causes for vandalism observes, "Our research indicates that the physical act of smashing, banging and breaking is very pleasurable in itself. For people who feel powerless, such acts of destruction are chosen because they have an effect upon some part of the environment and are more easily accomplished than constructive acts."

6. True. Crime studies at the University of Michigan show that the basic step is learning to avoid being a victim. In many crimes, it is the victim's subtle cooperation with the offender which makes the crime possible. Bureau of Social Science Research specialist Lynn A. Curtis cites a typical example of victim participation in armed and unarmed robbery where the victim offers "temptation-opportunities": "A man flashes a roll of money at a bar or restaurant and then makes his way homeward on a dark street at night." It's further noted that the victims in an increasingly large number of thefts and burglaries cooperate with the criminal almost to the extent that an accomplice would—by leaving the keys in their cars, or leaving their houses unlocked.

THE RICE DIET

IT'S A HEALING DIET AS WELL AS A REDUCING DIET

The famous Rice Diet wasn't even designed for taking off fat. It was created as a healing diet. And heal it does.

IT CONTAINS NO CHOLESTEROL

Medical Research has acclaimed a no-fat diet as being of paramount aid in the treatment of certain heart and kidney conditions. Scientists also advocate this program as the basis of a general reducing diet.

The health value of this diet is founded upon the fact that it contains no cholesterol — which many doctors believe dangerous to the heart, kidneys, and blood circulation.

THE DIET REVERSES MUCH DAMAGE DONE BY HEART DISORDERS

Twenty-five years ago our medical establishment was extremely skeptical of the startling discovery that the Rice Diet reverses much of the damage done by blood vessel, eye, heart, and kidney disorders. Without any medication other than a prolonged diet largely composed of unsalted rice, some enlarged hearts grew smaller, blood pressures and blood sugar dropped.

CLAIMS FOR THE RICE DIET VERIFIED BY TEAMS OF DOCTORS

Teams of doctors from leading institutions around the world investigated the diet. They thought that they would scoff at the claims, but they applauded instead. "The question now," concluded a report in one eminent medical journal, "is not 'Does the diet work?' The question is 'How does it work?'"

FAMOUS PEOPLE HAVE ENDORSED THE RESULTS OF RICE DIETING

"I truly would have died if I hadn't gone" on a program of rice dieting, says the wife of a former state governor. "I was seriously ill and weighed 230 pounds." She dropped 80 pounds in 19 weeks, and her blood sugar plummeted as well. (Since the diet is largely carbohydrate, this is one of the mysteries of it.)

A famous singer and movie actor, on the other hand, got hooked on the taste of the diet and lost 80 pounds, too. He still follows the diet every day. Before the Rice Diet, he had been on a high-protein diet for ten years or so: "I used to have to put down a pound of steak before a recording," he says. "Now, I can eat a little rice and sing like a bird."

The complete program brings you essential information and dozens of delicious menus and easy recipes for breakfast, lunch, and dinner.

Kevin Dowling/Frazer Huxford

THE OTHER BARDOT Life at the center

When your older sister is Brigitte Bardot, it's no easy task keeping up. Although Mijanou Bardot can't claim a universal audience, her oversized cushions and 40-foot-long python pillows have become the rage with international celebrities, from film director Roman Polanski to artist Salvador Dali. Said Dali of her creations: "Mijanou's works are far from inexpensive, but when you sit in one of those enormous cushions, it's like sitting in the center of the world, which coming from a surrealist is an unparalleled recommendation. I also have a dozen of her wonderful snakes adorning my coffin which is kept ready for me at all times." Country fresh-looking, with freckles and red hair, Mijanou bears little physical resemblance to her celebrated sister. But a woman who can capture the imagination of a Polanski or a Dali can be nothing short of fascinating.

Hal Linden, star of TV's "Barney Miller," on the connection between cops and TV: "I've always had a tremendous respect for cops, perhaps because I grew up in a rough neighborhood in New York and I wasn't a tough kid. I'm glad to say that I think they're more aware and broad-mined than they were 20 years ago. I recently went out with an anti-crime unit to see what their work was really like. What I learned from that experience was the overriding element of fear that cops have to live with every day if they want to survive." Can crime be curtailed? Linden says: "I think we must stop feeding our kids a diet of 'soft white-bread' TV. All those mediocre situation comedies do is promote false ideas. I'm not saying that realism is the answer, but truth certainly is. I honestly believe that antisocial behavior is directly related to the pap Americans grow up on."

DR. SARAH SHORT Black lights and music

Are "cleaning your plate" and drinking milk really so important for kids? Flamboyant nutritionist Sarah Short says no. Dr. Short, of Syracuse University, says: "The myth that the fat baby is a happy one is false. Generally, all that happens is that they grow up to be fat, unhappy adults. Just as we think of the healthy adult as slim and trim, we should think of our young the same way. As far as feeding cow's milk to babies is concerned, it is difficult for the young baby to digest the tough protein curd which is found in cow's milk. Breast feeding is the optimum solution, although most infant formulas are just as good. I'd also like to correct the myth that cow's milk is the perfect food to give our children since it is practically devoid of the large amounts of iron and Vitamin C which are essential for both children and adults." Dr. Short, who feels that nutrition has been a badly neglected subject ("it's not even taught in most medical schools"), decided on a new approach. "I paint formulas on my legs in fluorescent colors and run as many as 11 slide projectors simultaneously along with black lights and music. This is part of a teaching experience to attract the students' attention. As a result, their grades have improved dramatically and my classes are overcrowded." Dr. Short, mother of three, acts as a consultant to Mead Johnson and Co. Her latest book is "Innovative Teaching of Nutrition."

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY By Richard Armour

QUITE A CARD

When we first wed, my wife and I Enjoyed a bridge club. Don't ask why. She still plays bridge, I never do. Bridge as a waste of time, I view. I once held hands that all admired And bid as high as I desired. But cardboard hands are not for me, My wife I think would now agree. I tell her (you might try this, sirs) The best hands I have held were hers.

If your mind should go blank, don't forget to turn off the sound.

—Dorothea Kent

The bride of a struggling young writer was the hit of the evening at a party.

"She's charming!" the hostess said enthusiastically to the husband. "And her dress is a poem!"

"Not a poem," answered the young writer gloomily. "Sixteen poems, five short stories, nine essays and three advertising brochures."

—Thomas LaManca

—Conrad Fiorello

A mountaineer, seeing his first motorcycle on the road, raised his rifle and shot away. "Did you get that varmint?" his wife asked.

"Hit it, but didn't kill it," he said. "I can still hear it growling—but I shore made it turn that poor man loose!"

—Lucille S. Harper

Last week we had a party for Ruth, who was retiring after five years as a cook in our nursery school. I explained to the children that she would be leaving us. The whole idea amazed one little boy, who asked, "Is Ruth going out of business?"

I got a fascinating piece of direct mail this morning. It said: "Are you one of the three million Americans who can't read?"
